MILITARY CHIEFS PLAY 1965 CURBS ON AIR STRIKES

U.S. MILITARY CHIEFS believe the United States would be nearer victory in Vietnam if they had been granted authority for swift and massive air strikes against 94 key north Vietnamese targets in 1965, Congressional testimony disclosed Wednesday. But they told the Senate Preparedness subcommittee civilian bosses vetoed their plan that would have permitted a sudden air blitz rather than a gradual increase in air pressure which they claimed allowed the Communists time to build up their antiaircraft defenses.

The testimony by Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force Chief of Staff, and Adm. T. H. Moorer, Chief of Naval Operations, added fuel to the five-day-old Congressional furor over the Vietnam war.

CONGRESS PUTS GOVERNMENT BACK IN BUSINESS

CONGRESS, STILL SQUABBLING over spending cuts and higher taxes, stopped long enough yesterday to put the government officially back into business.

First the Senate, by voice vote, and then the House, by unanimous consent, approved stopgap financing of federal departments which have been penniless since Saturday. But Republicans served notice they had not abandoned their fight to impose a reduction of at least $5 billion in President Johnson's spending plans for the current fiscal year.

WAR PARTS LACK FORCES AUTO STRIKE ARMISTICE

A PARTS SHORTAGE which threatened to interfere with the war in Vietnam forced the United Auto Workers yesterday to call a limited armistice in its nation-wide strike against Ford Motor Co.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther, after receiving an "urgent" wire from the Pentagon, agreed to send several workers into two Detroit area parts depots to "check" on the situations. Ford Vice President Malcolm Denise said a "wide variety" of parts were involved in the war effort. The parts were produced before the strike began 28 days ago.

POLL SAYS ROCKY-REAGAN WOULD SWAMP LBJ TICKET

A REPUBLICAN SLATE with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for President and California Gov. Ronald Reagan for Vice President would overwhelm a Democratic Johnson-Humphrey ticket, the latest Gallup Poll indicated yesterday.

If such a contest were held today, the American Institute of Public Opinion said in a copyrighted report, the Rockefeller-Reagan ticket would win 55 per cent of the vote to 41 per cent for Johnson-Humphrey, with another four per cent undecided.

SENATE KILLS JOB PROGRAM FOR SLUMS

THE SENATE KILLED an emergency $2.8 billion job program for slum dwellers that liberals had tacked onto the antipoverty bill against President Johnson's wishes.

A rare coalition of budget-conscious administration supporters and conservatives critical of costly "make work" schemes joined forces to defeat the plan by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., to create a half-million public service jobs in the ghettos in the next two years. By a 54-28 roll call vote, the Senate approved a motion by Sen. Robert W. Byrd, D-W. Va., to strip the Clark plan from a bill authorizing a one-year, $2.2 billion extension of the war on poverty.

The State

IT'LL BE LONBERG VS. HUGHES TODAY

ACE JIM LONBERG will carry the hopes of the Red Sox to even their series with the St. Louis Cardinals at one apiece today as the 22-victory pitcher goes against Dick Hughes, the Cards' rookie winner of 16 games. The Red Sox lost the opener yesterday at Fenway Park to Bob Gibson, 2-1, with courageous Jose Santiago taking the loss. Meanwhile, the Las Vegas oddsmakers are making the Cardinals 3-1 favorites to win the series, but the second game today at the Fens is rated even money. Another item of interest was the extra batting practice Carl Yastrzemski took a half hour after yesterday's game along with Rico Petrocelli, Ken Harrelson and Joe Foy. All four players were hitless against Gibson.

NAVY FLIER KILLED IN HOLBROOK CRASH

A NAVY PILOT was killed yesterday in Holbrook when he bailed out of his crippled jet fighter-bomber at low altitude and his parachute failed to open fully. The plane, a Douglas A4D "Skyhawk," a single-engine, single-seat craft, crashed into a wooded area not far from a trailer park on Pond St.

OLD MARINER TO BE PICKED UP TODAY

A 71-YEAR-OLD MARINER who completed two-thirds of his journey across the Atlantic in an 11½ foot boat, was to be picked up today from a Polish trawler by the Coast Guard, it was announced in Boston yesterday.

William Willis left Montauk Point, N.Y. June 30. After traveling some 2,000 miles he radioed for help, and on Aug. 27 was picked up by the Polish fishing trawler Belona. The Belona was headed for George's Banks, and the cutter General Greene was to pick up Willis and take him to a New England port.

TED KENNEDY RAPS WESTOVER BASE POLLUTION

SEN. EDWARD M. KENNEDY asked Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara yesterday for a full report on the refusal of Westover Air Force Base in Chicopee, to comply with federal anti-pollution directives.

The Interior Department reported last week the air base had not complied with the recommendations made by the secretary on reducing pollution of the Connecticut River at the Dec. 2, 1963 Conference on Pollution of the Interstate Waters of the Connecticut.

ENGLAND'S LABORITES CONDEMN U.S. VIET POLICY

ENGLAND'S LABOR PARTY, ignoring urgent appeals by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government, publicly condemned American policy in Vietnam yesterday. In a resolution adopted by a vote of 2,752,000 to 2,633,000, the Labor party's 66th annual conference called on the British government to "dissociate itself completely" from U.S. policy in Vietnam. It also demanded "immediate permanent and unconditional ending" of U.S. bombing of the north, called for withdrawal of all foreign troops and reunification of Vietnam "under a government chosen by the Vietnamese people."

COMMUNISTS CONTINUE PULLBACK OF DMZ GUNS

COMMUNIST ARTILLERY was still being pulled back from the demilitarized zones between the Vietnams today as plucky U.S. Marines in battered Con Thien were breathing easier after enduring a barrage of shells which at the height of the Red attack last week reached 1,000 rounds during a 24-hour period.

American B52 bombers kept up their pressure on the withdrawing North Vietnamese and smaller tactical fighters raked the Communists. U.S. spokesmen said one of history's most massive bombardments "broke the backs" of the Reds. Another factor was the flooding of the Ben Hai River which denied the Communists access to ammunition.

NIGERIAN FORCES CAPTURE REBEL CAPITAL

THE NIGERIAN GOVERNMENT said last night its troops had captured Enugu, the stronghold capital of the eastern region which seceded and formed the "Republic of Biafra."

Enugu had been the target of a week-long three-pronged advance by federal forces attempting to break the secessionist move and restore the integrity of the former British colony.

David O. Fletcher was installed as the new commander of the George D. Carson Post 141 of the American Legion last Saturday at annual installation ceremonies at the Newton Centre Women's Club.

State Commander Leo F. Malloy was the installing officer assisted by Dept. Sgt. at Arms Frederick Driscoll, past commander of the Natick Post.

The Dept. of Mass. AL Honorary Guard presented the new

Newton Graduates 31 In Police Class

New police officers from Newton, Waltham and Brookline learned last Thursday that their toughest job as patrolmen will be in the field of public relations.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas, of Newton, speaking at the graduation exercises of the Newton Police Academy in ceremonies at the War Memorial in Newton City Hall, also told the 31 graduates that the individual police officer on the street is a representative of municipal government.

A Nice Story About Nice, Nice People

One of those "nice" stories that every once in awhile come out of the horror of war was revealed in Newton this week.

It concerns sick little children, a tough Army major, his mother and a few, anonymous Newton merchants.

Between them they have made the lives of a few sick children just a wee bit brighter; not too much, but a little bit better.

The children are among the population of a leprosarium at Long Binh, South Vietnam.

Major Joseph A. Barry, III is with the U.S. Army Vietnam Provost Marshal's office stationed at the Long Binh post. The plight of the little ones at the leprosarium so impressed him that he wrote to his mother, Mrs. Joseph A.

Boys' Club Starts New Banner Season

The Newton Boys' Club has opened its doors for another season of service to boys of the community.

As in the past, the Club offers a wide variety of activities for boys of all ages. By providing a well-rounded program of wholesome activities with proper supervision, the Boys' Club seeks to create an environment in which qualities of character and leadership are given a chance to develop.

According to Pat Proia, Program Director at the Newton Boys' Club, the main objective of the Club's program is "to provide the boys with an opportunity to develop basic skills in areas of interest to them, and in this way help them to develop a sense of responsibility to themselves and to others."

"We feel that by stressing qualities such as sportsmanship, cooperation, perseverance, and honesty, we can help the boys not only build better lives for themselves, but also to become valuable assets to the community as a whole."

The degree to which we accomplish this goal is our measure of a successful season," he said.

The "man in charge" at the Newton Boys' Club is Samuel Crocetti, its executive director.

This year, Mr. Crocetti will also serve as executive

Jews Observe Start Of Year 5728 Today

Jews the world over last night began a 10-day period of prayer and penitence with the blowing of shofur, the ram's horn, marking the start of the year 5728, according to the ancient Hebrew calendar and the Day of Judgment.

Observance of Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New

Year, starts the solemn period of self-appraisal for the faithful of the Jewish religion, leading to the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur, most sacred of High Holy Days, commencing at sundown Oct. 13.

Men, women and children thronged to local temples and synagogues last night to offer prayers and participate in services inaugurating the start of Rosh Hashanah—head of the year—which will be observed.

15-7 Vote Finds Rubbish Pick-Up Still A Problem

Newton residents who have to figure out what to do with rubbish that piles up for two weeks when their regular collection day falls on a holiday will have to continue to do so.

The Board of Aldermen on Monday night denied by a vote of 15 to 7, with one member absent, a request from the director of public works for a $6,000 appropriation to pay for collections on the days following Columbus Day and Thanksgiving.

Alderman Louis Egelson stated that the $6,000 would only cover the costs for the rest of this year and that it would cost about $30,000 to pay for such service following holidays for a full year.

Alderman Alan Barkin who had recommended pickups after delays caused by snowstorms argued that this was actually a request from Mayor Monte G. Basbas who receives most of the complaints.

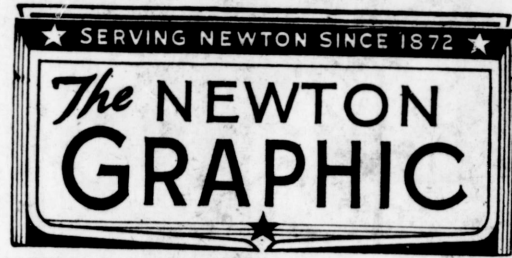

Barkin noted that rubbish collection is the only way in which many citizens actually see their tax dollars at work.

Alderman Egelson pointed to the many needs of the city and felt that there were other priorities.

In other matters, action on an offer of $10,000 from the Norumbega Council of Boy Scouts for the old fire station on Beacon St. in Waban way delayed by a charter objection by Alderman Warren A. Sutherland.

There were some questions about the technical details of the offer having to do mostly with a necessary zoning variance that would have to be approved

Appropriation Sets 'Go' School Signal

The Newton Board of Aldermen set the machinery for a new Newton High School in motion by unanimously appropriating on Monday night $131,000 for preliminary plans and studies.

However, some slight braking action may have been applied by passage of a resolution seeking information about the "possible continued use of the present Building Three of Newton High School as a part of the new physical plant."

Secretary of State Kevin H. White is faced with problems which never before have confronted a candidate standing for election as Mayor of Boston.

Kevin White was brought up in a political atmosphere. During his boyhood his father, the late Joseph C. White held public office continually.

As a youngster he was no stranger to campaigns. His father won one election after another for places

As Alderman

Newton attorney Peter F. Harrington is a candidate for Ward 2 Alderman-At-Large. One of the two alderman-at-large positions is vacant due to the decision of one of the incumbents not to seek reelection.

Harrington received 12,000 votes and was runner up in the 1965 city election when campaigned for the same office.

A Newtonville homeowner, he resides at 157 Lowell avenue with his wife and three children.

He is a partner in the Newton law firm of Matthews, Nicolazzo and Harrington, with law offices in West Newton, and is a member of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court and the Federal District Court.

In making his announcement, Harrington said "In view of the complexity of modern city government, the availability of State and Federal funds, and the growing pains a modern community of 90,000 people has, I feel that it is necessary that we:

(1) Make a complete study of our municipal structure to take advantage of modern practices, laws and theories related to modern city government;

(2) Re-evaluate our zoning ordinances to reconfirm our commitment to preserve our residential areas to provide designated available areas for necessary capital investment; and

(3) Update our municipal facilities for adult and youth (teenage) recreation."

Harrington also said, "The problems of off-street parking, disposal of solid refuse and a permanent conservation program are areas which must be given special consideration during the next two years."

Active in charitable and civic service, he is a member of the board of directors of United Cerebral Palsy and the Newton Chairman for its forthcoming 1968 Fund drive. He also serves as the treasurer of the Newton Youth Center Committee headed by Judge Julian L. Yesley, is a member of the Community Council, and was recently elected vice president of the Providence College Alumni Association of Greater Boston.

Aucoin Seeks Ward 3 Post As Alderman

Charles E. Aucoin of 14 Parsons street, West Newton, is a candidate for election as Ward Alderman from Ward 3 in Newton.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Aucoin told the Graphic: "Living in Newton all my life has given me a keen perspective of the problems that we as residents of Ward 3 and of the entire city of Newton face. The spiralling tax rate is not a myth, but an economic fact of life that we all must face."

"My background in the field of accounting and finance plus by graduate research studies in municipal spending should prove a valuable asset in enabling me to approach the financial problems facing our community on sound economic principles."

"As a resident of Ward 3 for the past 25 years, I am particularly concerned with the problems revolving around the level of business activity and the growth of automobile traffic in the already congested area surrounding West Newton square, the safety of our children in the areas adjacent to Chesebroke Brook, the maintenance of property rights and the increasing rate of crimes against personal property."

Aucoin said also "Newton, for years, has had the reputation of being a fine community in which to live and have our children educated. It is my sincere desire to continue and expand this proud tradition through the maintenance of sound local governmental practices."

Aucoin is a graduate of the Newton public school system. He attended the Franklin, Frank Ashley Day and Newton High Schools. He was graduated from Babson Institute where he earned both his bachelor and master's degrees in the field of business administration.

Long active in civic and community affairs, Mr. Aucoin participated in the March of Dimes and the Leukemia Fund Drive and currently is directing the small business drive for the Massachusetts Bay United Fund. # Integrity Reaffirmed

Thus, it came to pass in the Year of Yastrzemski, 1967, that the pennant flew high from the battlements at frenzied Fenway, the baronial home of the Knights of Yawkey, champions of the American League.

The pennant, unsullied and unstained, was hoisted proudly by the costumed Knights of distinctive Red Sox as each gave thanks to their guardian Angel for their assistance and comfort.

Which brings us down to earth and out of our delirious, feverish, crazy, mixed-up dream of last Sunday and back to the world of reality. And the reality is that once again the professional game of baseball and its participants have reaffirmed the meaning of the word "integrity."

Contemplate for a moment, the facts and figures, dollars and cents. The California Angels, a fifth place team, will receive a share from the World Series revenues.

They would have received a larger share of the purse if the Detroit Tigers were the pennant winners because of the simple fact that Briggs Stadium in Detroit holds about 10,000 more spectators than Fenway Park.

But the Angels, led by the Right Honorable William Rigney, in every sense of the title, never let up, never slackened in their determination to play the best they knew how — to make the better team win — to make sure that only a championship team would be the American League champions.

Not only the Angels showed that determination and integrity, but so did Kansas City and Washington, second division ball teams, who knocked out the White Sox of Stanky from the Windy City.

We were lucid for a time but now find ourselves slipping back into that fever-induced dreamland. What is that new pennant being raised on high? We can't quite make it out. Oh, those impossible dreams!

Beware Bureaucracy

If Congress suddenly passed legislation repealing that part of the Constitution guaranteeing all Americans the right to trial by jury, the reaction would be so violent revolution would prevail.

Well, right now in Congress, a measure is moving quietly and forcefully through the legislative process which would take away from employers, in controversies with respect to "equal employment," the right to trial in court.

As is well known, provisions for "equal employment opportunity" are a part of the Civil Rights Act enacted by Congress in 1964. Those provisions make it a violation of Federal law for an employer to discriminate, with regard to any aspect of employment, against any person because of his "race, color, religion, sex, or national origin."

Congress carefully stipulated, however, that an employer accused of violating that law would be entitled to a trial in court, specifically the Federal district court of his locality.

The legislation now proposed (H.R. 680 and S. 1308) wipes out that right to a court trial, and gives to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission the power to determine the facts and to adjudge the guilt or innocence of the accused.

The new legislation also takes from the Federal district courts, and gives to the EEO Commission, the power to issue orders and decrees, requiring "affirmative action" on the part of employers, such as the "reinstatement" of former employees and the "hiring" of new employees, with "back pay."

Under the present law, a Federal district court can require an employer to bring forward such of his records as are relevant to a charge under investigation. The new legislation would remove such restriction and would give to the Commission, without limitation, "access" to the employer's "premises" and to all his "records." Severe fines and imprisonment could be imposed upon the employer under the new statute for failure to accord whatever access, and to furnish whatever records, the Commission might desire.

We believe there probably has been no legislation advocated in Congress within recent years that contains a greater danger of injustice and oppression than does this legislation.

The issue is not whether discrimination, with respect to employment opportunities, should be prohibited. That is the law, and it is not now being challenged in any quarter.

The question is whether in case of disagreement or dispute as to an employer's compliance with that law, he shall no longer have the right to a court trial—a right which is not only traditional and fundamental, but which has heretofore been assured to him in the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Men, in the long history of struggle with governmental power, have learned that the painful difference between a trial by court and a trial by bureaucracy is the difference between night and day, and frequently between life and death for a business.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission is not a judicial, nor a semi-judicial body. It considers that it has an "affirmative program" to implement.

We believe that an employer is naive — indeed, stupidly reckless — if he does not realize that this Commission will run rough-shod over him in the accomplishment of what it deems to be its holy "mission."

The prospects under the broad legislation now slipping through the Congressional gristmill are ominous.

Any businessman — large or small — who stands aside and makes no effort to prevent the enactment of this deeply pernicious legislation can hardly complain at the lash which will be laid upon him if it is enacted.

LETTERBOX

Support For Bill

Editor of the Graphic: The League of Women Voters of Newton urges the citizens of Newton to support the Economic Opportunity Amendment of 1967 as reported by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, August 29, 1967. A major floor fight is expected when the bill comes to the Senate this week. We in Newton have a large stake in the success of this bill. The fate of our own Newton Community Action Program rests in the balance.

Since 1964 the League has been studying legislation and program relating to the equality of opportunity. We feel that Community Action programs have stimulated the active participation of formerly apathetic groups in planning their own lives. It takes time, however, to launch something new, and to work out solutions to problems we have never been able to solve before. We feel, therefore, that it is much too soon to give up or to seriously cut back funds.

One reason the "War on Poverty" was declared was that established agencies had failed to do the job. To be sure, a certain amount of administrative untidiness had resulted from CAP, — but in less than three years, a whole series of innovative programs have been initiated.

Here in Newton, for example, our senior citizens are organizing a foster grand-parents program. We have a Head Start program in which the parents contribute enthusiastically in a variety of ways — teacher aid, transportation, ceystets and other health services. There is a groundswell of support among local businessmen to provide work experience as part of our youth program.

These are just a few of the indications of community initiative and participation which have been sparked by CAP. It has taken time to get rolling. Newton established its CAP in 1965, but it took nearly two years of careful planning, organization and mobilization of community support before our first project was funded.

IS THIS THE TIME to dry up this new source of ideas on how to solve a critically important problem by limiting funds, "ear-marking" funds, or "spinning off" Economic Opportunity programs to other agencies? Other agencies have already been delegated the administration of appropriate programs. The point is to maintain the coordinating and initiating role of CAP on the national and local level. NOW is the time to let your senators know where you stand. Do you support the concept of Community Action — planning by the local community for the specific needs of the local community — or do you want Congress to decide what is best for us? Write to Senator Edward M. Kennedy and Edward W. Brooke, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. Your voice counts!

MARGARET L. SMITH, (Mrs. F. Dow Smith) Chairman, Development of Human Resources Committee.

Local Students Named To Tufts Scholar Society

Three local students have been elected to the Society of Scholars at Tufts University. They are Philip Di Gasbarro of 1088 Chestnut street, Newton, Deborah Finkel of 141 Waban Hill road, Chestnut Hill, and Richard Lechtenberg of 457 Parker street, Newton.

Mr. DiGasbarro, a sophomore in the College of Engineering, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Givilio DiGasbarro.

Miss Finkel, a junior in Jackson College for Women, is a member of the Financial Aid Student Advisory Committee and of Alpha Kappa Delta. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Finkel.

Mr. Lechtenberg, a junior in the College of Liberal Arts, is a member of the Pre-med Club and works on WTUR, the campus radio station. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Lechtenberg.

The students were initiated at recent ceremonies on campus.

on the Boston School Committee and City Council and was periodically mentioned as a possible candidate for Mayor even though he never sought the office.

But while Kevin White learned early about the problems and perils of political campaigning, nobody ever taught him how to wage a fight against a woman opponent in a two-candidate mayoralty contest which will command public attention not only in Boston but throughout Massachusetts and across the nation.

White is not alone in that predicament. Nobody else has been confronted with the same problems and been forced to come up with the same difficult decisions, at least not under the circumstances existing in the Hub's current mayoralty struggle.

School Committeewoman Louise Day Hicks is no political novice. She is asking no political quarter because she is a woman. However, White has to face up to the fact that she is a woman and plan his campaign accordingly.

While White has no past guide lines to assist him in mapping his campaign, it seems obvious that he cannot make the same kind of fight against Mrs. Hicks that he would if his opponent were Edward J. Logue or John W. Sears.

In recent years the tone of political campaigning has changed so that a candidate now risks the danger of arousing public displeasure if he goes beyond a point in criticizing his opponent.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson almost lost his battle with Francis X. Bellotti a year ago because he raised the issue of a possible conflict of interest and a sensitivity to public trust.

If that's true when you're running against a man who is a battle-scarred veteran of the political wars and has not been reticent about firing his own searing attacks, how far can you go when your opponent is a woman? Secretary White undoubtedly would give a lot for a precise and guaranteed answer to that question.

Kevin White has never been a roughneck campaigner since he entered politics. In his successful runs for Secretary of State he has concentrated on his own qualifications, his record in office and has largely ignored his Republican opponents.

But in order to win his present fight he must convince a majority of Boston's voters that he would be a better Mayor than Mrs. Hicks. He must spell out how and where he differs from Committeewoman Hicks on major issues. And he must do these things in a manner which does not boomerang because his opponent is both a woman and an extremely skillful campaigner. This is one of White's problems.

The first televised face-to-face confrontation between Secretary White and School Committeewoman Hicks was an unexpected development as far as the two adversaries were concerned.

Both candidates say they went to the television station believing they were to be interviewed individually. Each was surprised when the other showed up. Neither had fully recovered from the rigors of the preliminary campaign. Neither had prepared for a debate.

Their televised encounter failed to produce either any sensational dialogue or any sharp differences between White and Mrs. Hicks on compelling issues. In fact, it was somewhat on the dull side.

Both favor better municipal services, safer and cleaner streets, a government closer to the people and the other things which a candidate almost automatically would be expected to advocate and promise.

Mrs. Hicks differed at the start of the program that one of the implications between White and herself was whether the members of the School Committee should be elected or appointed.

When she was asked to cite some of the issues on which she and White disagreed, she said she believed the School Committee members should be elected and that the right of choosing them should not be taken away from the voters.

It would have been surprising, indeed, if that had been the case since White's father had served with distinction for 14 years as an elected School Committee member. It turned out that it was not the case and that White favors the election of School Boards, so that issue went out the window.

The two mayoralty contenders apparently are not far apart on the question of bussing school children although this would seem to be a matter beyond the scope of authority of Boston's next Mayor.

When Mrs. Hicks emphasized her opposition to the bussing of small children, White said he did not "think we should have a bussing program at all."

Time ran out before White could elaborate on his remarks. Earlier, the two had indicated their opposition to the Racial Imbalance Law, with White asserting that the law should be amended and Mrs. Hicks maintaining that it should be repealed.

Mrs. Hicks declared that un-back in 1962 and that the Racial Imbalance Law was enacted in 1965. He wanted to know why new schools were not built half the seats vacant and promised to bus white children.

Mrs. Hicks replied that the White countered by pointing responsibility for building out that funds for the erection schools during that period of new schools were provided rested with the now defunct

Headlights And Highlights From Newton High School

By KATE SOLOMON

Newton High has initiated a new schedule. Classes are held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday after school. Every Tuesday afternoon there is a faculty meeting. Only Thursdays are left for clubs.

School has been in session for three Thursdays however, so clubs have had sufficient opportunity to make plans for the upcoming year, with their new members. Four clubs in particular are concentrating on service activities.

The Red Cross Club, headed by Elaine Horn, an NHS senior, offers volunteer service to various Newton Blood Mobiles. Every other week, three or four students donate four to five hours, and work in the canteen section, preparing meals, typing, and checking people into the hospitals. Last year, those that participated the most in this program were Elaine Horn, Martin Kennedy (vice president), Steve Aronson (treasurer), Paula Elitov, Jill Arpino, Beverly Tablo, and Andree Boudreau. Margie Gillman is the club's secretary.

According to Elaine, the club also plans to fill a chest of school supplies for underprivileged children, by means of donut sales. The club's members will tutor elementary students and will work at the Veterans Hospital and Newton Wellesley Hospital.

Elaine says that if there is enough interest, Newton High will give a school-wide first aid course. The club, in addition, hopes to give a big function with AFS or another service club.

The Mental Health Club has also planned some educational and productive activities. The club members will visit the Peabody Home and Fernald School where they will either work with the children or observe them, and will participate in a program at Mason Rice and Warren where they will entertain and take care of mildly retarded children. Last year, fifty to seventy-five students took part in this local program.

The club plans to sponsor guest speakers who are professionals in the field of Mental Health and from time to time will show films. There are possibilities that the club will do some tutoring in Roxbury, but nothing as of now is definite. Myra Silverstein is the president of the club, with Sue Karp, Barbara Kotzen and Faye Yanofsky assisting her.

The Human Rights Club, with Jeff Crosby and Ellen Maurice as co-chairmen, Jean Greenburg as secretary and Amity Hall as treasurer are just beginning to make their plans. They will participate in various work projects such as tutoring and working with settlement houses and will sponsor debates, discussions and guest speakers.

The club hopes to organize a draft counseling program conducted by high school students who have taken an American Friends Service Committee (AFSC) course in draft counseling.

The club is also trying to spread anti-war sentiment around the school and hopes to have some of its members attend the Washington peace march on October 21. According to Jeff Crosby, the goal of the Human Rights Club is to, "coordinate high school students with adult peace work in the community."

The American Field Service, often abbreviated AFS, has made many definite plans. On October 3, Bonnie Bell, who spent the past year in Germany and is presently a freshman at Radcliffe, and Carol Richmond, who lived in Holland and now studies at Wellesley College, spoke and showed slides about their experiences abroad. Bonnie was originally from Newton High and Carol was a Newton South student. The AFS chapter meeting took place at the Methodist Church in Auburn.

On December 15, Newton's AFS chapter is sponsoring an exchange day. All Newton High foreign students will spend the day at Newton South, while Newton South's foreign students will visit NHS. That night, AFS members will give dinner parties and then hold a school-wide folk dance.

November 21, the club will give an assembly presenting itself to the school. Throughout the year there will be several folk dances, for, as says club president Kathy Gurd, "They are always quite successful."

Preliminary applications are now available for students wishing to participate in America's abroad program. The finalists, who are not notified until March or April, are not necessarily assigned to a country whose language they speak. They are not expected to get along well for the first four months, being emersed in a language they know nothing about, but according to Kathy, this emersion provides a worthwhile experience.

The officers of the club are, Kathy Gurd, president; Bob Houghteling, vice president; Gretchen Muller, secretary;

Ann Harrar, treasurer; Amy Saldinger, refreshments; and Loeri Gross, who now attends Murray Road, publicity.

The annual sophomore rally was held Thursday, September 21 in the school auditorium. The Newton High Band began the program by marching through the auditorium to the stage and playing "Stand Up and Cheer for Newton High."

Both the tiger, Barry Taileman, and the tiger tamers, Arthur Grillo and Jim Weaver, along with the ten cheerleaders, led the sophomores in the various cheers. The cheerleaders include Sue Conant, captain, Lois Aronson, Betsy Beard, Stephanie Cadiff, Barbara Dangel, Karen Gahn (alternates), Anne Meechem, Barbara Sandler, Janet Turner and Karen Weiner.

The four students who were on the squad last year are Sue Conant, Barbara Dangel, Barbara Sandler, and Janet Turner.

James Ronayne, head football coach at Newton High, spoke at the rally. He stressed the importance of students being present at the games to cheer for the team. Quite a few of Newton High's football games are away, and it is unpleasant to play where you are only booed, he said. Mr. Ronayne gave credit to his players, mentioning the great amount of effort they put in.

Donna Ross, chairman of the Rally Committee, also spoke at the assembly, saying how important it was for sophomores to actively demonstrate their school spirit. The purpose of the Rally Committee, according to the school Orange Book, is "to promote school spirit, and to organize and plan half-time activities and support for athletic events."

This year, the Rally Committee is planning to sponsor a rally every Friday after school and is re-initiating the weekly Newton orange and black day. On orange and black day, every student is supposed to wear either orange or black or both, to show his school spirit and devotion. The committee in addition is selling Newton High buttons and shakers in an attempt to foster more unity and spirit in the school.

The Rally Committee officers besides Donna are Julie Rabinow, Rally; Betty Critch, Publicity; Jackie Rand, vice president and Michell McDonough, treasurer.

The Sophomore Rally closed with the Tiger Band playing "Everything's Coming up Roses," and the percussion number "Tico, Tico." This year since Mr. Peter Cobb moved to Chicago to study, Mr. Jerry Garden is the director. Mr. Garden, assisted by Mr. David Hall, a history teacher at Newton High, plans to mold, not change the band.

Said Mr. Hall, "We must maintain the unique style of the band and also explore new possibilities in marching music and half-time shows." The schedule this year includes an opening day tribute to the Red Sox, as well as "Hat Day" and a world series special now that the Red Sox won the pennant.

The week before school started, the band held a workshop where they had the opportunity to meet their directors and to do a little practicing. Rehearsals, in general, take place during Band, a four period a week class and after school practices. The Drill Masters are Bryan Fullington, and Ronnie Sylvester.

According to Senior Class president Bob Tenant, the class trip to Expo is not expected to make a great deal of money. Its purpose, he feels, is to provide a highlight activity for seniors. Registration ended last Friday, and approximately 250-275 students have signed up.

A tentative calendar of class events has been made for the coming year. The annual senior supper is scheduled for December 9, and the senior Prom will be held June 3 at the Statler Hilton in Boston. Other possible activities include a senior sweat shirt day, senior beach party, and a senior concert featuring some well known musical group.

The Junior class has also been planning various activities. A class breakfast is scheduled for October 10, and will take place in the Drill Shed. The Junior class work day will be Saturday, October 28. The Junior Class will spend their Saturday washing cars, raking leaves and performing odd tasks.

Iris Brass, Jr., class president, hopes to organize a toy drive for the Boston Association for Retarded Children sometime in December. The class is also tentatively planning an all day class trip to someplace in New England, Horseback riding, tobogganing and other winter activities would be on the agenda and there would probably be a dinner and dance that night.

The Junior Prom, under the direction of Ethel Rolbein, will not be formal this year. She feels that long gowns and HEADLIGHTS—(See Pg 28)

Yet each person is individual and each moment unique, related to all others but different from any of them. And as each person is recognized by his special qualities each year is distinguished by its special character.

Some elements of that character are imposed on calendar and community by facts and forces beyond our control. Others are subject to our will, wish and whim.

There are enough of the latter variety to allow us to fashion our times and mold our society in consonance with the standards we profess publicly or practice privately.

I say or rather than and, because the gap between profession and practice is frequently so vast as to engender the credibility crisis which plagues our world in our time.

The faith of Judaism is exactly this: It believes us capable of achieving a more perfect union between the Divine ideal and the day-to-day real, and it believes that each of us is personally responsible for the actualization of that prophetic vision.

May the year ahead be fashioned by our lives into a period of reconciliation and remembered by history as a time of peace.

Israeli-Arab Conflict To Be Theme For Convocation

The first of two Newton Junior College All-College Convocations to be devoted to the current Arab-Israeli problem will take place at 11:00 a.m., Tuesday, October 10, at the Newton High School Auditorium on Walnut street, Newtonville.

"Israel in the Arab-Israeli Conflict" will be discussed by Dr. Arje Latz, member of an active Israeli group in the Greater Boston area.

Dr. Latz is on the staff of the Boston University School of Medicine, doing research in Psychopharmacology. He received a Ph.D. from Boston University in Clinical Psychology in 1963.

A native of Lithuania, he spent his early childhood in his native land, until he was placed in a concentration camp, earmarked for annihilation. Between the years of 1941-1945 he was a slave laborer in various camps until he was liberated from Dachau by the American Armed Forces.

Soon after, Dr. Latz joined the Israeli underground movement, dedicated to the establishment of an independent Jewish state. In 1947, he joined the Israeli army in defense of his country against the Arabs.

Dr. Latz came to the U.S.A. for medical treatment, and he finished his education in this country. He and his family reside in Newton.

This lecture and the following discussion period are free and open to the public.

Gives Testimony In Small Loans Trial In Boston

A loan company official from Newton Centre, Louis Schwartz, of Fellsmead rd., was the first prosecution witness this week in the so-called small loans trial in Suffolk Superior Court.

Schwartz, president of the Community Finance Co., 18 Tremont st., Boston, testified that former State Deputy Bank

Colonial "Arts" To Be Taught At Jackson Classes

Children of Newton's third and fourth grades will have the opportunity to learn by "doing" about candle dipping, cooking, and butter churning — as it was done over one hundred years ago by attending special classes at the Jackson Homestead, the city-owned museum at 527 Washington street.

Classes will be conducted at the Homestead for six consecutive weeks starting Thursday Oct. 5 and Tuesday Oct. 10 at two and three o'clock. Classes will be for one hour each.

Announcement of these Fall History Classes is being made in the Newton Schools and parents are urged to make reservations immediately since the size of classes must necessarily be limited.

There is no charge. Parents of children wishing to attend the classes should call Mrs. William H. Cannard, director-curator of the Jackson Homestead—332-3920.

Comr. Martin J. Hanley allegedly told him, "They better dig up fifty thousand before the regulatory board hearing or else."

The Newton resident explained that in 1957 he was chairman of a committee organized by the Massachusetts Consumers Finance Association to gather and compile statistics for the Small Loan Regulatory Board, which was holding rate hearings that year.

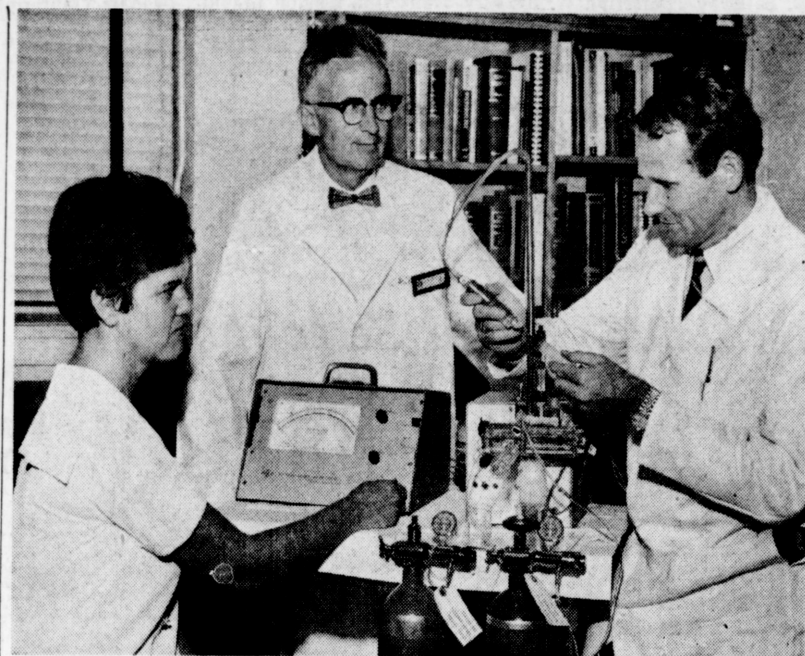

Schwartz testified that Hanley mentioned the "fifty thousand" at a meeting in the Parker House sometime after June 15 in 1957 and that the then state bank official said he would "present a convincing case for a 1.59 or 1.69 interest rate per month" for small loans.

The finance company president said William F. Heath, of Waltham, public relations man for the Public Finance Co., who was at the meeting, told Hanley, "You must be crazy, we could never raise that kind of cash."

Schwartz quoted Hanley as allegedly replying "I might be willing to take twenty-five thousand in installments spread over two years."

Neither Schwartz nor Heath or their companies are defendants in the case.

In other testimony, Schwartz said that later in the summer of 1957 Edward R. Newhall, a public relations man for the Beneficial Management Corp., came to his office with an envelope "for Mr. Hanley." Before he put the envelope away,

DEMONSTRATE BLOOD-GAS UNIT—A blood-gas machine, added during the summer to the life saving armament of Newton-Wellesley Hospital, is operated by three members of the hospital's laboratories of pathology. Miss Marge Dandencault of Waltham, unit head in the hospital's chemistry laboratory, operates the console as pathologists John H. Meeker, M.D. of Wellesley and Arthur W. Duff, M.D. of Boston (right) use a small blood sample to obtain an accurate, rapid calculation.

Blood-Gas Machine Used In Saving Life Of Ill Mother

Recently a young mother was rushed to the special care unit of Newton - Wellesley Hospital.

An acute infective disease paralyzed her respiratory muscles and threatened to shut down her nervous system.

A respirator in the well-equipped special care unit of the hospital assumed the task of breathing for her, of inhaling and exhaling.

Newhall asked him to open it and count the money inside. He did, Schwartz testified and the envelope contained $2000.

Responding to questions asked by Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard E. Bachman, Schwartz further testified that a Jack McHenry, Sr., came to his office with an envelope and he put it in his safe. He testified that Hanley called him later and said, "Louis, I understand you have something for me."

The Newton man said he took the envelopes home and added one of his own containing $500 and gave them to Hanley when the then state bank official came to his home in July of 1957.

Six loan companies and nine individuals are on trial on charges of bribery and conspiracy in conjunction with small loan regulations. The trial is continuing.

But another newer implement was needed, to help doctors sustain the life of the young woman.

During the summer, the hospital acquired a pH/Gas Analyzer. Better known as a blood-gas machine, the equipment electrically measures oxygen and carbon dioxide levels in the blood, as well as the state of acidity and alkalinity.

Normal balances in both instances are essential to the life process.

The blood-gas machine analyzes one or two drops of blood. Moments later, an accurate report is provided.

Previously, a much larger fluid sample was required, and a lengthy, laborious series of manual determinations and calculations were required to obtain a report.

In addition to faster and more accurate reports, the blood-gas machine is sturdy, compact and portable. It can travel to the bedside of a critically ill patient and provide valuable instant information about the patient's metabolic state.

In the case of the young mother rushed to the hospital, repeated tests were necessary during her stay in the special care unit, to assure she received oxygen and expelled carbon dioxide in proper quantities.

According to William S. Brines of Wellesley, director of the 250-bed community teaching hospital, the blood-gas machine has numerous applications.

"Personnel of our laboratories are making determinations in cases such as respiratory, heart, kidney and metabolic diseases.

"The equipment is used frequently and to good effect. Like most equipment added to a hospital, it comes along to do a better job, surer and faster."

The $2,500 blood-gas machine is a forerunner of nearly a million dollars worth of new equipment the hospital will add or will have to add over the next three years, as it builds an opens a new wing.

Architectural drawings are being completed for the new wing and hospital officials envision a November groundbreaking.

Lee Loumos Says:

The American League race has chronicled an almost unbelievable story of tension and suspense — so far out that if a movie were to be made, it would be considered pure fiction. Somehow, and this is not only afterthought, I had the feeling that the Red Sox were destined to fulfill their Cinderella role, and I can't believe anything but they are similarly destined to be the World Champions — and, I am sure, not without some more heart skip for all their rooters. This should be a series for the history books. I just hope, for the multitudes who do not have tickets, that your color TV sets are in prime working order for a long haul. If my ESP is still functioning, I foresee a thrilling seven game series.

Still Time To Register Tots At Community Center

The Newton Community Center announced today that registrations for children in nursery through Grade 6 will be open for the Creative Art Program until Oct. 10. The classes, under the direction of Mrs. Murray Janower, will begin in mid-October and are designed to simulate the imagination and understanding of children of all ages, providing pleasurable creative outlets suitable for their use.

The emphasis of the instructor is on originality of expression and experimentation with new forms of art media. The range and complexity of the media will vary according to age level, but all children will enjoy a variety of visual experiences and materials. An informal study of contemporary "styles" in modern art and "principles" of art (light, proportion, texture, movement, space, design, etc.) will also be included.

In the early grades (kindergarten and nursery through Grade 2) classes will relate art to other fields of expression including music (through simple experiments and discussion), and literature (through dramatization and recreating children's stories and poems.)

Temple Reym PTA To Present Play

Professor Goldblith is Professor of Food Science and Deputy Head of the Department of Nutrition and Food Science at M.I.T. He also is a member of the President's Science Advisory Committee on the Study of World Food Supply and presently chairman of its sub-panel dealing with high quality protein foods.

Women from all Newton Center churches have been invited to hear Prof. Goldblith and gentlemen interested in the many aspects of this problem are also welcome.

Leaders Club Of 'Y' Meets

The Leaders Club of the Newton Y.M.C.A. will meet on Tuesday, October 10th at 3 p.m. This club is organized to help to develop qualities of leadership and a knowledge of working with others, through instruction and practical experience.

The boys learn and practice the habits of health and physical fitness, develop the members' skills and teaching techniques in the program activities taught, while assisting the Physical Department staff in carrying out the objectives of physical education.

This club will be under the direction of Joseph Santy, associate athletic director of the Y. Any questions pertaining to the club will be answered by him.

Advanced nursery and kindergarten class will meet on Tuesday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., beginning Oct. 17. This class is especially for children who have had organized group experiences and for children in afternoon kindergarten in the public schools. Kindergarten children will also meet with Grade 1 students on Tuesday afternoons from 1:15 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. Grade 2 and 3 will meet on the same day from 2:15 p.m. to 3:15 p.m., and there will be an open hour of instruction for mixed grade levels from 3:15 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. on Tuesdays for children who cannot meet at one of the regularly scheduled hours.

Children in the later elementary grades (3 through 6) will be exposed to additional techniques and materials. Their work will be centered around a "problem" or "project," the aim of this program will be to allow each child to see how far his or her imagination can go in designing his work—creating from different art materials as well as from materials of every day life. Grade 3 and Grade 4 will meet on Thursdays, beginning Oct. 19, from 1:30 to 2:45 p.m.; Grades 5 and 6 will meet on Thursdays from 2:45 to 4 p.m.

Classes are limited in size to insure individual attention, and places are filled in the order in which registrations are received. The deadline for registration is Oct. 10. Afternoon classes may occasionally be grouped together for art field trips or special art events inside or outside the Center. No previous experience or talent is necessary, but children who register for this program should have an interest in art.

Mrs. Murray Janower, teacher-director of the Creative Art Program, is a graduate of Barnard College and an experienced elementary and art teacher. In the past she has taught in the public schools of Brookline, Cambridge Center for Adult Education, Project, Inc., of Cambridge, and acted as art and music consultant for children's camp programs. Mrs. Janower suggests that parents of interested children contact the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton (244-2260) for a brochure and registration blank, as early as possible.

Basbas' Campaign Letter Delights Newton Readers

Mayor Monte Basbas, seeking re-election, took steps this week to assure the votes of each philatelist. And even if you don't collect stamps you have to admire Basbas' latest move.

Noting the issuance of the new Commemorative Postage Stamp, "Plan for Better Cities," the mayor quickly made it the theme of a letter to Newtonites.

The new five cent stamp was issued last Monday with ceremonies in Washington, D. C. during a "summit meeting" of international experts concerned with all phases of city life in the year 2017.

Basbas' letter, postmarked from the nation's capital, not only carries the new postage stamp used for this First-Day mailing, but comes in an especially illustrated commemorative envelope.

Opening his letter with the query: "Did you notice the stamp used for this First-Day mailing?" Basbas tells the reader:

"I chose it for this letter to you because it seems to summarize, in part, my efforts as your mayor for the past 20 months.

"For during my administration your city government, business groups and citizens in general helped to develop many exciting plans to build a better Newton, a revitalized Newton Corner business-motel apartment complex over the toll road, a new Newton High School in Newtonville, a renewal of the Lower Falls business district, a new main library, a public golf course at Cold Springs Playground, neighborhood improvement in Upper Falls and a new F. A. Day Junior High School, among others."

The mayor's letter concludes:

"But, of course, there is more to building better cities than 'planning'. There has to be a lot of 'doing'."

"You know, I'm sure, that for 1966 and 1967, there was a lot of doing in Newton: a new Bigelow Junior High School, ground broken for Marriott Motel in Auburndale, a Crystal Lake boating program, expansion and modernization of the Police Department and its equipment, electronic voting, recreational facilities and lighted tennis courts in Oak Hill, to name a few."

The Basbas letter closes with a request for support for his re-election.

Harry L. Walen Seeking Fifth Alderman Term

Announcing his candidacy for election to a fifth term, Alderman-at-Large Harry L. Walen from Ward 5 said, "As never before in our history as a city, there is a need for a continuing and deepening concern for people. The people themselves turn more and more to government to help in solving problems in education, health, old age, housing, job security, and civil rights.

"We cannot debate whether or not the people are right or wrong, in so doing, while we see problems rising to crisis proportions on every side. We can only wonder whether a part of the background of the problems we see does not rise from a failure of people in their own communities to be aware of problems and to involve themselves and their fellow citizens in a humane concern for the needs of others.

My experience as an of the Family Service Bureau, as the first president of the combined Newton Community Chest and Council, Inc.; as chairman of the Newton American Red Cross Disaster Relief Committee; as a two-term director of the Greater Boston Community Chest, and as a teacher and administrator in two of Greater Boston's outstanding high schools has given me a deep awareness of the human needs.

"But not all problems depend entirely on money for their solutions. Matters of zoning that protect open lands for the people, or that ensure property values, or that enable improved and responsible tax incomes from business property can be handled legislatively. Many matters involving the rights of people can be handled through legislative direction and executive action. Co-operative operation among and between city departments, as in the field of purchasing, can lead to improved services for people without additional expense. I know that our present Mayor and Department Heads have sought eagerly to improve communication and co-operation in this direction.

"Many of my votes on the floor of the Board are dictated by concerns such as those voiced above. I am in favor of upgrading our City, but only with the understanding and co-operation of the people who are most directly involved. I am in favor of holding open lands along the Charles River for the recreational and esthetic needs of a primarily residential city in the year 1997 as well as the year 1967.

"I am in favor of a saturation type development of our high-grade business areas and in keeping these areas so improved that high-grade business will want to stay there. I am in favor of a strong public library system with a new central library facility placed where it is best from the point of view of library service to the City, and from no other consideration. I am in favor of a strong public school system that is soundly funded and efficiently managed.

"In many of these areas our City already exhibits leadership; where problems yet wait to be resolved, I shall expect if re-elected to continue to work for what I believe in as good for our City."

Chairman of the Franchises and Licenses Committee during his fourth term, Alderman Walen has been a member of the Public Buildings Committee all four terms, and is a member of the Education Committee. He has been a member of the Mayor's blue ribbon Study Committees on the High School Site and the Junior College.

Alderman Walen is a product of the Newton Public Schools, having entered the Bigelow Grammar School in 1925 and graduated from the Newton High School in 1933. The Walens have been residents of Newton Highlands since 1950. Their youngest son, Robert, is in the ninth grade at Weeks Junior High School.

Kimball, a graduate of Newton South High School and Boston University, is married and currently a graduate student at the University of Michigan. Benson, a graduate of Newton High School and Boston University, is a Lieutenant (jg) in the United States Navy, recently returned from a tour of duty in Vietnam, and currently on assignment in Washington.

Upper Falls Improvement Group Meets

The Emerson School All-Purpose Room was filled to capacity at the first 1967-1968 public meeting of the Upper Falls Improvement Association.

After a brief welcoming of new members, Mr. Philip Dobbey, President of the Association, introduced Sgt. Thomas Dargan of the Newton Police Department.

The subject of the sergeant's talk was law enforcement problems in Newton and how the citizens could assist the police in their work. His presentation was followed by a question and answer period.

Mr. Dobbey then introduced the Executive Board of the Association and summarized the plans and accomplishments which had taken place since the annual meeting last April.

Plans were announced for a fall cleanup campaign which will be held late in October.

The President commented favorably on the results to date of the membership drive with over 200 residents of the area enrolled. Further, Mr. Dobbey urged all members to contact their area representative with any questions or problems they may have.

The Code Enforcement Program, already approved for the Upper Falls, will be the subject of the next public meeting. Date and time will be announced later.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Newton Professor And Wife Return From Germany

Prof. and Mrs. Louis Cooperstein of 44 Whitney road, Newtonville, have returned from a six-week trip in Europe which included visits to several German cities as the guests of the German government.

Principal reason for the trip, Prof. Cooperstein reported, was to attend the first international meeting of German language professors, which was sponsored by the Goethe Institute in Munich.

Prof. Cooperstein, who is chairman of the Northeastern University Department of Modern Languages, also visited several German universities and had conferences with professors and education officials concerning problems confronting universities in both Germany and the United States.

He also outlined the cooperative, work-study program in effect at Northeastern, which is the world's largest institution operating under the co-op program.

Among German cities visited by the couple were Stuttgart, Berlin, Hamburg, Bonn, and Frankfurt.

At the request of Mayor Monte Basbas of Newton, Prof. Cooperstein brought greetings from the city of Newton and presented the mayors of Munich and West Berlin with keys to the city.

Local Families To Host International Students

Early indicators point to a highly successful International Students Weekend this Saturday and Sunday, October 7-8, when Newton families will play host to international students from a broad range of foreign countries.

Approximately 50 Newtonites are expected to open their homes to student visitors, and to date countries represented include Ceylon, Germany, Hungary, India, Korea, Japan, Switzerland, and Thailand.

International Students Weekend is co-sponsored by the Newton Community Peace Center and the Experiment in International Living in Cambridge.

Underlying the program is the conviction that person-to-person contact is one of the most effective ways of fostering international good will.

According to Mrs. Simon Scheff, chairman of the event, the weekend's benefits are twofold. "Students have the chance to experience American community life first-hand," she reports, "and Newton families have the invaluable opportunity of learning in depth about the student's country of origin."

A major event planned for all students and host families is the square dance scheduled for Saturday night at 8 o'clock at Meadowbrook Junior High School.

Individual families arrange additional entertainments for student guests; these typically include baseball or football games, dinners or informal coffees with friends and neighbors, attendance at services for worship, and tours of Newton and surrounding communities.

Families desiring further information about International Students Weekend and the Saturday night square dance may call Mrs. Scheff at 332-5406 or the Newton Community Peace Center office, 332-9110.

MERCILESS SMOKING EXPERIMENTS ON DOGS

A recent Associated Press report told how experimenters produced a serious lung condition in 10 dogs by forcing them to inhale cigarette smoke through plastic tubes inserted in their windpipes.

These dogs were subjected to two smoking sessions a day—the number of cigarettes comparable to human smoking of four packs daily—and these shocking tests were continued for more than a year.

Save us from torture by merciless experimenters

These atrocities were perpetuated on their pathetically helpless victims by a hospital doctor and a United States researcher.

After years of intensive study of the effect of cigarette smoking on human beings and the time devoted and the amount of money thereby spent no additional information of the slightest value could possibly be obtained by such revolting and sinful smoking experiments on dogs. Therefore, the results cannot be interpreted as having any possible relation to the effects of cigarette smoking by human beings.

Roberta Peters Featured In Concert For Hospital Aux.

When Roberta Peters, famed coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, presents a special concert for the Women's Auxiliary of the Beth Israel Hospital, she will be part of that organization's exciting break with tradition.

The concert, to be held Monday, October 23, at Symphony Hall, will replace the fall luncheon as the major event on the Auxiliary's calendar.

Mrs. Bela T. Kalman, chairman of the concert, pointed out that the enthusiastic reception with which the event has been greeted thus far demonstrates that the change has "struck a deeply responsive chord" among the 8,000 members of the Auxiliary. The organization is the largest hospital auxiliary in the nation.

"The early demand for tickets to the concert by Miss Peters has been so great that we all have been stimulated and heartened in our efforts," she declared. "The affair, even at this stage of preparation, seems destined to be an outstanding success."

Both as a concert artist and an operatic prima donna, Miss Peters is regarded as one of the most popular sopranos ever produced by the United States. Although she is still in her mid-thirties, she is this season celebrating her 17th season as a Metropolitan Opera star. Her appearance in Boston for the Women's Auxiliary will come in the midst of her busy schedule which includes leading roles in "Lucia di Lammermoor," "Rigoletto," and as the Queen of the Night in the much talked-about new production of Mozart's "The Magic Flute" designed by famous artist, Marc Chagall.

Proceeds of the concert will go toward the Beth Israel Hospital's Golden Anniversary Fund. The Auxiliary has undertaken to raise funds for the new Surgical Intensive Care Unit, which is designed and staffed to provide 24-hour intensive care for severely ill patients, including surgical cases and those in need of respiratory support.

Working with Mrs. Kalman in planning the concert by Miss Peters is a large group of Auxiliary members. She announced that chairmen of committees include: Mrs. Joseph Gordon, Mrs. Samuel Feinberg, Mrs. Arnold Hiatt, Mrs. Bernard Swartz, Mrs. Charles Schiff, Mrs. Ralph Karol, Mrs. Ehem Weinreb, Mrs. Lep Freedman, all of Newton; Mrs. Murray Pearlstein, Mrs. Bertram Paley, Mrs. J. David Kohn, Mrs. Irving Steinberg, of Chestnut Hill, and Mrs. Mark Werman, Mrs. Harry Davidson, Mrs. Herbert Hoffman, Mrs. David Weintraub, Mrs. Carl Gerstein, Mrs. Phillip Faneuil, Mrs. Walter Cahners, all of Brookline.

The names of other committee members will be announced in future weeks, she added. Mrs. Kalman disclosed that

Report Sees Evidence Here Of Housing Discrimination

Evidence of discriminatory attitudes and practices in Newton toward minority groups seeking housing in the city was reported to the executive committee of the Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights at its recent monthly meeting.

This information was contained in a summary for the parent committee of the intensive effort made during the past summer by its Buyers' and Sellers' subcommittee to locate suitable housing for Negro families desiring to live in Newton.

The subcommittee, chaired by Mrs. Antonio Ruiz, assisted between June 15th and Labor Day a total of 51 Negro families in looking for housing in the city, 21 of whom wanted to buy houses and 30 of whom sought apartments. Of the entire group of 51, the subcommittee was able to help only 3 families actually to locate apartments.

In connection with all three of these successful placements, according to Mrs. Ruiz, there was enough evidence of a discriminatory approach initially to fit within the regulations of the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination. This pattern suggests, she indicated, that Newton is not without problems in this important sphere of community relations.

Mrs. Ruiz emphasized in the report that there is an inadequate supply of public listings of houses for sale and apartments for rent in Newton in relation to present demand, and she urged that Newton residents inform her subcommittee whenever they learn that a housing unit has been made available for sale or rent.

The executive committee also heard a report from its Urban Affairs subcommittee, chaired by Melvin Chalfen, regarding activities undertaken during the summer to acquaint the community with the need for low and middle-income housing units in Newton.

Executive committee actions included decisions to develop a questionnaire for candidates for city offices regarding their stands on issues of equal opportunity and human relations in Newton, and to co-sponsor the 1967-68 series of Community Lectures in Newton and Roxbury.

During its first year, in the Winter and Spring of 1966-67, the Community Lecture Series, co-sponsored by approximately 20 Newton and Roxbury organizations, presented talks by prominent Negro speakers of varying viewpoints on six different occasions. The talks were given in Newton and Roxbury on an alternating basis, three in each community. The same format and the same high caliber of presentation as in 1966-67 will be maintained by the Series for the coming year.

Second In A Row . . .

South Lions And Tsimus Nip Cambridge Latin, 14-6

By LEWIS FREEDMAN
The Newton South Lion football team squeezed out their second consecutive victory of the young season, 14-6, over Cambridge Latin.

The Lions depended heavily on the running talents of George Tsimus as he scored all south points and rushed for 172 yards. His longest run this week was a 28-yarder, following on the heels of a 78-yard run last week.

Senior Noah Bronson led the Lion attack. Regular starting quarterback Tommy Rezzuti was injured in practice the day before the game. Newton South began the scoring in the second period as Tsimus culminated a 53 yard drive in five plays with his first touchdown. The conversion attempt failed.

With a minute and a half left before the intermission, Cambridge scored on a long pass play. Their bid for extra points also failed.

The game remained tied throughout the third quarter, but the Lions took charge on their first series of plays in the fourth period. The Lions drove 75 yards centering their attack around Tsimus' running ability. This time Tsimus' bulldozed his way over from the one. A run around left end followed, again by Tsimus, to add the final two points.

This Saturday, Stoughton journeys to Newton to meet the Lions.

The Newton South varsity and junior varsity soccer teams each brought their season's records to 1-2 as Lincoln-Sudbury trounced both squads, the varsity 9-0, and the JV 4-0.

The varsity game was a rout from the start as Lincoln-Sudbury scored four goals in the opening period. Lion goalie Ned Morse was under a continuous bombardment and there was little he could do. The second period brought only one Lincoln-Sudbury goal, but the onslaught continued in the second half.

None of the Lion players played an outstanding game. Junior Paul Taylor had the Lions' best opportunity on a breakaway, but was stopped by the last man.

The JV game was nearly as frustrating. The Lions never did get their defense untracked and absorbed their second consecutive defeat.

The Lion cross-country season got off to a late start last week, on September 27 vs. Malden High School.

The varsity was defeated in a close race, 28-32. The lack of supporting runners for co-captains Dave Whitney and Jeff Davis proved the Lions' undoing. Whitney took the varsity race in 14:04, an excellent time for the home Mt. Ida course at this stage of the season. In second place, not far behind, was Davis at 14:18. Senior Rick Levin, in fifth, junior Fred Kaye in eleventh, and junior Henry Erlich in thirteenth rounded out the top five Lion finishers.

Accepts Trophy For Club

secretary of the Northeast New England Area Council under its chairman, Giles E. Mosher, Jr., a member of the Newton Boys' Club Board of Directors.

Under Mr. Crocetti's leadership, Newton has set high standards in programming, competitiveness, and overall excellence in organization. This is reflected by the fact that last season, for the third consecutive year, Newton was rated the No. 1 Boys' Club over 16 in the New England area.

This continued domination of inter-Club activities has enabled Newton to retain permanent possession of the Area Council Championship trophy.

Although one of the smallest Boys' Clubs in the area, with a membership just over 700, Newton has fielded several championship basketball and baseball teams as well as competing successfully in areas such as weightlifting, riflery, olympic events, photography, essay writing, bowling, quiz contests, pocket billiards, arts and crafts, and table tennis.

As the Club continues to grow, it continues to expand its program to accommodate the needs and interests of today's youth.

Last year saw the initiation of a Club newspaper, "The Bugle," staffed and edited by the boys themselves; a tutoring program to assist members with their schoolwork in an age when scholarship is of ever increasing importance; and an organized rifle team which swept top honors in all divisions in Area Council competition.

The range of activities offered by the Newton Boys' Club is broad. Because of this, almost every boy will find something of particular interest to him, whether it be wood-working, gymnastics, printing, molding, drawing, or any of a large number of other activities. Each of these activities is supervised by a qualified instructor.

Parents are invited to drop in at 101 Dalby street afternoons and evenings, Monday through Friday, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. or Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to inspect the facilities and meet the staff.

Membership fees are minimal: 50 cents for boys from 7 to 13, and $1.00 for boys 14 to 17 years of age. This fee entitles a boy to the use of all facilities for the entire season.

Midget Patriots Face Brookline Next Saturday

The undefeated Newton Patriots of the Junior Midget Football League, will face Brookline this Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. at the Newton Highlands Playground.

Coach Nick Pasquarosa's Newton team is a contender for the state championship after three successive victories over Belmont, 20-0; Cambridge, 26-12; and Watertown, 32-0.

In last Saturday's game the Patriots rolled up an impressive 32-0 score over a strong Watertown team, as quarterback Bob Kinsella threw for two touchdowns to halfback Peter Percy and one to fullback Dan Ahern. The other scores came on touchdown runs by Percy and a two-point conversion scored on a Percy-to-Ahern pass.

The JV squad took their race, 26-31. Jerry Lewis was the winner in a time of 15:41. Following him were, Wally Milgroom, Bruce Young, Jeff Berman, and Stephen Sahl, in fourth, sixth, seventh and eighth places, respectively.

Theology School Names New Classroom Building

A gift of $450,000 from the Arthur Vining Davis Foundation has enabled Andover Newton Theological School, Newton Centre, Mass., to name its recently-constructed classroom building Davis Hall, in memory of Mr. Davis' father, Perley Bacon Davis, who graduated from Andover Seminary in 1861.

In announcing the gift, Paul R. Dunn, vice president for development, explained, "While Perley Bacon Davis served his 25-year pastorate in the Congregational Church of Hyde Park, Mass., from 1867 to 1892, he helped to prepare many young men for Yale."

In one young man, Alfred Hunt, Mr. Davis saw a potential candidate for what is now M.I.T. Later, when Mr. Davis' son Arthur graduated from Amherst, Mr. Hunt invited him to Pittsburgh and introduced him to a young scientist named Hall. From this meeting came the beginnings of the Aluminum Company of America, the principal source of Arthur Vining Davis' multi-million dollar estate."

Opened in November, 1966, Davis Hall contains three major lecture halls, three medium-sized classrooms and three seminar rooms, an academic facility well-suited to Andover Newton's current enrollment of 500 students. It replaces Colby Hall, built in 1865 for an enrollment of 100 students.

In 1965-66 Andover Newton constructed a three-unit academic complex and a new women's residence hall, at a cost of $1,805,000 of which $300,000 must be raised.

The new structures were made necessary by the increased study body, which has grown from 175 students in 1950 to 506 today. According to statistics compiled by the American Association of Theological Schools, Andover Newton is the fastest growing seminary in the United States and Canada.

tuxedos take away from the novelty of the senior prom. The class rings, which are now being sold, are not limited to the school colors this year. The Junior Class home-room voted to have a wider selection than orange and black.

Forty-five girls recently tried out for the field hockey team. Practices are held every day from 3:00-4:30 or 5:00 and games usually start at 3:00. Newton High is not in a hockey league but plays the same schools every year. On October 3, the Varsity will play its annual scrimmage game at Newton South.

Those on the varsity team from last year are Janet Arslanian, Barbara Case, Sarah Conant, Tina Davenport, Betty Fessenden, Ruth Pigeon, Donna Ross and Nancy Wombolt. The new additions to the team are Lynne Houston, Glenda Lovell, and four sophomores: Margie Drew, Helene Kassler, Maureen O'Halloran and Debbie Suvalle.

The Junior Varsity Team has four returnees from last year: Cheryl Arslanian, Sue Campbell, Peggie Carton and Carol Clinton. The other members of the team are Sue Atkinson, Ellen Cutler, Cathy Daniel, Chris Edwards, Pamela Leary, Shirley Mackay, Martha McDaniels, Barbara Mulcahy, Judy Nesbitt, Beth Stone, Clare Sweeney and Nancy Wolfe. Pamela Brownstein and Diane Kelly made the team but discovered they had other commitments.

by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Finance Committee Chairman John P. Nixon said his committee approved the proposed transaction. The building would be used as administrative headquarters and not for meetings. Part of the facility would be rented to a mental health organization, also for executive headquarters.

Nixon said that the Boy Scout group indicated a willingness to make a contribution to the city in lieu of taxes. He suggested that the matter be held so that Mayor Basch could be given an opportunity to negotiate the details. Nixon recommended that the item be dealt with as quickly as possible since it has been pending for over a year.

Sutherland's charter objection came when it became apparent that the full board seemed unable to iron out technical details in the arrangement on the spot and could not seem to agree on the proper action to take.

The charter objection means postponement of action until the next board on Oct. 16.

The alderman also approved unanimously an appropriation of $156,000 from surplus to the Director of Public Assistance. The money will pay bills which have resulted from the Medicaid Program.

Finance Committee Chairman John P. Nixon pointed out that state reimbursement based on "cherry sheet" figures will not be forthcoming for the balance of the year.

Nixon predicted on the basis of what has happened in the short time it has been in effect that the Medicaid program will prove to be a very expensive one.

less than a minimum income, and that income could be about $9,000 to $10,000, he said.

Newton pays 16 1/2 percent of the costs while the rest is borne by the state and federal governments.

In other action the aldermen approved an appropriation of $1,800 to vaccinate all city employees against influenza.

There was some discussion about the fact that the appropriation did not include members of the School Department.

Alderman Warren A. Sutherland felt that the School Committee could vote a similar plan and use funds from their own budget to pay for the injections.

The Aldermen also approved a rezoning petition by the Newton Housing Authority thereby moving along a proposed 56 unit housing for the elderly project at the site of the old Burr School in Auburndale.

The land was previously unzoned and has now been changed to Residence D District.

Claims and Rules Committee Chairman Franklin N. Flaschner pointed out that the Housing Authority will have to come back to the Board of Aldermen for site plan approval.

He said that the Authority is attempting to arrange the land swap sought by the Corpus Christi Church. The church, which needs more parking area, would like to swap a piece of land on the corner of Ash St. and Commonwealth Ave. for a similar size chunk of the land now part of the housing project proposal.

Flaschner said that further delay in approving the Housing Authority petition might jeopardize federal funds to finance the housing project.

If the land swap is arranged, an amendment could be adopted, he stated.

Registrations Close Soon In Creative Arts Program

Registrations at the Newton Community Center Creative Art program have opened for children from nursery school through grade six. The classes, under the direction of Mrs. Murray Janover of Newton, begin in mid-October. All applications must be in the hands of the Community Center before Tuesday, Oct. 10.

The Art program is designed to stimulate the imagination and understanding of children of all ages, by providing pleasurable creative outlets suitable for their use. The emphasis of the instructor is on originality of expression and experimentation with new forms of art media. The range and complexity of the media will vary according to age level, but all children will enjoy a variety of visual experiences and materials. An informal study of contemporary "styles" in modern art and "principles" of art (light, proportion, texture, movement, space, design, etc.) will also be included.

In the early grades (kindergarten through grade 2) classes will relate art to other fields of expression, including music (through rhythms, songs and listening activities), science (through simple experiments and discussion), and literature (through dramatizing and recreating children's stories and poems).

Youngsters will also participate in such varied experiences as finger, straw, sponge and texture painting, tissue, fabric, pop art and paper magic, collage, gadget, potato, cork and string printing, woodworking, paper mache, puppetry, murals, weaving, sand painting and casting, clay modeling and sculpture and many more.

Advanced nursery and kindergarten class will meet on Tuesday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. beginning October 17. This class is especially for children in afternoon kindergarten in the Public Schools. Kindergarten children will also meet with grade one students on Tuesday afternoons, from 1:15 p.m. to 2:15 p.m.; grade two and three will meet on the same day from 2:15 p.m. to 3:15 p.m., and there will be an open hour of instruction for mixed grade levels from 3:15 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. on Tuesdays for children who cannot meet at one of the regularly scheduled hours.

Children in the later elementary grades, three through six, will be exposed to additional techniques and materials mentioned above (including block and vaseline printing, wax sculpture, cardboard cuts, plaster relief, and many more).

Their work will be centered around a "problem" or "project"; the aim of the program will be to allow each child to see how far his or her imagination can go in designing his work — creating from different art materials as well as from materials of every day life. Grade three and Grade four will meet on Thursdays, beginning October 19, from 1:30 p.m. to 2:45 p.m. Grades five and six will meet on Thursdays from 2:45 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Classes are limited in size to insure individual attention, and places are filled in the order in which registrations are received. No previous experience or talent is necessary, but children who register for this program should have an interest in art.

Mrs. Murray Janover, teacher-director of the Creative Art Program, is a graduate of Barnard College and an experienced Elementary and Art teacher.

She has taught in the Public Schools of Brookline, Cambridge Center for Adult Education, Project, Inc. of Cambridge and acted as art and

Lasell Junior College Lists Big Enrollment

The largest student body in Lasell's one-hundred sixteen years met for convocation exercises Monday morning, September 25th, in Winslow Hall, Auburndale.

"I am very optimistic about you," President Vincent C. De Baun told the more than eight hundred girls.

"You and your contemporaries have already achieved one great spiritual triumph," said President De Baun, "with consequences that reach into every corner of our confused existence: You believe that the thrust of morality has no limit."

He credited today's students with applying morals, "more powerfully and pervasively to prejudice, hypocrisy, violence, fraud, and rapacity" and taking morals beyond earlier generations' concept of their relation largely to sex.

Dr. De Baun stated that a moral life for students today is tough. "There is a rage for disorder in the air," he said, "and a widening gap between man and things."

He cautioned the students that their moral sensitivity would mean very little unless they apply it to their education.

Dr. De Baun urged them to relate their courses and all other student activities "to the real business of living, which is the business of making moral choices." He advised that moral questioning must be developed in the college years.

Classes have resumed at Lasell, amid construction on a new library and finishing touches to a new dormitory.

The following persons have joined Lasell's faculty:

Mrs. Patricia A. Latham, B.A. Boston University, graduate study Brandeis—Instructor in English. A resident of Cambridge, Mrs. Latham has been staff correspondent for the Tanganyika Standard and has written for the Christian Science Monitor. More recently she was a lecturer in freshman composition at Boston University. She also served as tutor in English to the Tanganyikan Embassy staff.

Six Newton residents are on Lasell's faculty:

Miss Patricia E. Ryan, Newton Centre and Lasell Alumna, will be assistant director of Lasell's Child Study Center.

From Auburndale: Mrs. Alexander Samaras, B.A. Radcliffe, M.A. Western Reserve, will instruct in the English Department. She formerly headed the Department of Public Relations at Career College, Boston.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beal, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College with a B.S. degree from Simmons College of Library Science, will be assistant librarian.

Lasell's new assistant Dean in charge of Student Affairs is Mrs. Theodore James. She and Mr. James will reside in Lasell's new dormitory. Mrs. James was formerly Director of Women's Residence and Assistant to the Dean of Salem State College.

Mrs. Frederick L. Stoodley, Bove-Boston School of Physical Education; B.S. Boston University, instructor in Physical Education, formerly at Meadowbrook Junior High School in Newton. She lives in Westwood.

James S. Lohman returns to Lasell as an instructor in History after a year's leave of absence for study at Boston University toward his doctorate. He is a graduate of Washington University with an Ed.M. from Harvard.

Miss Barbara B. Kohler, B.F.A.—Rochester Institute of Technology will serve as an instructor in Art. She has served as an assistant instructor at the DeCordova Museum, Lincoln.

'Open House' On Sunday At Sacred Heart College Here

Newton College of the Sacred Heart will hold an open house for interested Greater Boston high school girls and their parents Sunday afternoon, October 8.

All six residences on the College's Centre St. campus one mile from Massachusetts Turnpike Extension Exit 17 in Newton, will be open for inspection from 2 until 5 p.m.

A number of commuting students will also be on hand at the main administration building, to talk about the College's unusual scholarship program for non-residents.

This non-competitive program provides whatever financial aid is needed to enable any girl who meets the entrance requirements to attend Newton as a commuting student.

Not all of the College's commuting students receive scholarship help, but those who are recipients under this plan have been awarded a total of more than $55,000 in financial assistance for the current academic year.

According to Mother Florence Ashe, R.S.C.J., director of admissions at the liberal arts college, the special scholarship plan gives the opportunity for a first class education at Newton to the good student who is not at the top of her class and, therefore, is usually out of the competition for scholarships.

Mother Ashe emphasizes, however, that a candidate's College Entrance Examination Board test scores must be satisfactory. "From experience, the admissions committee know that a girl who has a score of less than 550 on any test will have great difficulty in doing her work at Newton."

Standing: Mrs. David Krongard, past president; Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, spiritual leader of the Temple; Mrs. Melvin Levin, assistant treasurer.

Newton To Be "Blitzed" For Con-Con Petitions

"Newton will play a major role in the state-wide efforts of the Committee for a Constitutional Convention (Con-Con)," it was announced today by the Committee's State Chairman, Senator John M. Quinlan (R-Dover).

Rep. Irving Fishman (D-Newton) and Donald P. Quinn of West Newton, an attorney associated with the Boston law firm of Goodwin, Procter & Hoar, have been appointed co-chairmen for Newton's participation in the initiative petition drive, to obtain the necessary signatures to place the question on the ballot in 1968.

The proposed Con-Con would be limited to considering changes in the structure of state government, relating to the Executive and Legislative branches. It would not deal with the Judicial branch, church-state relations, or the Declaration of Rights.

"While some constitutional changes have been effected through the legislative process in recent years, further important changes are necessary in order to bring the 187 year-old Massachusetts Constitution into line with present-day state needs," announced Rep. Fishman.

"Since actions of the Legislature during the current session have demonstrated that this body cannot produce

Supt. Tells PTA Council "Schools Must Change"

The schools must change in order to deal with the problems posed by a sick society, Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of the Newton public schools, told the PTA Council last Thursday night. He spoke before a record attendance of the PTA presidents, school principals, and teachers at a meeting chaired by Council President Bernard I. Kaplan. Following his talk Dr. Brown received a standing ovation.

He spoke of issues such as Vietnam, rioting in Detroit, political bigotry, breakdown of the family unit, teacher strikes, and the misuse of drugs.

The arts and their place in our civilization should be emphasized in the curriculum, he said.

The second change is that of the child in the classroom. He believes that ways other than grouping by age and residence will be found in order to recognize individual differences in emotional maturity, motivation, and intellectual capability.

Staffing patterns will present a third change. The supply of out-standing teachers is not sufficient to meet demands, said Dr. Brown, therefore the schools will have to draw heavily from the resources of citizens, agencies, organizations and industry in the community.

On the matter of financial change, Dr. Brown said, a budget increase in 1968 of $2 million is a situation that must be faced. The support of public education is a moral issue that concerns parent and non-parent alike, and financial backing must be made available if the schools are to meet the growing challenges.

Mr. Kaplan announced later that an interest in financial support for the schools is one of the PTA Council's major projects for the coming year. He said he had appointed a committee to explore new sources of revenue in order to relieve the local taxpayer.

Dr. Brown went on to describe the inadequate responses of a society faced with the choice between liberation and destruction. He said the schools must respond to these problems and that "change must become the hallmark of American education." He spoke of four different changes:

The first is curriculum. Dr. Brown said the children need to grasp new concepts; for instance the concept of nationalism and patriotism must be changed to fit a shrinking world. "This will not be easy," he said, "since it will require a re-thinking of the whole field we now call social studies." The concept of human rights must be taught at a time when our nation is faced with a choice between chaos and community, he added.

A discussion followed on several subjects, among them the creative arts, federal and state funds for education, overcrowding in some of the schools and possibility of some re-districting.

Dr. Gilbert Friedell, chairman of the Building Committee, reported on a study of the Newton High School building program. The Council unanimously passed a resolution urging the necessary appropriation and the selection of an architect without delay, and that the mayor, the Board of Aldermen, and the School Committee co-operate in whatever methods are necessary to expedite the construction of the new building.

Mr. Kaplan introduced Edwin Hawkridge who was present as a delegate from the School Committee. In a new policy to provide closer communication, the School Committee will send one of its members to each meeting of the Council.

In the absence of Henry Shor, chairman of the By-Laws Committee, Joshua Guerman presented the revised set of by-laws for the Council. Adoption was unanimous.

FULLBRIGHT ASSAILS DIRKSEN'S DEFENSE OF LBJ

Sen. J. William Fulbright, in an acid reply to Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, declared yesterday that the Vietnam war is weakening freedom both in Vietnam and the United States.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, gave a point-by-point rebuttal of Dirksen's defense last week of President Johnson's war policies.

While Dirksen had suggested the war effort would protect "the holy fabric of freedom," Fulbright said, the fabric of freedom in Vietnam is "threadbare indeed. Nor can it be said that this endless and unsuccessful war is doing much to strengthen freedom in our own country."

HOUSE TENTATIVELY OK'S POSTAL RATES HIKE

THE HOUSE APPROVED tentatively an $890 million increase in postal rates yesterday and voted to give its members a semiautomatic pay raise every four years, starting in 1970. Still to be acted on in the same proposed legislation was a provision for a $2.6 billion pay raise over 18 months for federal white collar and post office employees. Some economy-minded Congressmen were prepared to try to reduce the sum to a flat $600 million.

The tentative vote on mail rates, subject to a final roll call, included a penny increase for first-class letters and postal cards, two-cent boosts for air mail and greeting cards, a 23 per cent raise over three years for news publications, and a 32 per cent increase in third-class or mail advertising rates.

GOP AND JOHNSON STILL KICK AROUND SPENDING

REPUBLICANS REJECTED as an impractical gimmick yesterday a Democratic proposal to end the impasse over taxes and spending. GOP leaders said "the life or death of the President's tax bill is up to the President."

But President Johnson, signing the Small Business Act amendment at the White House, tossed the burden back to the lawmakers. "I remind the Congress and the country," he said, "that the greatest service the Congress can now perform for American business . . . is to enact that tax legislation promptly before it is too late."

WOMEN SEEKING JOBS JUMP U. S. UNEMPLOYMENT

THE UNEMPLOYMENT RATE in the nation for September took its biggest jump in nearly five years, and the Labor Department yesterday blamed it on an unusually large rise in the number of women seeking jobs.

It said the unemployment rate rose to 4.1 per cent in September, from 3.8 per cent in August. Although the jobless rate for women was unusually high, the rates for men and teen-agers were virtually unchanged. Arthur M. Ross, commissioner of labor statistics, said the sharp jump in the overall unemployment rate did not indicate any weakening in the economy.

ISRAELI PLANES DOWN EGYPTIAN MIG

ISRAELI JET PLANES shot down an Egyptian MIG21 fighter in a dog fight near the Suez Canal, an Israeli communique reported. The communique said the air battle broke out after two of the Soviet-made MIG jets flew across the canal and penetrated the air space over Israeli occupied territory 15 miles east of Great Bitter Lake, a wide spot in the Canal south of Ismailia.

Israeli planes scrambled into the sky to intercept the MIGs, and engaged them in a brief clash. Shortly afterward, the communique said, one MIG21 was seen plunging to earth over the west bank of the canal. Its pilot was not seen to parachute.

HUGE VIET CONG ARMS CACHE UNCOVERED

U.S. OFFICIALS DISCLOSED yesterday that American troops have uncovered a huge cache of Viet Cong arms, including hundreds of brand new Russian sniper rifles, in a five-level tunnel complex in the jungle just 31 miles outside Saigon. After burrowing through the underground warehouse for four days, GIs of the 9th Infantry Division pulled out 675 rifles, 200 of them the Soviet sniper models, thousands of hand grenades and heavy mortar rounds and some five-foot tall machineguns.

On the northern front along the demilitarized zone border, North Vietnamese forces are believed regrouping for large scale attacks, launched sharp rocket, mortar and artillery barrages against the Marines' Con Thien outpost.

AT LEAST 350 DEAD IN INDIA CYCLONE

A CYCLONE CUT through a district of the Indian state of Orissa Monday evening leaving 350 persons dead or missing and tens of thousands homeless, it was reported yesterday. Dispatches said 55 persons were killed and 300 fishermen were missing at sea. It was feared the toll would rise.

The cyclone cut a 70-mile path of death and destruction in the eastern coastal state, cutting off communications with Calcutta to the north.

GUEVARA SEEKING TO FLEE BOLIVIA WHEN SLAIN

CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY Ernesto Che Guevara felt that he had failed in his mission to foment Communist revolution in Bolivia and was seeking to flee the country when he was slain by Bolivian rangers, his field diary revealed yesterday. The key to Guevara's failure and his disillusionment was his inability to inspire a fanatic following in the largely Indian population of this landlocked, mountainous nation.

The diary, seized from Guevara's knapsack, was made public as the Argentine-born revolutionary was buried in the tiny and remote village of Vallegrande, 300 miles southeast of La Paz, near the battleground where he fell.

KIERNAN CALLS TEACHER STRIKES 'ANARCHY STEP'

ILLEGAL TEACHER STRIKES constitute "a first step toward anarchy," Massachusetts Education Commissioner Owen B. Kiernan said. In an address last night to a joint conference of school committee members and school superintendents at West Harwich.

"When a law has been broken flagrantly, there is not a court in the land which would not grant relief, he said. "Yet, the incredible action of the leaders of teachers' organizations in defying the courts represents an all-time low in professionalism."

SEN. BROOKE AGAIN CALLS FOR BOMBING HALT

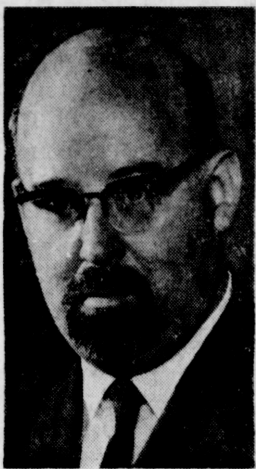

SEN. EDWARD W. BROOKE, called yesterday for a cessation of the bombing in North Vietnam whether or not it leads Hanoi to the negotiating table. Brooke campaigned on a "dovish" platform last year but, after a visit to Vietnam in March of this year, announced support of President Johnson's policy.

But he outlined his present position yesterday in remarks prepared for delivery to the annual Adult Education Forum in Springfield. "Cessation of the bombing," he said, "could remove our government from the position of defending to the world its failure to cease bombing in order to bring about negotiations." The cessation would "give credence to our government's desire for peace and help to unite the nation."

RICHARDSON CHARGES FILM 'DOUBLE-CROSS'

ATTY. GEN. RICHARDSON yesterday said he contacted the state correction commissioner about the making of the controversial movie "The Titicut Pollies" filmed at Bridgewater State Mental Hospital. But Richardson said Massachusetts was "double-crossed" by the film's producer.

The attorney general explained his role after Rep. Robert L. Cawley, accused him of "deep personal involvement" in the documentary. Richardson said he believed "The Titicut Pollies" would be "all right" as an educational film, but felt the state was duped by the producer offering the movie for public showing.

DR. MARTIN J. KRONMAN

$1,000 Award, Gold Medal To Newton Chemist

Dr. Martin J. Kronman, of the U. S. Army Natick Laboratories, has won the $1,000 American Chemical Society Award and a gold medal in the Chemistry of Milk sponsored by the Borden Company Foundation, Inc. He is a Newton resident.

Dr. Kronman's research has resulted in an increased understanding of the protein chemistry of milk. His studies have provided a body of knowledge in an area of milk proteins that was largely unexplored.

The eventual understanding of how the important nutrient lactose, or milk sugar, is synthesized in mammary tissue will be based on the award winner's research, which has been reported in numerous scientific publications.

Dr. Kronman, an authority in physical biochemistry, began his work in 1956 as a physical chemist at the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Eastern Regional Research Laboratory, Wyndmoor, Pa.

He left in 1961 to join the Pioneering Division of the U. S. Army Natick Laboratories as head of the biochemistry laboratory, his present position.

Born in New York City, Dr. Kronman received the B.S. degree in 1950 from Rutgers, The State University, and the

Co-Ed Course At Day Junior High

Limited Sex Education Program Due In Newton

A pilot program in family life and sex education will be introduced into Day Junior High School on a limited basis, Principal Ernest V. Seasholes informed the Newton School Committee on Monday night.

In addition, meetings will be held with parents and after January a pilot program will also be started at the Mason Rice and Hamilton elementary schools.

This kind of education is not new to schools, Seasholes commented. It has been going on in the corridors for centuries, and we think it's time for a mature, well thought out physical education classes.

Seasholes also explained that there has been a program at Day for ninth graders during the new family life and sex education program will this year be limited to 60 seventh graders. Twenty boys and girls will take part in a class during each of the last three marking periods of the school year, beginning in November.

When questioned about the inhibitions to discussion that might result from having boys and girls in this age group in the class together, Seasholes reported that investigations of other programs demonstrated that this method worked out best. However, he said he will not be rigid about the decision and will observe how it progresses.

The seventh graders will elect the course as they do any other minor subject in the school's curriculum. Parental permission will not be sought out, but a parent may withdraw a youngster from the class if he so requests.

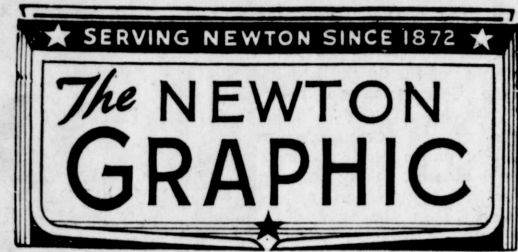

The seventh grade course will contain a good deal of information about the biological aspects of reproduction, but will also bring in boy-girl relationships, parental responsibility, etc. Class discussion will be encouraged.

There will be no course offered this year to eighth grade students because of an attempt to keep the pilot program limited so that it can be thoroughly observed and evaluated as the year goes on, Seasholes explained.

Ninth-grade students will spend 10 hours through the year discussing such subjects as values for teen-agers, group pressures for conformity versus self identification, the responsibilities of teen-agers towards members of their families, etc.

Mayor Basbas requested the architects to provide him immediately with the necessary data relative to Building 3 as requested recently in a resolution adopted by the Selectmen.

1971. The new school will accommodate 2,750 pupils.

The High School Site Study Committee and Mayor Basbas' recommendations call for remodeling Building 2, demolishing Building 1 and 3, and building new structures to function in harmony with Building 2.

Clubmobile women must be in perfect health and are usually between the ages of 21 and 24 when first employed.

In addition to Miss Schiavone and her colleagues in Korea, at present some 100 recreation workers are operating Center-Clubmobile units at 20 locations in South Vietnam, including DaNang, Nha Trang, Bien Hoa, and Di An. All centers are located on U. S. military bases.

Serious Handicaps Fail To Block His Path To Success

Blindness and other handicaps haven't kept a Newton man in his early 30's from success in a chosen profession.

William M. Raeder, 10 Francis St., Newton Highlands, lost his sight, his right hand and part of his left while on an Arctic seismological expedition in 1960. Now he has for the second time made the top production and client-service organization of his firm, the National Life Insurance Company of Vermont.

An associate of the company's Boston-Eastern Massachusetts general agency, he sold some $800,000 of life insurance in the last 18 months to qualify for the firm's eleventh President's Club.

He achieved membership in the tenth club last year, after having joined the agency and the company in August, 1965.

Holladay adds that Raeder's outstanding client service and sale have also earned him eligibility to attend the club's educational conference for its countrywide membership, at El Mirador Hotel, Palm Springs, Calif., October 8-12. Raeder was injured in October, 1960, soon after his graduation from Boston University with a B.A. in geology. (He rowed varsity crew and belonged to Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.) As a member of a team of the Arctic Institute of North America, he had started to drop some TNT onto the floor of the Arctic Ocean when it exploded in his hand.

The following June, undaunted and quite rehabilitated, he began studies for an M.A. in political science at Boston U. He won the degree in August, 1964, after additional graduate work at the University of Oslo, Norway, and Eastleigh Technical College, Southampton, England.

Rep. Fishman In Report To Local Ward Committee

Representative Irving Fishman of Newton reported on state political events and expectations at a meeting of the Ward 8 Democratic Committee of Newton last Thursday night (Oct. 5) at the home of Professor and Mrs. Saul B. Cohen, 50 Solon St., Newton Highlands.

Rep. Fishman commented on issues of significance which have been considered by the current legislative session including his service as a member of the Special Legislative Commission to Investigate Air Pollution.

The Special Commission has held public hearings for several months, taking testimony from many experts and researchers in the field of air pollution control; Fishman indicated that the Commission will recommend legislation to coordinate state air pollution abatement activities with the federal Clean Air Act.

"A highlight of the current session, the reorganization of Public Welfare administration, will be signed by the Governor shortly," Fishman predicted at the meeting. While discussing this bill, word was received that Governor Volpe had just signed the bill into law.

Also attending the Ward 8 meeting were the committee Chairman, Sidney S. Bronstein, and former Representative Morris Krutzman.

Successful Heart Surgery For 75-Year-Old Newtonite

When 75-year-old Loretto Bianchi of 88 Hawthorne street, Newton, left Newton-Wellesley Hospital last Thursday morning (October 5), the action of his heart was governed by a trans-venous catheter and power unit.

He had been admitted to the 250-bed teaching hospital during September, suffering from a heart block and from a very slow effective heart rate.

During an operation on September 18, surgeons inserted an electrical catheter into his heart and a power unit within his chest wall.

Together, the implements have restored a normal heart beat to him and have improved the heart function of the former City of Newton employee.

The technique of implanting devices to stimulate and pace a heart was developed in medical center research hospitals during the mid-1960's. Tested and proved safe, the procedure becomes increasingly common now in major community teaching hospitals.

McDonnell Will Seek Another Alderman Term

Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell has announced his candidacy for reelection as Alderman at Large Ward 1. Mr. McDonnell was first elected to the Board of Aldermen in 1965, receiving over 15,000 votes the highest total of any of the thirteen non-incumbent candidates running that year.

A practicing lawyer, with offices in Boston, Mr. McDonnell is a graduate of Boston College and Boston College Law School where he was a member of the board of Editors of the Annual Survey of Massachusetts Law.

In 1960 Alderman McDonnell was President John F. Kennedy's Newton campaign co-chairman. In 1966 he was Newton Corner Village chairman of the United Fund. He is a member of the Massachusetts, Boston and American Bar Association.

In announcing his candidacy Alderman McDonnell told the Graphic:

"It is a privilege to serve on this Board . . . and a challenge. A challenge to maintain and improve the high quality of our municipal services within the framework of fiscal responsibility."

"I have tried to exercise my best judgment in evaluating the individual petitions that come before the board to the end that Newton retains and enhances its reputation as a good place in which to live."

"To this end I have opposed some controversial petitions for zoning changes because I felt they were detrimental to residential areas. I have supported others that promise increased tax revenue without detriment to residential neighborhoods."

Alderman McDonnell also called attention to two petitions presently before the Board which he has sponsored. The first would require the registration of persons lobbying before the Board or with its members; and the second would require public notice and open bidding on the sale of city owned land.

He said he hoped that these matters will be discussed during the campaign and gain public support in order that they may be passed by the Board.

Alderman McDonnell is married to the former Nancy J. Pleva, M.D. Dr. McDonnell is a resident in Psychiatry at McLean Hospital. They have one daughter Dierdre Ann and make their home at 82 East Side Parkway.

pointed toward life insurance selling by a vice president of another life company, Raeder became associated with National Life of Vermont.

Professionally, he got the basics of his new career by listening to tape recordings of works on life insurance. Now he keeps up-to-date by having current developments read to him. He also gets around Boston with the aid of a cane . . . and sells more life insurance than many other agents.

The recovery, new outlook, success and potentials are well in line. Raeder's life is normal. He skis (which he learned blind the next following winter after the mishap) and fishes (this summer he beat his host at the latter's Maine camp).

He plays chess and does home carpentry and listens to music and lectures. And, he is married, to the former Miss Daphne Jecoff, of Southampton, England. They met at a party in Cambridge. They have a daughter, Diane, four years old, and a son, Mark, three.

So disability has been as nothing to Bill Raeder. On the contrary, it's been an inspiration . . . and at least a goal. He just wants to convince people he's not unusual . . . but he is an unusual life insurance salesman.

dren will attend over 400 parties at elementary and secondary school levels. The celebration will be organized and run by 1,500 adult volunteers.

It was noted by the general chairman, Dr. R. Emerson Sylvester, at the organizational meeting that this program is probably the largest single civic effort in the city.

Emphasizing the need for financial support of the Halloween observance the letter continues:

"We are asking you to lend your financial assistance to this worthwhile project to help provide such refreshments as ice cream, donuts, cookies and cider for the various parties. Your generosity this year will be especially appreciated, since food costs have continued to increase."

The annual Newton Halloween celebration is sponsored by the Newton Recreation Department in conjunction with the schools, the Parent Teacher Associations and city departments including Police and Fire.

Mrs. Robert G. Toher of the Recreation Department is General Program Chairman. She assists and advises the Building Chairmen who are responsible for planning programs and serving refreshments.

The refreshments are furnished by the Recreation Department and distributed to the individual parties by Supervisors Robert E. Doherty and William J. Barry.

VICTOR M. KUMIN

Victor Kumin Enters Drive For Alderman

Victor M. Kumin has announced his candidacy for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5. A resident of Newton Highlands for 16 years, Kumin has been continuously active in community affairs.

He was the first general chairman of the Newton United Fund Campaign. He was a vice president of the Newton Community Chest, a member of its Budget Committee and a member of the Governing Board of the Newton Community Council where he participated in the two year Mental Health Study. Later he was named to the Executive Board of the Newton Mental Health Center. Last year Kumin was appointed by Mayor Basbas to the Mayor's Junior College Study Committee. Kumin is a member of the Democratic City Committee.

For many years he actively participated in school affairs. He was President of the Hyde School PTA, a member of the PTA Council, Chairman of the Science Section of a PTA Council Conference and program chairman for Weeks PTA.

Kumin is associated with Chas. T. Main, Inc., Consulting Engineers, Boston. He is a registered professional engineer. He was educated at Harvard College where he received a degree in chemistry in 1943 and at Northeastern University where he did graduate work in chemical engineering.

During World War II Kumin was a research scientist for the Underwater Explosives Research Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass., and later with the Manhattan Project, Los Alamos, N. M. He is an army veteran.

Kumin is a member of several professional societies, including the American Chemical Society, Society of Plastics Engineers, and the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry. He is also a member of the Friends of the Newton Library, the Newton Mental Health Center and the Anti Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

He is married and the father of three children, two daughters both graduates of Newton South High and a son Daniel now at Weeks Junior High.

In announcing his candidacy, Kumin stated that Newton continues to undergo a transition from a suburb of Boston to an influential element of the metropolitan area. The Board of Aldermen, he said, must now be prepared to deal effectively with the changing face of the city and to examine more closely its relationship with surrounding cities and towns.

hopes that necessary state approvals will be obtained early in 1969 and that construction can commence in the fall of that year.

Earlier this month the Board of Aldermen adopted and Mayor Basbas signed a resolution approving an appropriation for the appointment of an architect.

The resolution called upon Mayor Basbas to provide City officials with estimated costs of retaining and rehabilitating Building 3 as compared with estimated costs of demolishing the building and constructing new facilities to replace it.

The resolution also asked to what extent it was economically feasible to utilize all or any portion of Building 3 as part of the new high school complex. It also sought the advan-

"It Stayed Discovered"

We celebrate Columbus Day this week, the 475th anniversary of the day Christopher Columbus and his companions aboard the Santa Maria, the Pinta and the Nina made a landing in the Western Hemisphere.

In the last few years there have been claims that Leif Ericson actually discovered America about the year 1000 A.D. and that St. Brendan (484-578 A.D.) was an earlier discoverer.

There is a move afoot in Congress to establish Oct. 12 as a national holiday. Last week before a House judiciary subcommittee impassioned pleas from Congressmen of varied extraction were made to establish Columbus Day as a holiday to rank with Washington's Birthday and Memorial Day.

We like the way Cong. Hugh L. Carey (D-New York) disposed of the claims of the Irish and the Norwegians for the honor of discovering "the home of the free." Carey declared that "when Columbus discovered America, it stayed discovered."

"We've got to go along with Cong. Carey. It was only after Columbus made his momentous discovery that attempts were made to colonize the new-found land and, as time passed, the colonies took root and flourished and grew.

We think it would be a fine idea to make Columbus Day a holiday nationally.

It Is Your Government

The League of Women Voters has published a handbook prepared "to help citizens of the Commonwealth be more politically effective." On the last page of the informative booklet, set in a box, is the admonition "You Elect Them—Don't Neglect Them."

It is good to have such a non-partisan organization such as the League of Women Voters urge its members and other voters to keep in touch with their elected officials. We feel that we would have better government at all levels if more of the electorate kept in touch with those officials they have elected to represent them.

Unfortunately, most voters wouldn't dream of writing their Senators or Congressmen to express their views on legislation for the simple reason, mainly, that they probably feel it wouldn't do any good. But they are wrong. Politicians are sensitive to public opinion, especially if they wish to be re-elected.

For the most part, however, elected officials do not know the grass roots sentiment unless they hear from their constituents by one means or another.

Of course, one gauge of measuring public sentiment for the politicians is through the news and editorial columns of newspapers. But, at times, even newspapers can be misleading, perhaps, without knowing it.

The best way then for an elected official to know how the voters feel about an issue is for the voters to tell them. To quote from the handy booklet published by the League of Women Voters:

"Once an official or a representative has been elected, let him know by telephone, telegram or letter how you feel about issues or legislation.

"Be polite but business-like; brief but not terse. State your position on the subject clearly. Request action. Ask for an answer. Thank him for good votes. Compliment his better speeches."

We urge our readers to become more involved in government. Get out of that apathetic rut. Let your elected officials know how you feel about the issues concerning your community, your state, your country.

Thanks Graphic

Editor of The Graphic:
As President of the Newton Centre Woman's Club I wish to express my appreciation and that of the Club Members for the fine co-operation we received from your newspaper. The amount of space given annually to our club projects is inestimable.

With all the communications media available these days, it is still the newspaper that puts information into our hands—to be read and kept.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club is a member of The General Federation of Women's Club which has always advocated the freedom of the press and it has never been more important than it is today.

Accept our deep thanks,
Sincerely,

(Mrs. Stanford D.) President

Editorial Critic

Editor of The Graphic:
I am particularly surprised at your misinformed editorial of Oct. 5, urging businessmen to rise up against "deeply pernicious legislation."

The proposed legislation which you attack does no more than give to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission the same power to conduct its own enforcement proceedings and to issue enforcement orders that the National Labor Relations Board, and many other agencies, have had for more than 30 years.

The Supreme Court held in 1937 (in the famous Jones & Laughlin case) that a Labor Board proceeding which resulted in the reinstatement with back pay an employee illegally fired did not deprive the employer of any right to jury trial. Nor would a Commission order be final; before it could be enforced it would be subject to judicial review in a federal court.

The same general comment must be made about the investigatory powers which you describe; similar powers have been exercised by other federal agencies for many years without the dire consequences you refer to.

Local Artists Display Works To Medical Aux.

At a recent meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Charles River District Medical Society an informal display of paintings by local artists and members was held. This was arranged by the program co-chairman — Mrs. Morris Ringer of Newton and Mrs. Ralph Mankowich of Weston.

One of the exhibitors, Nancy Quinn of Newton, has been incapacitated by polio. She started painting a few years ago and has shown marked progress. Her painting education has been by self-education as well as by a correspondence course.

Another artist, Mrs. Judy Jattee Glickman, studied at the Arts Student League of New York, and the Massachusetts College of Art. She is best known for her expressive water colors and acrylic paintings. Mrs. Sue Lingeman is a busy mother and housewife — who paints for fun and lives in Wellesley.

Mrs. Phyllis Church Maloney also comes from Newton. She is acclaimed for her flower paintings, done in a vibrant palette knife technique.

Mrs. Maloney does portraits on commission using the mediums of either oils or pastels. Lately this artist has developed her own method of drying flowers in pressed, flat form — or in whole three dimensional form. The natural color has been retained. These she frames with convex glass — making an unusual and lasting arrangement. She calls this technique — "a fleurage."

inmates of the institution in highly personal situations, sometimes behaving in a manner which does not conform to socially accepted standards."

Richardson said that scenes contained in the film "would embarrass the inmates and their families" and that the film is "an intrusion upon the right of privacy."

Ironically, the effort by the Attorney General to obtain a court order banning the shocking film has been used by a New York firm for ballyhoo and promotion purposes.

A lot of questions remain unanswered concerning both the filming and showing of this shocking movie.

Two State officials—the Commissioner of Correction and the Superintendent of the Bridgewater State Hospital—authorized a Cambridge attorney to make the movie depicting the behavior of insane patients at Bridgewater.

It is incredible to this writer that two men holding sensitive positions in the State government could have been as naive as Commr. of Correction John A. Gavin and Supt. Charles W. Gaughan of Bridgewater State Hospital appear to have been.

Gavin and Gaughan made an agreement with Cambridge Attorney Frederick Wiseman, producer of the film, but the agreement apparently was never put in writing.

Consequently, a provision Gavin and Gaughan say was in the agreement, specifying the movie could not be shown without their approval, proved meaningless.

The two State officials wrote to the then Attorney General Edward W. Brooke early last year, informing him they had granted Wiseman permission to make an educational film at Bridgewater and asking whether they had acted properly.

They said the authorization to make the film was conditioned on the stipulation that the rights of the inmates and patients would be fully protected, adding that Wiseman had assured them he would use only photographs of inmates and patients legally competent to sign releases and that he would secure releases from each patient whose photograph was used.

Brooke replied, in substance, that Gaughan had the right to grant such permission and that nothing in the law prohibited photographing an inmate at the hospital with his consent—if he was mentally competent to give his consent.

Attorney General Richardson has been unable to ascertain whether Atty. Wiseman obtained written releases from the Bridgewater patients and inmates who appear in the movie titled "The Titicut Follies."

Persons who have seen the film express the strong conviction that some of the inmates and patients pictured in it are not mentally competent to sign releases which would have any legal validity.

There are some aspects to this entire episode which are extremely difficult to understand.

If Gavin and Gaughan thought they had an agreement with Wiseman, why didn't they get it in writing?

Why didn't Gaughan, who is responsible for the protection of the patients and inmates at Bridgewater, take steps to make sure that Wiseman made the kind of educational film Gaughan expected would be made?

Gaughan certainly had a responsibility to see that demented persons mentally incompetent to sign meaningful releases were not shown in the movie.

Why was it possible for a photographer to make pictures of naked patients and inmates at Bridgewater? Many questions remain to be answered before this case is finally closed.

Boston's Mayor Candidates Battle To Assume Problems

Two candidates standing for election as Boston's next Mayor—Secretary of State Kevin H. White and School Committeewoman Louise Day Hicks—are fighting for the privilege of assuming enormous problems.

The cold fact of the matter is that the winner of the present election battle, whether it be Secretary White or Mrs. Hicks, will be unable to do what the people of Boston expect them to do.

That is to provide more and better municipal services, furnish increased police protection, build new schools, make the Hub's streets both safer and cleaner and still not boost the city's tax rate.

Unfortunately, the things the people want done cost money, and they're not always happy about paying the bills.

And there isn't any miraculous way of spending more money and either reducing the tax rate or preventing it from climbing.

Some of the ideas offered by candidates during the preliminary election campaign for lowering the tax rate or holding the line against any increases were just pipe dreams which are not possible under the State Constitution or existing laws.

So far Secretary White and Mrs. Hicks have been more realistic than certain of their primary adversaries who have been eliminated from the running.

However, they may have a difficult time offsetting the glittering promises made during the preliminary campaign.

Voters Can Settle Death Penalty Issue

Whenever a proposal is made that the question of retaining or repealing the death penalty be placed on the ballot for a vote by the people, the argument is advanced that it is too emotional an issue to be settled in such a manner.

That is just so much nonsense. If the voters are competent to elect Presidents, Governors, Mayors and United States Senators and record themselves on important referenda, they should be able to indicate whether they want to keep or junk the electric chair.

A particularly gruesome murder just before election might influence some people to vote for the retention of capital punishment when otherwise they might vote to abolish it.

In that sense an emotional factor might affect the voting.

So, for that matter, would the public revulsion resulting from an execution in a gas chamber if one occurred close to an election.

Under ordinary circumstances, however, the voters could be counted on to display just as much sound judgment in weighing the value of the death penalty as they do in picking a President or a Governor.

New York's Con Con Draws Sharp Criticism

A number of reform-minded persons have been clamoring for a Constitutional Convention in Massachusetts, and a campaign is now underway to obtain enough signatures to place the question of holding such a convention on the ballot in 1970.

A recent experience in New York State, however, demonstrated clearly that a Constitutional Convention is not necessarily the great cure-all that its advocates claim it to be.

In fact, the individuals and newspapers in New York, who spearheaded the drive to call the Con Con there, are now assailing the proposed Constitution produced by the convention and are urging that it be rejected by the Empire State voters.

This would mean that millions of dollars spent in public funds to hold the convention and draft a proposed new State Constitution would have been wasted.

But the New York Times, for one, obviously believes it would

Headlights And Highlights From Newton South High

By JAMES SHULMAN

The spirited Class of '69 is off and running to what looks to be a more spectacular year than last. Already in the makings are: an activity a month, a Junior Symposium, and the planning of the Junior Prom.

The students who are members of the Junior Class Committees express great desire, spirit, and willingness, which is what a well coordinated and successful class needs and wants.

The Juniors at Newton South are in the final stages of planning of their first activity, a "Monte Carlo Night." This will take place Friday, October 27, from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. The "Monte Carlo" will be open from 7 to 9 p.m., and there will be dancing from 8 to 11 p.m. to the tune of a well known college band. No one will be allowed in the dance scheduled preceding from Newton South High School! The tickets will be $125 per person.

The Junior Class Committee, which is planning the October dance, has also started to sketch out ideas for up coming Junior Class activities through the year. There is a dance scheduled preceding the December vacation, and the sale of blue and orange bumper stickers, with '69 or a Lion on them to help build spirit. The co-chairmen of the Junior Class activities committee are Rich Black and Bill Goldberg, who are hoping for a successful and spirited year.

Another aspect to the Junior Class is the Junior Prom Committee. Seventy-one enthusiastic and interested Juniors turned out to work on this committee, under the experienced leadership of Steve Bahr.

The Junior Prom is scheduled for May. At the moment the committee is planning the location, the time, the date, and the type of dress. There was a questionnaire sent around to all the Juniors concerning the Prom, in which the students themselves decided to have a Prom, the type of dress, semi-formal; to sell the tickets at a reasonable price, so everyone will be able to afford them, and that it was an important part of the school year to have the Prom.

The topic of conversation among the Juniors this year is Junior Symposium. The Symposium will take place some time in April, with its subject, "Aggression."

There will be speakers invited to the Symposium, who are up to date with the topic and have witnessed the "Aggression" in action. Some of the sub-topics are: Vietnam, and Why We Fight.

At the Symposium the students will be able to speak informally and meet in small groups for discussion. The hope for the Symposium is for it to be enjoyable, stimulating, and interesting. The Symposium committee wants the students to "really get something out of it."

The Ways and Means committee of the Junior Class is set out on its essential function of coordinating the class finances. They are going to draw up a budget and plan sales to earn money for activities.

Although the Ways and Means committee is comparatively small, it is the backbone of the Junior Class. This committee is headed by Dick Friedman and Roger Myerson, and members are: Mal Becker, Martin Cohen, Rich Green, and Doug Levine.

In the past the class often better to waste the money than to adopt the new Constitution. Those seeking a Constitutional Convention in Massachusetts are urging a limited one. But the fact is that limitations probably cannot be imposed upon the delegates to such a convention and that they can take up any matter they wish after they assemble.

cers and committees have had a great deal of trouble with keeping in contact with the rest of the class. But, the Class of '69 has remedied the situation with the "69ers News Letter." The editor is Richard Beaser, and it will be distributed to all the Juniors every three weeks.

Mr. Socrates Lagios, became the new Wheeler Housemaster as a result of Mr. Herbert Waugh's departure to become the Assistant Principal at Framingham.

Mr. Lagios said he would like to "create an atmosphere whereby students feel free to raise questions and offer ideas." He is very enthusiastic about the Wheeler House Common Room, and he feels that "it is a good idea for students to have a place to relax during their free periods. And he is confident that the students can handle the added responsibilities.

Mr. Lagios said, that "sensible behavior" on the part of the students is one of the major steps, in realizing the Wheeler House dreams.

Mr. Lagios has taught at the Carlisle Regional High School, and has served as a teacher, chairman of the English Department, and as a Guidance Counselor, all in the past five years. Before 1960 Mr. Lagios was involved in guidance and the teaching of English at Concord High School. In 1959, he was presented with the Distinguished Service Award, Concord Public Schools.

Mr. Lagios received his A.B. from Brown University and his A.M.T. from the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

He says: "Newton is known as the Garden City and a City of home owners. I will work to keep taxes at a level and not put the burden of ever-increasing taxes on the home owner and business man. With lower tax rates, it will encourage new business to come to Newton, and our younger generation will not find it necessary to make their new homes in surrounding localities because of the ever increasing taxes.

"For our young people we need more recreational centers. "I will endeavor to work on the beautification of Newton and to use the State funds available to the best advantage in clearing the Charles River of pollution.

Shoppers Corner Open For Season With Top Values

The Warren Shoppers' Corner at the Warren School, Washington (Route 16) and Walnut Streets, Wellesley Hills, is now open for the 1967-1968 season every Wednesday morning, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., while school is in session, and each first Saturday of the month, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

For the coming season, the corner is taking in and selling new and out-grown clothing for the entire family, which is clean, in good condition and stylish. Although the weather these days has been warm and sunny, the need for boots and rubbers is right around the corner, so donors are asked to take note that Shoppers' Corner is a good place to find these necessary items; also skates, skis and ski boots.

Persons selling merchandise at the Shoppers' Corner receive eighty percent of the sale price and twenty percent goes to the PTA with the exception of the Half Price Sales which are held twice each year at the ends of the winter and spring selling seasons,

Newton South Rolling—Whips Stoughton, 20-8

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Newton South rolled to their third consecutive football victory of the season by thumping Stoughton, 20-8.

Fullback Dan Mendelson scored fourteen of the Lion points. After a scoreless first period South got underway quickly in the second. On the second play from scrimmage, Danny Mendelson took a handoff from quarterback Tommy Rezzuti and rambled forty-eight yards for the score. The conversion attempt failed. The Lions scored again on their next set of downs. Two passes from quarterback Rezzuti to his halfback George Tsimus, one of twenty yards and the other of twelve yards, brought the ball to the Stoughton twelve. On the next play Rezzuti ran it over on an end sweep. Once again the conversion failed.

At the end of the third period South put together a sustained drive of sixty-one yards which ended with Dan Mendelson taking it over from the two. This time, the conversion was successful on a pass from Rezzuti to Mendelson.

Stoughton scored their only touchdown in the final period on a short pass.

The next Newton South opponent will be Boston Tech, at Dickinson Stadium, tomorrow afternoon at 2:45 p.m.

The Newton South varsity soccer team was dropped 5-0, by Newton High on October 2 for their second consecutive loss and third in four games this season. The Lion goalie, Ned Morse, was again bombarded from all angles and was helpless before the onslaught.

The JV game was another story as the Lions defeated the Tigers, 3-0, for the first time in either a JV or varsity soccer game since the series began eight years ago. The Lions turned in their best effort of the season. Allen Miller and Fred Landy scored two second-period goals and the Lions were never headed.

The Lion cross-country team ran into a powerhouse of Newton High barriers on October 4, at Newton High. South was swamped in the varsity race as Newton, paced by personal records by Bill Tomb and Bob Tennet who ran the two and a half mile course in 13 minutes and 47 seconds, and 13:49, respectively, trounced the Lions, 19-41. The third position also went to the Tigers. Jeff Davis finished fourth when 100 percent of the selling price benefits the PTA. Merchandise may be withdrawn from sale before these Half Price Sales if the customer does not wish to donate the proceeds to the PTA.

William Hopkins To Seek Another Alderman Term

Alderman William E. Hopkins of 11 Willard St., Newton, has announced his candidacy for reelection as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 7, for a fifth term, by all voters in the city.

Prior to becoming an alderman, Mr. Hopkins was for many years chairman of the Planning Board and the Park Commission, receiving appointments under the administrations of Mayors Donald L. Gibbs, Howard Whitmore, Jr., and Theodore R. Lockwood.

On the Board of Aldermen he is currently a member of the finance, claims and rules, and special committees. He is chairman of the education committee and has served on the public buildings, franchises and licenses, city planning, workmen's compensation, library and Kenrick Fund committees.

He has actively promoted conservation and upgrading of public schools, libraries and playgrounds. A registered professional engineer, he has assisted the School Department and promoted steps that contributed to accreditation of Newton Junior College. He has had an important part in the rebuilding and enlargement of the Bigelow and Day Junior High Schools, the Newton High School and the elementary schools.

He has been particularly concerned with the problems of citizens affected by the turnpike extension through Newton and by urban redevelopment. This concern extends to the support of Home Rule in local village problems where changes could uproot people and disturb private, public and institutional investments. He is of the opinion that redevelopment of Newton Corner must be encouraged and made an important part of the city.

He was an early advocate of conservation of open spaces in the city, particularly in neighborhood areas, and now advocates development of recreational facilities for children in those areas isolated by increasingly heavy street traffic. Such facilities can ease the burden of law enforcement which is a prerequisite for good government.

Mr. Hopkins is a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, a Fellow in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and a consulting engineer in Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation. He is married to the former Margarita Barba of Newton and has four children who have attended Newton schools.

PAUL J. BURKE

Alderman Burke Seeks Re-election For Third Term

Alderman Paul J. Burke, of 52 Jerome avenue, West Newton, has launched a drive for re-election to his third term as alderman from Ward 3.

A member of several standing committees of the Board, Burke has introduced many pieces of legislation that have been enacted by the full Board of Aldermen. Because of the work of a committee of which he was chairman, Newton this year will be the first and only city in Massachusetts to test new electronic voting machines in the upcoming municipal election.

Burke, in his terms of service, also introduced legislation which resulted in increased vacation benefits for all city employees, bringing Newton nearer the level of surrounding communities.

Alderman Burke's action to increase the pension of the widow of the only Newton police officer killed in the line of duty was approved by the Board of Aldermen and the Legislature.

His legislation to pay a pension to non-contributing city employees' widows is now being studied in committee.

Along with another member of the Board, he introduced legislation to study the need for low and middle income housing for the City of Newton. His resolution included recommending that the city apply for federal funds to help pay rent in private dwellings. This would be at no cost to the City of Newton.

As a result of Burke working closely with West Newton businessmen, he filed legislation which resulted in the city purchasing an additional parking lot on Elm street in West Newton.

His interest in the method of filling vacancies on the Board of Aldermen and the School Committee, resulted in his filing legislation to have a special election within the ward when a vacancy occurs.

Alderman Burke is a member of the Committee on Public Works, Street Traffic Legislation, Municipal Parking and Ward Lines. By appointment of the Board president, he served as chairman of the Voting Machines Committee and a member of the Police Study Committee, the Low and Middle Income Housing Committee and the Pension Study Committee.

In launching his campaign for re-election, Alderman Burke said he will continue to serve the interest of Ward 3, as well as the entire city.

Long active in civic and sports affairs, Burke serves as a member of Mayor Basbas' Community Relations Advisory Committee, Judge Julian Yesley's Youth Center Committee, and as chairman of the Charles Cosgrove memorial scholarship fund. He has also served as president of the Franklin School PTA, served on Mayor Gibbs' swimming pool committee, as well as many other community activities.

A graduate of Newton high school and Burdett College, he attended Boston University and the University of Edinburgh. He is vice-president of Davis Sales Associates, Inc. of Wellesley, and a partner in Burke-Ryan of 1255 Washington street, West Newton.

He is a disabled veteran of World War II, having seen service in three major campaigns, including the invasion of Normandy.

Lee Loumos Says:

By the time you read this, the World Series will probably be a matter of history. As I write this, however, I still wonder how good my ESP prediction of last week will be and if we will have an exciting seventh game victory. If the Sox get by game number six, I'll stick my neck out and guarantee it!

I have been particularly pleased this year with the quality of the color transmission of the series. The late season showdown on the playing field have always been a problem, but somehow the technicians have improved their camera work. In previous years I was reluctant to demonstrate color TV during a series game—but this year I can find no criticism. If you saw the games in color and liked them, you can imagine how much more you will enjoy the regular studio and prime time shows.

Ward Alderman

The candidates were asked to give, in 30 words, their occupation, education background and positions in civic organizations as well as the committees on which they serve if in office now.

Candidates for Ward Alderman also were asked to answer the following question in not more than 50 words:

Controversial zoning changes continue to be brought before the Board of Aldermen. What changes would you consider desirable for Newton?

WARD 1

ANDREW J. MAGNI

Funeral Director. Newton Schools. N. E. Institute of Mortuary Science. Street Traffic Chairman, City Planning. Public Works Committees. Our Lady's HNS, President; Sons of Italy Venerable; Ushers' Club; Amer. Legion P. 440. Desirable for Newton are zoning changes which invite the type of industries maintaining our Garden City concept yet helping to broaden Newton's tax base. Also development of a flexible land-use study for long range planning, by professional staff of the City Planning Department, whose recommendations would guide Newtonites.

Retail Advertising Manager, Boston Globe; life-long resident Newton; Chairman, Public Works Committee; V.P. Newtonville Improvement; Director, Little League; Director, Boston Better Business Bureau; President, Camp Frank A. Day Father's Club.

I feel we should approach these problems with an open mind and really consider what is good for Newton.

CHARLES E. AUCCOIN

Stockbroker, Eastman Dillon, Union Securities, Newton High; Babson Institute, BSBA & MBA. President, Newton Jaycees; Secretary, Newton Association for Responsible Civic Progress; Director, Newton Young Republican Club; Director, United Fund.

I would favor those changes which would significantly broaden the tax base while maintaining the essential residential character and village structure of Newton. This would lighten the burden on home owners. My experience in municipal finance proves that a keen, analytical approach is necessary to evaluate soundly specific zoning changes.

WARD 4

PAUL J. BURKE

Vice President Davis Sales Associates, Inc., Burdett College, Boston U., University of Edinburgh. Board of Alderman; Chairman Voting Machines Committee, Low & Middle Income Housing Committee. Youth Center Committee.

I feel properly controlled zoning in a limited number of locations would be desirable for the overall good of Newton. With ever increasing cost of government we must look to these limited areas to supply additional tax base. The 15 million air right development in Newton Corner is an example.

WARD 4

WILLIAM P. MATTHEWS

Attorney; B.S. Boston College; LL.B. Portia Law School; Present Ward Alderman; Public Buildings, Franchises & Licenses, Claims & Rules, City Planning Committees.

The Mayor and the Board must take positive steps to direct the development of our city. The direction I would urge would concern itself with solving the problems of,

and in some instances encouraging the rebuilding of, much of our commercial and industrial areas.

Meat Supervisor. Mechanic Arts High School — attended Wentworth Institute for the government.

Zoning is a matter for the people and their representative. I believe the people should have a voice in redistricting. If I am elected, I will find the problems and act accordingly.

WARD 5

EDWARD C. UEHLEIN

Attorney. Bowdoin 1934; Harvard Law. Past Pres. Bd. Newton PTA, PTA Council; Bd. Newton Community Centre, Appeal Officer Selective Service Board. Committees: Finance, Low Income Housing Sub-Committee, Legislative, Voting Machine.

Any change which does not alter general characteristics of the area. Am interested in keeping Newton as a residential area. I believe this is why the citizens have chosen our city for their home. In some instances a zoning change may be proper and necessary for healthy growth of Newton.

WARD 6

ERNEST F. DIETZ

Businessman. AB Michigan; EdM B.U., Harvard Grad. School. Present Ward Alderman; Claims & Rules, Public Buildings, Franchises & Licenses Committees; Chairman, Municipal Parking & Meters; Library site, Low-cost housing committees.

Petitions for zoning changes should continue to be judged individually, whether or not they coincide with master plans. A desirable zoning change is one that upgrades land use in terms of surrounding neighborhood and safeguards the residential character of the city as a whole. Controversy or debate is helpful.

WARD 7

H. JAMES SHEA, JR.

Student. Tufts Univ. (Political Science Major, Economics Minor); University of Virginia Law School. Aldermanic Public Buildings Committee; Franchises and Licenses, Legislation and Voting Machines Committee; Municipal Parking and Meters Committee.

Zoning changes must be examined for the effect they will have upon the quality of life in Newton. My votes on the Board have supported, and will support, the internal revitalization of commercial areas, e.g., air rights; and vigorously opposed urban sprawl in residential neighborhoods, e.g., Pentland and Apog petitions.

Meritorious projects which will increase our real estate valuations while not materially affecting the value of nearby residential property.

How is Newton evaluating experimental school programs? Do you think current procedures are adequate?

WARD 1

FRANCIS P. FRAZIER

Retired Principal, Taft Junior High. Boston College, 1918, A.B.; Boston State Teachers College, Ed.M., 1930. Member, Selective Service Board, Newton, No. 112. Member, Mayor's Advisory Board, Civil Defense.

The School Program includes the curriculum, but also all other school activities. Evaluation is quality control of the School Program. Evaluation in Newton is a continuing measurement of performance by the School Committee, school staff, outside professional consultants, and committees of concerned citizens. Current procedures adequate, but can be strengthened.

WARD 2

NORMA W. MINTZ

B.A., Economics. Presently: School Committee; Director Newton Junior College, Newton Mental Health Center, METCO. Previous: VP Claffin PTA; VP PTA Council; Director LWV Newton; Newton Community Center; Newton Taxpayers Association.

"Experimental programs" are continuing efforts to update and improve. Newer methods, materials and teaching arrangements are carefully, continuously evaluated using appropriate criteria established by Newton educators, university and other experts. To extent available testing and other forms of measurement are imperfect, evaluations are less than perfect—but still eminently adequate.

WARD 3

RICHARD M. DOUGLAS

Chairman, Humanities Department, MIT. B.A. Princeton, 1943; M.A. 1947 and Ph.D. 1955 Harvard. Peirce School PTA board and program chairman (1964-67); consultant, Newton High School social studies program (1962-67).

Various methods are used in Newton. E.S.I. programs undergo continuing national testing. Continuous Learning is being evaluated by a foundation-supported project. Curriculum I Social Studies is reviewed annually by a visiting committee of college teachers. Scores on national tests provide evaluation data. Evaluation program is generally adequate.

ELOISE K. HOUGHTON

Westminster (cum laude); Syracuse, M.A.; Past President, League Women Voters; V.P. Peirce PTA; Government Commissions: Junior

bers of paid Newton school personnel on Evaluation Committees for Meadowbrook Junior student-determined curriculum; Single-Session Pilot Study; Murray Road Project, constitute glaring violations of this principle.

WARD 6

HAROLD J. BERMAN

Professor of Law, Harvard Law School. B.A. Dartmouth 1938, M.A. and LL.B. Yale 1942, 1947. Chairman, Newton School Committee.

The best evaluation is by teachers and school administrators. When parents are dissatisfied, the School Committee makes its own evaluation. For Meadowbrook we now have foundation-financed professional evaluators. With a responsible school administration and an alert citizenry we can overcome the risks of limited experimentation. The alternative is stagnation.

WARD 7

VINCENT P. STANTON

Investment Analyst, Loomis, Sayles and Co., Inc.; Chartered Financial Analyst, 1966; M.B.A. Harvard Univ., 1953; A.B. (cum laude) Boston College, 1951; School Committee Member, Ward 7 (November 1966 to present).

How?

1. Oral and written reports from:

(a) Administration and Staff

(b) Parents and distinguished citizens.

2. Cooperative studies with neighboring towns and University Consultants.

3. Student examinations—state and national. Adequate?

WARD 8

ALVIN MANDELL

Manager, Raytheon; Instructor, Northeastern Univ. (Evening). Masters in Electrical Engineering; Professional Engineer. Chairman, Curriculum Committee; Blue Hills Regional Vocational Technical School Consultant; Single Session Committee; Board Member, Concerned Parents Committee.

Experimental program evaluations have not been scientifically valid. Our children are not test tubes. My platform recommends impartial evaluation (by outside professionals) and public reporting of all major experimental programs. Free choice to students and parents as to their participation in such programs. Operations Research techniques should be implemented.

HENRY K. SHOR

Director, Personnel and Organization, B.S. Education. PTA Council Executive Board, Past President; Newton H. S. Scholarship Fund, Past Chairman; Newton Mental Health Association, Chairman, Building Committee; Newton Red Cross, Executive Board.

Assuming innovative programs refers to new academic programs supported wholly or partly by foundation or federal funds, such proposals for grants include both an objective of the program and funds for constant evaluations. These provisions for objective reviews of school programs plus critical evaluation by outsiders is adequate.

League Policy

The By-laws of the League of Women Voters prohibit the organization from supporting or opposing any political party or any candidate. In order to ensure that this policy is carried out, no Board member is permitted to run for office, or to actively promote a candidate—whether or not the candidate wears the label of a political party—or to hold office in a political organization, or to work actively in her party organization or in any organization supporting candidates.

Since the League never endorses any one running for public office, its members are free to make their own decisions about candidates. Individual League members, with the exception of those currently serving on the Board, may run for office and are encouraged to work actively in a political party and for the candidates of their choice.

Mothers Meeting Launches Art Classes For Children

On Tuesday, October 10, a Mother's Orientation Meeting was held for parents of children enrolled in Creative Art Classes at the Newton Community Center. "The purpose of this meeting," stated Mrs. Murray Janower, director and teacher of the classes, "is to acquaint parents with the nature of the Creative Art Program—including its aims, methods and achievements."

"The general aims of the program are three-fold," according to Mrs. Janower. "The first objective is to stretch each child's imagination to the limits of his capacity—i.e., to inspire creative thinking in approaching a problem."

An example of such an approach was illustrated with a problem presented to a 4th grade class: To design a playground for an animal of his choice. "The child must ask himself a great many questions before he places his structures on the playground. (materials used consisted of everyday objects: wax paper rollers, boxes, papers, sawdust, pebbles, corks, wood scraps salt cartons, cardboard, etc.) How does the animal he chooses (mouse, turtle, cat, elephant) move? What would it be fun for him to play on? What areas does he need to climb, rest, eat, fall, and how can he provide for them and many more? All of this process stimulates his creative thinking and adds to the excitement of the project."

"The second objective is to give the children an opportunity to explore different art media, in a setting which is free of restraints, (worry over mess of furniture or clothes). This is a time of freedom for children—freedom to explore what they feel, what they remember, what they see and hear in a variety of new and challenging experiences. Youngsters will be exposed to a full roster of visual techniques including block and vase line printing, wax sculpture, plaster relief, sand painting, weaving, papier mache, woodworking, puppetry, collage, and many more."

Each new experience is a new adventure for the child and is like learning a new language, since it is a new way of expressing his feelings (sometimes a good deal easier than words.) Mrs. Janower also emphasized her interest in ever day objects. "Children do not necessarily need sophisticated materials to provide interesting media for art work," she stated. "At the Community Center we encourage the children to collect shoe boxes, cartons, discarded utensils, knives, cereal boxes, handles, scraps—in short any trash that they can turn to treasure, during the time we spend together; we have had some very startling results," she added, as she passed around pictures of space helmets, hats and waste baskets designed from ice cream buckets, made by last year's morning kindergarten art class.

Vietnam Expert To Speak Here At Jr. College

Harrison Salisbury of The New York Times, and Pulitzer Prize winner for distinguished reporting, will speak at Lasell Junior College, Auburndale, Wednesday evening, October 11.

Mr. Salisbury's lecture, "Report from Hanoi" is the first offering in Lasell's 1967-68 Concert and Lecture Series. The public is invited without charge.

A question and answer period will follow the talk by Mr. Salisbury. He is the only accredited U. S. representative of a major U. S. newspaper to have seen the effects of the war on North Vietnam and to have interviewed her leaders and people.

Mr. Salisbury's book, Behind the Lines: "Hanoi" has been one of the year's best sellers and widely acclaimed in this country and abroad.

Five of the great rivers of New England originate in New Hampshire.

"The third objective," Mrs. Janower told the parents involves an "informal study of contemporary 'styles' in modern art and basic 'principles' of art. 'I have no pretensions of training artistic geniuses,' she added, 'but I do want the children to gain an understanding of certain aesthetic concepts. Each lesson can be devoted to one, two or several visual problems including color, proportion, light, texture, movement, form, space symbols design, etc. In dealing with these ideas the children become sensitive to their environment on a variety of planes, rather than on one."

For example, in texture problems, what is it like to create a "feeling" picture, as well as a "seeing" picture, might be a question I would ask the students. If you close your eyes do certain materials suggest certain feelings or emotions (contrast, velvet and sandpaper, for instance)? Do different textures of sand suggest different areas of activity for a child, or an animal (where would an animal prefer to eat, or lie down?), etc. Or in another area, in making children aware of "form", how would they draw a circle, cut out a circle, overlapping circles? — and finally how would they repeat these exercises if they had no crayons, but simply nails or thumbtacks and a hammer, or beads or macaroni. Building a form in this way becomes a great challenge to a youngster and encourages an awareness in art and in the world of visual patterns and formations.

In teaching children these basic principles, Mrs. Janower also emphasizes an informal introduction to modern artists. In the field of color she might show the children Gauguin, or Roualt; in explaining fantasy she might use Chagall; texture, Picasso; Monet, light; Van Gogh, direction, movement; Seurat, form; Matisse, pattern.

Children have an opportunity to see how other artists deal with identical ideas, while at the same time familiarizing themselves (unconsciously) with his work. In addition as director, she hopes to invite a variety of guest teachers in to work with the children who are specialists in their own field of artistic endeavor — e.g., weaving, enameling, pottery, etc., and thus widen the children's experiences by working with contemporary artists of the area.

The methods involved in the program were also briefly sketched: "the 'how' of teaching art to children", Mrs. Janower told the group "is the most exciting part. I use a variety of methods, including music (ever finger print to jazz), dramatics (act out a story?), observation, field trips, and a variety of other subjective techniques designed to make the children think about, react to, aware of, what they are doing. Since parents are invited to help out at class lessons, they have the opportunity to watch this process in action."

Mrs. Janower noted at this point, her emphasis on the child's experience, rather than the result. "I am more interested in what the child is thinking about, and the enjoyment he is having from participating in the activity, than the finished product."

A cow does not have to resemble a cow, (by an adult's standards) in order for it to be successful. The fun, the stimulation and the excitement of creation are the program's greatest achievements. And it is to this end that Mrs. Janower, as teacher, and she hopes parents, too, will direct themselves.

Any parents who are interested in having their children join the program, may still contact the Community Center at 244-2260. There are spaces available for children in a 9:30 a.m. Kindergarten and Nursery Class, on Tuesday mornings, Tuesday 2:15 class for second and third graders, and open hour (3:15 to 4:15) on Tuesday for mixed age levels. There are also places in Thursday afternoon classes for third and fourth graders (1:30 - 2:45) and fifth and sixth graders (2:45 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.) Classes are limited in size, and will begin on October 17.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton High School

By KATE SOLOMON

Newton High School has been in session now for 3½ weeks. Innovations are being concocted, the school itself is slowly receding into its normal bustle of activity.

This year 2,800 students are roaming around Newton High each day. There are slightly more boys enrolled than there are girls and the sophomore class is the largest, numbering 905 students. The senior class has an enrollment of 864 students and the junior class lags behind with only 791 members.

Newton Technical High School houses 265 students, 25 of whom are ninth graders, and 16 who are post-graduates. This year, the Technical High School has officially merged with Newton High. The purpose of the merger is to give more N.H.S.ers the opportunity to participate in some of the courses of the tech high program, and to allow students of the technical high school to take courses in the liberal arts field.

Student Council

The Student Council, the main governing body of the school, has arranged for many activities this year. One such activity is the renewal of the project of supporting a foster child. This year the council will donate $180 to an orphan in Hong Kong.

The Council is presently looking for a director for an all school musical. Last year it sponsored "South Pacific" and because of the play's warm reception by students and parents alike, the Student Council wishes to repeat a similar performance.

"We have enough money and there are plenty of people who wish to star in the play," said Council president, Bruce Baltimore, "but no teacher has yet volunteered."

The committee to determine which musical will be performed and other related plans is headed by Joanne Glickman. Other members are Marsha Howland, Kathy Ham, Laura Mersky, Dale Partoll and Ellie Laskey.

An activity completely new this year is the Student Council-sponsored film festival. Starting in January, four first-rate movies will be shown over the weekend.

Andy Levin, Steve Beckman and Neil Cohen will decide which movies to run. All four films will be shown at night, and admission will be sold both singly and all four together.

The Tiger Cage, the Student Council-backed store, is selling personality posters this year. The price is 25 cents cheaper than at most stores and the assortment is quite large. David McCallum, Paul Newman, Steve Carmickle, Charlie Chaplin, and Sophie Loren are among the multitude of picture available.

The Tiger Cage is also selling articles similar to those of the past—Newton High crew shirts, sweatshirts, folders, bookcovers, notebooks, decals, and pennants. Teddy Bloom and Ellen Laskey are in charge of the store.

The Student Council is continuing the recently established Milk Bar Study. This privilege enables seniors and merit students to go to the cafeteria for a snack during their studies. This year, in addition to donuts, ice cream, coffee, and coffee cake, packaged cookies will be sold.

The Student Council has offered this year to give financial aid to clubs and class councils. Already, the junior class has been lent money for its upcoming breakfast.

Bruce feels that there ought to be more rapport between clubs and the Student Council, that the two should work together. According to him, in the past there has been minimal contact, and this has been a major weakness of the Council itself.

As of last year, N.H.S. students were forced to register if they wished to vote in elections, but primaries required no such prerequisites. The Student Council, in rewriting the N.H.S. constitution hopes to change this. It feels that if students don't have enough interest to register, they have no right to vote, whether it be in the main election or in the primary.

This year, the Council is sponsoring an election drive in order to induce increased participation. They plan to post signs, submit an election supplement to The Newtonite, the school paper, and use other gimmicks.

The election supplement will include pictures of the candidates, the candidates' qualifications and answers to various questions. Neil Shiffman is in charge of elections.

The Student Council meets every two weeks. Jim Snider is parliamentarian and keeps order at the meetings. Senior class representatives are Steve Beckman, Neil Cohen, and Andrew Levin and those of the junior class are Phillip Aarons, Mary Davis, and James Hirschberg. Sophomores will elect their representatives later in the fall.

Dress Code

As of Tuesday, October 3, girls are not allowed to wear skirts more than three inches above the knee. This rule was proclaimed in an effort to curb the "sensationalism of mini-skirts," and was added to the other dress code limitations. The other regulations are (1) Boys must wear shirts with collars, (2) Boys must tuck in their shirts at all times, and (3) Girls cannot wear culottes. Riley House gave a compulsory assembly for its girls explaining the various restrictions.

Educational Organizations

The Student Curriculum Review Board, installed last year by the Student Council in an attempt to have students' opinions of academic matters play an influential role in the curriculum, is headed by Jim Snider. Applications for the board are now available for interested students. The SCRB hopes to initiate more pass-fail courses this year and hopes to review more thoroughly what is being taught in various classrooms.

P.O.S.T., the Pupils' Office Staff for Teachers, also started last year. Its members do dictating and other odd jobs for teachers, relieving them of tiresome burdens.

Publications

The Newtonite, the school newspaper, is published every two weeks. The eight page paper is composed of two news pages, two editorial pages, two feature pages, and two sports pages. Although school news is emphasized, both the editorial and feature sections often cover outside issues.

This year, the editorial editors decided to use one of their pages for a page-long commentary. So far, their news analysis has been on Newton Junior College and teacher strikes.

Herbert Levine is the editor-in-chief of the newspaper, with Tom Mansfield as managing editor and Fred Schwartz as business manager. The news editors are Robert Brick and Stephen Singer, D'Vera Cohn being their assistant. Ann Harrer heads the editorial department, and Samuel Scheffer is the assistant.

The feature pages are edited by Kate Solomon and her three assistants Randy

Girl Scouts Take Part In UF Campaign

The Newton United Fund, division of the Massachusetts Bay United Fund Campaign, opened its annual drive Sunday, October 1, to maintain its 340 agencies.

This year the Bay Path Colonial Girl Scout Council, one of the agencies, helped in the publicity for the drive by placing 200 posters in store windows and various public places throughout the twelve villages of Newton.

The following Girl Scout leaders and their troops participated: Mrs. Paul Deats, West Newton and Auburndale; Mrs. Eileen Maslowski, Newtonville, Newton Corner, and the Silver Lake shopping area; Mrs. Wilfred Rounseville and Mrs. Herbert Spatz, Newton Centre and Newton Highlands; and Mrs. Joel Leighton and Miss Sharon Rooney, Waban and Newton Lower Falls. Mrs.

Averback, Kinki Bliss and Kathy Gurd.

Leon Geller and Steve Kendall are the sports editors with Paul Blazar as the assistant. Copy and proof editor is Michael Fruitman with James Hirschberg as assistant. Robert Smith is the photography editor; Steven Levy, advertising manager; Charles Raffel, budgetary manager; Nancy Pellows, publicity; and Florence Marcus, circulation manager. The staff took over the paper in March of last year.

Newton High's literary magazine, "Thoughtprints," comes out twice a year. The staff, headed by Warren Feldberg and Margie Goldsmith, desires not only short stories and poems but also art work and any other written material.

They hope to have a better cross-section of students furnishing the magazine with copy than has been the case in the past, for they want the entire school to feel part of the magazine, feel it is really theirs.

The literary editors of the magazine are Jeff Crosby and John Furbush. Lisa Rubin is the art editor, and Billy Tomb the publications editor. The other members of the magazine write articles and help decide what material should be used.

Newton Grid Squad Routed By Mighty Weymouth, 20-0

The mighty Weymouth football machine blended a crushing ground attack with a near perfect defense to rout Newton High, 20 to 0, last Saturday at Weymouth. The loss was Newton's third consecutive setback of the young season.

The Maroon and Gold managed to grind out 233 yards in a running game which featured top performances by backs Steve Sanson and Frank Costa (97 and 84 yards gained, respectively). It also permitted Weymouth to use up much of the clock while protecting its lead which was amassed by two Costa touchdown runs and one by Sanson.

The home team was in the process of shutting out its fourth consecutive foe over two years. The Tiger backs were held to only 43 yards in 30 carries, as signal-callers Colin Clapton and Reggie Benn completed two of nine passes. A stiff wind and cold weather made it tough for both passers and receivers.

The Tigers played their best football in a scoreless first period. While Newton could make only five first downs through the entire game, three of them came in this stanza.

Newton's defense in this period was tremendous, as Weymouth was held to 10 yards offensively. Twice the Cats gave Weymouth the ball inside Newton's 40-yard line; once on a blocked punt and later following a Newton fumble, but the defense rose to the occasion each time.

In the second quarter, however, the home team wasn't as hospitable as it marched for two touchdowns. The first covered 67 yards with half-back Costa plunging in from two yards out.

On the ensuing kickoff, sophomore Bob Wargin was hit hard and fumbled at the Newton 32-yard line. On a fourth down and one from the 23, Costa went over right tackle untouched and trotted in for an insurance tally. The extra points were converted and the host's had scored twice within 63 seconds.

The third period saw the debut of Phil Nelson, a senior cornerback for Newton who has been sidelined with torn knee ligaments. He promptly made his presence felt as Phil intercepted the first pass thrown in his zone. This was not enough, as later in the stanza quarterback Ken Wilson directed Weymouth to an 80-yard scoring drive in 14 time-consuming plays. Each play on this march was a run, with Steve Sanson going over left tackle for a 10-yard score. On this march, Sanson picked four of the five first downs.

Outstanding in defeat were Robbie Cohen, with a fumble recovery and numerous tackles; Reggie Benn, who recovered one fumble and intercepted a pass; and Bill Thurston, who also snared an enemy aerial.

Ward School PTA Meeting On Oct. 16th

"What's New In Art?" is the topic of the Ward School PTA meeting, Monday, October 16, at 8 p.m. in the Ward Auditorium. Film and slide tapes created by Newton children will be presented to demonstrate current uses of media in the arts program.

The speakers will be Al Hurwitz and Ava Bond. Mr. Hurwitz is coordinator of the Arts for the Newton Public Schools. He is an associate in education at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. He earned his B.S. and M.A. degrees in art education at Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee, a Master of Fine Arts degree in Drama from Yale University and is a doctoral candidate at Pennsylvania State University.

Mr. Hurwitz worked as art teacher and Supervisor of Art Education in Dade County, Florida, before coming to Newton. He is consultant to the WGBH program "Meet the Arts."

Mrs. Bond, a teacher at the Countryside School in Newton, teaches both social studies and art. The meeting is being arranged by Mrs. Morton B. Newman, program chairman, Mrs. Seymour Kaufman, assistant chairman, and Mrs. Margaret Aucoin, staff representative. Coffee will be served before the meeting.

Building Permits Continue To Drop

Building permits in Newton continued to spiral downward in September when only 47 were issued for a total monthly valuation of $140,229.

For the first nine months of the year there have been 367 permits issued, 60 fewer than 1966 and 54 fewer than 1965 for the corresponding period.

However, the total valuation for the first nine months of 1967 is $14,713,559, some $2 million more than 1966 and $4 million more than 1965.

In September, there was only one dwelling permit issued. It was for a single home at $15,000. Alterations on homes amounted to $53,879 with 24 permits and 10 permits on alterations on non-residential building amounted to $42,950.

Miscellaneous permits included four garages at $5350; a radio transformer tower at $5815; a $12,000 elevator; a $4000 swimming pool and five signs at a total of $1235.

Cong. Heckler Agrees To Public Hearing On Vietnam

Rep. Margaret Heckler assured a group of citizens from Newton, Needham, and Wellesley that she is "amenable" to a public hearing this fall to ascertain the sentiment of her district towards the government policy in Vietnam. A spokesman from the Vietnam Summer program told her of the many weeks spent in July and August by volunteers who canvassed cross sections of the three cities and obtained in excess of 1200 signatures on a petition requesting Mrs. Heckler to air the subject of Vietnam at a public hearing.

According to the Congresswoman, fifty members of the House of Representatives have called for a full scale dialogue on Vietnam within the next few months. She feels that this is the most effective way to make progress, since, from her experience in Washington, very little attention is paid by those in higher positions to the proposals and petitions submitted by the public.

This very lack of communication is one of the major reasons for the holding of open hearings which many citizens across the nation are conducting, and this is what the group gathered in Mrs. Heckler's office were attempting to explain to her.

Mrs. Pat Griffith of Wellesley reminded Mrs. Heckler and others that President Johnson is known to pay close attention to public opinion and therefore it is most important that the voice of the people be heard. Mrs. Heckler intends to discuss this matter with some of her colleagues before setting an exact date for the hearing.

Since she has many previous engagements she will be unable to return to her district before November 10th. It was emphasized to her that the matter of the 10% tax increase was directly related to the Vietnam War and that this was one reason why the hearing should be held as soon as possible.

Attending this informal meeting in Rep. Heckler's office were: Jeff Crosby, student at Newton High School; Mrs. Edmund C. Berkeley

Colombian Girl 'Adopted' By Waban Residents

A Waban couple has financially "adopted" an 11-year-old Colombian girl through Foster Parents Plan, Inc., of New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo P. Friedman of 56 Evelyn Rd., thus become the financial "foster" parents of pretty little Dora Elsy Lopez. Dora replaces another Colombian girl financially "adopted" several years ago who no longer needs aid.

Although "adoption" is financial not legal, it's truly personal. The $15 per month contributed by the Waban couple provides for an exchange of a letter a month. Soon through this correspondence a warm relationship develops.

The same $15 a month which the Friedmans pay provides a monthly cash grant, new clothing, blankets and household goods, medical care, education and family guidance and counseling.

The Foster parent gets to know his child at once through a photograph and personal case history. The child, in turn, learns about his Foster Parent, his family, and his country through letters, post cards and photographs.

Foster Parents Plan, Inc., is located at 352 Park Avenue, South, New York City, N. Y. 10010.

Mrs. Bar-David started to write her columns for Hadassah during the 1948 Siege of Jerusalem when they were mailed with the aid of army planes. Readers watched the Bar-David's four daughters grow, do their army service, marry and have children in the setting of Israel's 19 years of dramatic history. The columnist has several books to her credit and writes for publications in Israel and all over the world.

The invitation list includes Special Givers to Hadassah's medical work who have contributed more than the minimum at previous Donor Luncheons. A reception for Mrs. Bar-David will precede the luncheon.

The attention was then directed to obtaining scholarship money for deserving Negro youth who wanted to further their education. ## Fall Delegate Meeting To Be Held Oct. 26th

The Newton Community Council announces its Fall Delegate Meeting to be held Thursday, October 26, at the Second Church in Newton, 40 Highland Street, West Newton at 8:00 p.m.

The Community Council is most fortunate in having a nationally known author and lecturer, the Reverend Myron B. Bloy, Jr., Episcopal Chaplain at M.I.T. and Executive Director of the Church Society for College Work, speak on the topic, "The Revolution in Student Values: Its Meaning, Power, and Problems."

The Reverend Bloy is interested in the new 'style of life' which is emerging in this college generation and will challenge the delegates to analyze their roles in this changing scene.

Everyone attending will not only be given the opportunity to hear this outstanding speaker—but will then be asked to participate in one of eight group seminars conducted by leaders of the Newton community. The group leaders will be: Dr. Charles E. Brown, Mrs. Sidney Harmon, of Commonwealth avenue

Shea Seeks To Retain Ward 7 Seat

Alderman H. James Shea, Jr., of 34 Park st., Newton, announced today he is seeking reelection as alderman from Ward 7.

"Since I took the oath of office in April, 1966," Shea said, "I have been pleased with the success we as a community have achieved in certain areas. Our seeming inability to find meaningful solutions to other problems has disappointed me, however, and these will require still greater attention from municipal government."

A life long resident of Newton, Shea attended Newton public schools and was graduated from Tufts University. He did graduate study at the University of Virginia Law School and is continuing his education in political science at Tufts.

In his announcement for reelection Shea said:

"I compliment those whose efforts helped in initiating construction of the new Bigelow Junior High School, in enacting the zoning changes and permissive uses required for the development of the Newton Corner Turnpike Air Rights and in inaugurating the Wilbur Smith Associates traffic study for Newton Corner, Newton Centre and West Newton . . .

"But there are other problems that have not received the attention and action they require if we are to retain the quality of life in Newton. I suggest that our traffic commission must no longer be insensitive to the traffic problems of Newton Corner, Newton Centre and the residential areas in between . . .

Shea also reiterated his opposition to Newton's present method of filling elective vacancies on the Board of Aldermen and School Committee. He said special public elections should be held to fill future vacancies in elective public office.

Shea presently serves on the Board of Aldermen Public Buildings, Franchise and Licenses, Voting Machine, Legislation and Off-Street Parking Committees.

Six Newton area girls are enrolled at Westbrook Junior College this year.

Returning as seniors are Lois Davison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur A. Davison, Randolph Pk., West Newton; Carol Shapiro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shapiro, Loudholm Rd., Newton; Janet Wambolt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Wambolt, Parmenter Rd., West Newton.

Members of the freshman class are Nancy Hochberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin S. Hochberg, Prospect Ave., Newtonville; Judith Freedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Freedman, Holland St., Newton, and Linda Plamondon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Plamondon, Wolcott St., Auburn-dale.

Rev. Walter E. Dobler, Miss Helen Finerty, Miss Marion Kenney, Dr. Sylvia Krakow, Rev. Prentiss Moore, Mother Stanton and Judge Julian S. Vesley. Questions will be posed by the groups for the speaker's response.

Hebrew School Fund Drive Climaxes At Dec. 13 Dinner

The fall campaign to raise $100,000 on behalf of Solomon Schechter Hebrew Day School of Newton will be climaxed by a Founder's Dinner at Sidney Hill Country Club on Wednesday, December 13, it was announced this week by Irving R. Shapiro, general campaign chairman.

"At this gala dinner, where we will have a nationally prominent guest speaker, we will honor the dedicated individuals who have played a vital role in the creation of the Solomon Schechter Hebrew Day School and who have insured its survival during the crucial years of its infancy," said Shapiro.

"Any pioneering venture requires the support of visionaries who can set their sights beyond the difficulties involved in launching the new enterprise and look toward its ultimate benefits to the community, Solomon Schechter School, now firmly established as an integral force in Greater Boston Jewish education, wants to acknowledge publicly the debt we owe to those whose courage and vision carried us through the early days of struggle and tribulation."

The dinner will mark the conclusion of the Special Gifts phase of the $100,000 drive, which was inaugurated last spring, then postponed due to the crisis in Israel.

Shapiro announced that the campaign organization will have as its base congregational chairmen and presidents representing each of the 24 Conservative Synagogues and Temples in the immediate area served by the Solomon Schechter School. The campaign organization will be expanded with the formation of a women's auxiliary and with the appointment of personnel to fill key posts for campaign special events for the community-wide drive.

"Last May, when we launched the first major fund-raising drive in the five-year history of the Solomon Schechter Day School, the public response was most gratifying. The Greater Boston Jewish community, always responsive to philanthropic and educational needs, supported our initial drive with enthusiasm, based on their conviction that the Day School offers the most fertile ground for training Jewish leaders of tomorrow."

"I am confident that as we move forward in our campaign, we will attract to the ranks of our supporters not only leaders of the Conservative movement, but a broad base of leadership from the Orthodox and Reform segments of our community as well, who recognize that it is essential to nurture and preserve Jewish scholarship in a learning environment that is both secular and modern."

Shapiro announced that he has appointed Leo Karas, prominent glass company executive, and Attorney Jay Finkelstein to the campaign cabinet. Elliot B. Shoolman is campaign treasurer and Mrs. David Lilly is campaign coordinator.

Currently in its sixth year of operation, the Solomon Schechter Day School has an enrollment of almost 100 pupils in grades one through six. The school opened its doors under the sponsorship of the New England Region, United Synagogue of America, with one class of five students. It is the only Conservative

DAVID W. JACKSON

Wd. 4 Alderman's Post Sought By David W. Jackson

Former Alderman David W. Jackson, of 362 Wolcott st., Auburndale, has launched a campaign for election as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 4. He is seeking the seat being vacated by Alderman Warren A. Sutherland.

Jackson is a graduate of Yale University and is a registered professional engineer. For the past 20 years he has been engaged in design and supervision of construction of buildings, manufacturing plants, research laboratories, and similar projects. He is employed as Director of Electrical Engineering for the Jackson & Moreland Industrial Department of United Engineers and Constructors.

His diverse engineering experience made him a valuable contributor to the work of the Public Buildings Committee during his term as ward alderman in 1964 and '65.

During his tenure the committee acted on plans for the new Burr School, Bigelow Junior High, additions to Carr and Hyde Schools and to Day Junior High, construction of the Gath Memorial Swimming Pool, and the new city incinerator.

Jackson was successful in having the incinerator plans drawn so that an electrostatic precipitator can be added to reduce air pollution by catching and removing smoke and ash from the gases before they go up the stack.

He is Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 307, sponsored by the First Unitarian Society of West Newton. He is a member of Second Church, West Newton, and is active on the Social Action Committee of that church. He is also a member of the Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights. His wife, Helen, is well known for her in the League of Women Voters. Their daughter and son are being educated in the Newton Schools and are in the 12th and 9th grades.

Jackson has lived in Newton for nearly twenty years. He has a continuing record of civic responsibility and involvement. Prior to running successfully for Ward Alderman, he served four years as President of the Auburndale Village Improvement Society. He served Mayor Gibbs on his Advisory Committee on Civil Defense. During the past two years he has assisted Mayor Basbas as Chairman of his Advisory Board on Public Transportation, and has been the Auburndale delegate on Basbas' study committee considering uses of the remaining 17 acres of Norumbega Park.

Before settling in Newton, Jackson spent three years in development and testing of underwater mines and torpedoes as a naval reserve officer. He served as Officer-in-Charge of the Minecraft Mine School of the Pacific.

Jackson's aldermanic experience has included two years on the Committees on Franchises and Licenses, and Street Traffic. He drafted and filed the helicopter ordinance which resulted in Newton's control over heliports and helistops. He has been active in promoting control of billboards by home rule, and has filed anti-pollution ordinances for regulating open burning in the city and for control of noise nuisances.

One of Red China's Mao tse-tung's first jobs was that of a grade school principal, says Collier's Encyclopedia.

Unitarian Society World Affairs Lecture Tomorrow

Geoffrey Godsell, chief editorial writer for the "Christian Science Monitor," and an authority on the Middle East where he spent several years as correspondent for the Monitor and the BBC, will give a series of seven "World Affairs" lectures at the First Unitarian Society in Newton.

The series is sponsored by the Newton Branch Alliance, and begins this Friday morning at 10 a.m. Subsequent lectures will be given November 10, December 8, January 12, February 9, March 8 and April 5.

Born in England, Mr. Godsell joined the British Broadcasting Corporation in 1948, where he specialized initially in Italian language broadcasts from Moscow and other Iron Curtain countries. In 1949, he moved to the BBC's news room in London, and two years later became their correspondent in Paris.

The following year he became U. S. correspondent for the BBC, covering the political conventions, presidential elections and United Nations General Assemblies, as well as the Canadian general election of 1953.

Mr. Godsell was sent to Cairo in 1954 as Middle East correspondent for the BBC. While there, he traveled extensively, spending time in Malta, Iran, Cyprus, Syria, Aden, Ethiopia, Somaliland and Kenya. He was in Cairo during the Suez hostilities.

He became Mediterranean correspondent for the Monitor in 1956, and in September 1958, he came to Boston as assistant overseas news editor of the Monitor.

Now in its sixth year, the Godsell lecture series is an educational project of the First Unitarian Society's women's group. Chairman of the Newton Branch Alliance is Mrs. Spencer F. Deming of Newton Highlands. One of the principal organizers of the series is Mrs. Henry Whitmore, Jr., of West Newton.

The Berklee School of Music this week announced it has accepted Mark Broadnax, of 118 Oakdale street, Newton Highlands, as a guitar student in its Division of Private Study.

Mark, 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Broadnax.

DOGGY GUIDE

NEW YORK (UPI) — A guide book listing French hotels that go out of their way to make life pleasant for guests' pet dogs now are available, reports the French Government Tourist Office.

The Guide "Mi-Chien" is a counterpart to the famous Michelin's restaurant and hotel guide. Michelin's classic symbols of stars and crossed forks have been replaced by a series of kennels and crossed bones. As an example of hotels that cater particularly to the luxury-loving pooch, the Guide mentions the Majestic Hotel in Cannes, which offers tempting a la carte menus to guests dogs.

The Boy Scouts of America was founded in 1910.

Newlyweds Find Panama Blissful But Frustrating

PANAMA, R. de P. (UPI)—Life in Panama—as anywhere else—can be blissful and frustrating.

I began my acquaintance with this Central American country one day in a Houston, Tex., barbecue stand. My boyfriend mumbled over a hot dog. "I have a job offer in Panama. What do you think?" "Florida is a long way from Texas," I said.

"Not Florida, Panama, The Republic of Central America," he answered.

Less than six weeks after that we were engaged. I had quit my newspaper job, sold my car and furniture and I was on the plane to Panama to be married in a country touted by the tourist agencies as, "So Romantic Even the Oceans Get Together."

The travel brochures, the Panama Canal, thoughts of "yellowjack" and a mental picture of Teddy Roosevelt waving a big stick, stuck in my mind.

Two months after the wedding in the Canal Zone, I learned life in Panama could be exotic, colorful and exciting.

I began to see the beauty in Panama's beautiful mountains, the rain forests, the beaches. Excitement came at the outdoor Chinese vegetable stand, haggling over a stalk of bananas.

Sometimes I felt the glamour when we sat in an oceanfront cafe and watched the tide come in.

Then there were days when I spent the morning with the English-Spanish dictionary trying to figure out how to tell the maid to "really" rinse the soap out of my husband's underwear.

There were nights when a promised liver and onions dinner turned out to be fried meat and rice for the umpteenth time because the butcher didn't have liver that day. Beef stroganoff dreams faded when no one stocked sour cream.

Panic struck on my first "solo" at the grocery store. In six years of cooking for myself I learned to rely on frozen vegetables, frozen pies and canned goods.

Huge price tags on canned goods forced me to revert to the way the pioneers did it—start with the vegetable, clean it, slice it, cook it and serve it.

The stock phrase for cooking here for an American without Canal Zone commissary rights is, "Fall back, regroup and substitute."

I am sure I can live for years on my husband's promise of one day being gifted with a full case of mushroom soup.

Some things are a little different. We saw a man in the movie theatre toasting marshmallows with his cigarette lighter.

I was sure I had the language barrier licked when I got here. I had studied Spanish four years in the U.S. I was sure it would come back—like riding a bicycle.

Unfortunately, many of my conversations go one of two ways. I say, haltingly, "Buenos Dias? Como Esta usted?"

The answer invariably comes back, "Just fine. How are you?"

Or, if I answer the door to a flood of Spanish I am usually forced to nod, mutter, "Un momento por favor" and retreat for my husband.

He gets angry—"Just try for heck's sake. It'll get easier every day."

"They all talk so fast, I can't understand them," I tell him. Later I learn they say the same thing about me.

But, when I manage to get a thought across in Spanish, my chin raises and I beam for hours with a sense of accomplishment.

The fear of becoming an "Ugly American"—the type that asks, "Is the water safe?"...or... "How much is that in real money?" sometimes gives me the fortitude to do great things.

I remember eating an entire serving of unborn eels—considered a delicacy—because the Panamanian restaurant owner stood over me asking, "¿No le gusta?"

I pretended to like them. But my gritted teeth and defiant stomach gave me away.

"Midge" Helps Battle Disease

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—A small mosquito-like insect known as the chironomid midge may become one of the major weapons in the battle against water pollution, according to scientists at Oregon State University.

The role of the midge, which has the scientific name of "Glyptotendipes barbipes," is played in waste-stabilization lagoons where sewage is broken down into more acceptable material by the action of oxygen-requiring, aerobic bacteria. Once processed in this manner sewage can safely be released into streams and rivers.

The tiny insects, feeding on oxygen-consuming materials in the lagoon, aid in development of high levels of dissolved oxygen necessary for sewage breakdown.

A question OSU scientists are now attempting to answer is what portion of the energy contained in sewage is consumed during the midges' growth and development.

More than 30 waste stabilization lagoons have been set up in the state to determine the efficiencies of the aquatic insects.

Scientists estimate that of the 500 tons of raw sewage entering the test lagoon system each year, up to 10 tons are removed in the form of adult midges emerging from the waters. This amounts to two per cent of the original organic matter entering the system.

"Obviously," the researchers conclude, "the amount of sewage solids consumed by midge larvae to produce the 10 tons of adults is much higher than two per cent."

A detailed study to determine the contribution of the midge to the operation of sewage processing is currently under way in cooperation with the Oregon city of Monmouth. Research objectives at Monmouth include an assessment of the relationship between the amount of dissolved oxygen in the lagoon and the density of larval midge population.

Scientists say the midge seems to survive both seasonal and daily low concentrations of dissolved oxygen considerably better than most aquatic organisms.

Researchers credit the hardy insects with the fact that the Monmouth system—even during the winter months—achieves a degree of treatment comparable to far more elaborate facilities. This discovery leads them to believe that midge may have considerable significance in the battle to keep rivers and streams clean.

College Boys Set For Needle

NEW YORK (UPI)—College boys' wardrobe are sure to swell this fall when coeds get wind of the newest fashion fad—instant sweaters!

A new knitting technique developed by a Massachusetts knitwear designer enables Cathy Coed to complete a bulky sweater for her campus hero in six hours.

So "knit, purr, knit" may replace "Go team, go" as the favorite campus cheer this year.

Jeanne Damon, designer for the Reynolds Yarn Co. of Plainville, N.Y., dreamed up the technique which calls for using outsized lightweight aluminum needles measuring one inch in circumference. Instead of working with a single strand of yarn, the knitter uses from three to six yarn fibers at once.

The yarn company has packaged all the ingredients necessary to complete a garment (except the jumbo needles which are sold separately) in kits, priced from $16 and up, depending on size, style and type of yarn.

Miss Damon said her process is as "simple as a safety pin." To start a sweater, the knitter has to cast on only 20 stitches, compared to the more than 100 needed with skinny needles.

"It takes about six rows to get the hang of it," Miss Damon said in an interview, "but after that it's easy. It's such fun to start out with a few skeins of yarn in the morning and have a completed sweater a few hours later."

"Kids are fickle," she said. "They want to do things quickly. They don't want knitting to drag on for months and months—I wanted to give the kids instant gratification."

A native of Belmont, Mass., Miss Damon started knitting when she was five years old.

"I came from a family with four daughters and a strict mother. Mom said knitting was something every nice young lady should do. She said, 'You'll never know when you'll need that knowledge.' Wasn't she right?"

She works in a studio in her home in Brookline, Mass., where she lives with husband, Josh Levy, an electronics engineer whom she calls "the real genius in our family," and two sons, Ron, 16, and George, 11.

Besides designing sweaters for co-eds to knit for their beaux, Miss Damon also designs "kicky" knit dresses and "wowie-zowie" sophisticated fashions including knit cocktail dresses and evening gowns covered with rows and rows of shiny paillettes, all which can be completed in a single day.

Kits for making the pailletted dresses average around $100.

13,000 In U.S. Now Over 100, Number Rising

By HARRY FERGUSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

The other day Brig.-Gen. William J. Glasgow, a retired army officer, died in El Paso, Tex. He had fought in the Spanish-American War and chased Pancho Villa through Mexico, but that isn't what made him news. It was the fact that he was 101 years old.

It may be that in the 21st century the fact that a person has passed 100 will cease to be news because there will be so many of them. Each year the life span of the average American increases. Death is in steady retreat from the advances of science.

The Social Security Administration says there are about 13,000 Americans over the age of 100. How did they do it? A survey of a cross-section of them failed to produce any data that would shed light on the matter. Some of the replies:

"I got where I am by avoiding blondes."

"I try to follow the Ten Commandments."

"Always looking at the bright side."

"A swig of wine in the morning and another swig at night."

The only reasonable conclusion is that these oldsters were blessed with a rugged body to start with and then enjoyed considerable luck. It cannot be proved, but it seems to be close to a fact that 110 is about the maximum age a man can live. An Englishman named Henry Jenkins was reported to have died at 169 and Thomas Parr at 152. One reads of Russian peasants credited with equally incredible ages. But careful research into such legends invariably turns them up as unsupported. Usually there has been a mistake in filling out the birth certificate or some relative has a faulty memory. And some people just live about it.

There is no myth and no lie, however, about the way Americans are enjoying a longer life span. In 1900 the life expectancy of the average American was 49.2. Today it is 70.2.

For some reason the life expectancy varies as between men and women and whites and non-whites. The white female has the best chance because she has an expectancy of 74.6 years. Next comes the white male (67.7 years), the non-white female (67.2), the non-white male (61.1). One obvious conclusion drawn by sociologists to account for the shorter life expectancy of non-whites is that white persons in the United States have a superior diet, starting in infancy.

More Americans die in March than any other month, and the supposition is that winter reduces the resistance of the body to disease. February is second worst month and January the third. Fewer persons die in August than any other month.

The Big Killers
What are the big killers in the United States? The U.S. Public Health Service has precise statistics. Take a cross-section of 100,000 Americans. About 941 of them will die each year. Here are the leading killers:

Diseases of the heart and the circulatory system 508
Cancer 452
Accidents of all types 155
Influenza and pneumonia 31
Disease of early infancy 28

The list runs on, and one of the most dramatic features of it is the story of tuberculosis. It once was the principal cause of death in this country, but science has so thoroughly subdued it that now tuberculosis kills only four out of our sample of 100,000 Americans.

In this day of the artificial heart and kidney, in science's steady conquest of disease it is a curious fact that many Americans take a fatalistic view about death.

Death will strike you whenever it is ready, they argue, and there isn't much you can do about it. It is decided by fate or something in the stars. Such persons are likely to quote you this short tale by Somerset Maugham:

There was a merchant in Baghdad who sent his servant to market to buy provisions and in a little while the servant came back white and trembling: "Master, just now I was jostled by a woman in the crowd and when I turned I saw that it was Death that jostled me. She looked at me and made a threatening gesture. Lend me your horse and I will ride to Samarra where Death will not find me."

The merchant lent him the horse and as fast as the horse could gallop he went. Then the merchant went down to the market place and saw Death standing in the crowd and he said "Why did you make a threatening gesture to my servant this morning?" Death said, "That was not a threatening gesture. I am postponing your appointment in Samarra."

I was astonished to see him in Baghdad, for I have an appointment with him tonight in Samarra."

More Americans every day are postponing their appointment in Samarra.

Olympics Send Mexicans Back To Classrooms

By JAIME PLENN

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—

Many thousands of Mexican men and women are going back to school this year and most of next year.

They are studying Spanish and Mexican history and geography, other languages, traffic regulation, vehicle maintenance and other subjects.

The big back-to-school movement is due to the 1968 Olympic Games scheduled to take place in Mexico in October, 1968.

There will be a kind of "final examination" for many of the pupils in October of this year, when the Pre-Olympic games are staged, with participation of at least 45 countries.

The Pre-Olympic Games will be, if plans of the organizing committee work out, a complete dress rehearsal for the 1968 events.

Those going to the various schools with the Olympics in mind are for the most part people who come into daily contact with travelers from abroad—chauffeurs, taxi drivers, policemen, receptionists, hotel clerks, bus drivers, waiters and other employees.

The government tourism department conducts a permanent school for hotel and restaurant employees, and their courses are being amplified with the Olympic Games in view.

Newest School

The newest specialized school was opened for the benefit of 150 men who will be driving the official automobiles to be assigned to carry delegates, athletes and officials during the 1968 games.

But in addition to skill at driving, they are being drilled in being properly groomed, and to be, in fact, tourist guides.

Aside from the thousands whose paid jobs will call for helping the Olympic visitors, the organizing committee is trying to arrange for volunteers—people in the professions and special occupations—who will be able to take care of their counterparts here for the world tournament.

For instance, for the Pre-Olympic Games there will be at least 200 medical doctors in attendance, to watch over the respective countries' athletes and to make observations on performance at Mexico City's 7,349-foot altitude.

The Mexican Sports Medicine Federation is calling on its members to be prepared to welcome these visitors and cooperate with them in every way possible. Special meetings and round tables at the professional level are being prepared for the visit of the doctors from more than 40 countries.

Off-Beat Wills

Draw Bank View

By ROBERT SHEPARD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—

Where there's a will, there's a way—and sometimes the way can be pretty offbeat.

Bank of America, with headquarters in San Francisco, recently completed 50 years in the business of handling wills and trusts. Officials took the occasion to review their files and came up with some real odd jobs.

One man directed in his will that all his money be placed in a trust with a single provision. The bank was instructed to once a year hire a writer of some renown to publicize the man's theory that there is no law of gravity.

Another request was in the will of a woman who directed the bank to erect a statue of Aphrodite—the goddess of love and beauty—in a children's playground in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park.

When a certain straight-laced Englishman died he left a substantial inheritance to his son. The will, however, had some specific provisions.

The son was to follow his doctor's orders to diet and stay away from alcohol. He was to refrain from buying records, or birthday gifts except those of nominal value and then only if friends or relatives reciprocated.

He was to be in bed by 9 p.m. every night and not to waste any time on the telephone talking to salesmen or other "high pressure talkers."

Fortunately for the son—who was in his early fifties—the will specified that he follow the rules "to the best of his abilities."

Funny Business

In many cases the estates of deceased persons include businesses that require prompt attention if the heirs are to receive any benefit.

If the deceased was the sole owner and proprietor, the executor—the bank—must find

Lake Placid Haven Seeks New Invasion

By FRANK H. RICE

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., (UPI)—

Nearly a quarter of a century ago this peaceful little Adirondack Mountain community suddenly took on the appearance of a virtual armed camp—and it's never been quite the same since.

During 1944 and 1945 more than 1,000 veterans of World War II streamed daily through the quiet halls of the Lake Placid Club, Northwood School and the plush Marcy Hotel.

The Federal government took over all three and the winter sports Olympic arena as well as a stop-off haven for GIs who had fought across Europe and through the jungles of Southeast Asia.

Many were wounded vets. The Lake Placid Club and its environs provided a two-week resting place before the soldiers were to take off again—those who could—for the final battles of the world conflict.

The GIs, who came from every branch of service, were given the chance to forget the war, relax, undergo physicals and be re-indoctrinated in "how to be a civilian again."

Many brought their wives and the government picked up the tab. They could go boating, swimming, golfing, play tennis, go horseback riding in summer, and ski. Go riding down the Mt. Van Hoevenberg bobrun or ski-joring in winter.

The 1213th Redistribution Center was an innovation although a similar one had been set up earlier at Asheville, N.C. It was commanded by Col. Frederick B. Dodge, a wearer of the Purple Heart and other battle honors.

Invasion

One thousand soldiers, each of whom had to have overseas service, moved into the Club every day—30,000 a month. They stayed there two weeks and moved on, some back to civilian life, others to still new battle grounds.

The soldiers and their wives slept in comfort and ate the best food. Some of the quarters to which they were assigned were priced as high as $40 and $50 a day when occupied by civilians.

The Center had its own newspaper. While the men were at the station there was no reveille and no strict army discipline. All that was asked of them was that they report for physicals and attend re-orientation classes.

The 1213th was in existence for approximately two years—1944 and 1945. It was dismantled quickly and returned to its former status within weeks of the close of World War II.

Many changes have taken place since the big invasion. Before then, Lake Placid was a quiet town with one main street that could be covered by walking in perhaps 10 or 15 minutes. The only uniforms in sight were those worn by police or firemen.

To Lake Placid, the center was a shot in the arm. Clubs and stores burgeoned. The Marcy Hotel, a quiet village hostelry, became the plush "city" hotel it remains. Motels have sprung up by the dozens along miles of newly-paved highways leading into and out of town.

The war years have been all but forgotten by the residents, but they hope for another "invasion" in the coming decade with a plan to bring the 1967 Winter Olympics to the village. This should bring "soldiers" of another kind.

qualified persons to run the business.

Falling that, the bank must step in and run things. In such cases trust officers have found themselves assigned to jobs well removed from the quiet routine of their desks.

One man with some farm experience was called on to milk 60 cows after the hired help walked off the estate.

Other trust officers have found themselves involved in the operation of a babysitting agency and a southern California pen pal club.

With another estate, the bank became responsible for a girls' rooming house in a university town. For this job the bank turned to a member of its staff who had five daughters of his own. He was given the task of hiring a house mother, the cooks and the gardener and generally overseeing the entire operation.

Occasionally the bank is left with an estate which includes a stable of racing horses. The quickest way for race horses to deteriorate in value is if they are not kept racing.

In the interest of the estate, therefore, conservative bank officers sometimes find themselves involved in the "Sport of Kings."

Less glamorous work developed when the bachelor owner of a pawnshop died, leaving the bank with the responsibility of clearing up his estate.

It took appraisers and bank workers six weeks to com-

Study Possible Change In District Line Of Schools

Newton school officials will work with the city's Planning Department in studying elementary school enrollment patterns with an eye to possible future changes in district lines.

Superintendent Charles E. Brown told the School Committee on Monday night that 12 elementary schools at the present time could accommodate more students and at least eight are tightly occupied.

"It is clearly time to take an intensive look at the elementary school district line pattern though we know the subject can be an emotional one," Dr. Brown said.

"We have no pre-determined notions as to what changes, if any, should be made," Dr. Brown noted. However, no real look has been taken since a South side study in 1960 and a North side one in 1961.

Dr. Brown pointed to family movements within school districts as a very unstable phenomena in predicting future enrollment figures.

"We're not at all sure we will produce a brilliant solution," Dr. Brown confessed. The superintendent's statements were part of another report on still not final enrollment figures in the Newton schools this year. Final figures are compiled after Oct. 1.

There were, at the last count, 18,244 students enrolled in all of the city's schools as compared with 18,175 a year ago.

The pattern shows a decline of 49 in the elementary schools, a slight decrease of 18 in the junior highs and an increase of 136 in the senior high schools.

In other action the School Committee approved a transfer of $70,000 from the Pupil Transportation Account to various accounts having to do with operational salaries.

The need for the additional funds was forced by a ruling in February with regard to the Fair Labor Standards Amendments stating that time and one-half must be paid to all civil service employees for overtime.

Custodians in the schools were never paid on this basis previously.

The impact for the city on an annual basis will be between $75,000 and $80,000, Gilleland said.

The School Department is studying staffing patterns, Gilleland noted when asked by Committeeman Manuel Beckwith if it might make more sense to have a second shift.

Custodians now put in 520 hours of overtime annually, the business director said. This covers such activities as heating, flag raising and lowering, summer school, Halloween, holidays, PTA meetings and community activities.

The money will all be reimbursable in time, Gilleland said.

Dr. Brown informed the committee that a grant of $28,600 has been received from the government to provide more career information for vocational students.

The developmental project will be funded under Public Law 88.

Fire Damages Quarters Of Sea Scouts

Fire damaged the headquarters of the Norumbega Council's Sea Scouts at 960 Watertown st., West Newton, Monday. Most of the damage was confined to the rear upper floor, but scouting equipment and records were lost.

The building, formerly a residence, was renovated recently and used by Ship 13 of the Sea Scouts. Damage estimates and cause of the fire were undetermined.

Only two months ago the Painters and Decorators Assoc. of Newton painted the outside of the building.

Officials of the Sea Scouts said the building has been plagued by vandalism in recent weeks. Sunday, vandals got into the building and left the building a "mess," it was reported.

Parking Drive Nets Scofflaw

In the drive on flagrant parkers, Newton police last week towed their first auto from College road—the owner had 19 unpaid traffic tickets since the first of the year.

Capt. Richard F. Donahue, in charge of the traffic bureau said this week the towing will continue until out-of-state owners realize that the department means business when dealing with those who ignore parking tickets.

The Board of Aldermen last month appropriated money to pay for the towing program.

The first car towed had a total of 19 tickets against it for a total of $52 owed. The owner will be required to pay the $52 plus a new ticket charge, plus an $8 towing charge and at least one day's storage cost.

As part of an overall effort to keep a record of cars owned by college students, colleges in all cities and towns are required to issue decals to all students, with a cross reference at police stations for identification.

Six Oppose Coffee Shop Proposed For Langley Rd.

Six persons registered opposition Monday night at a hearing before the Newton Board of Aldermen on a petition for establishment of a Tarry 'n Taste coffee shop on Langley rd., Newton Centre.

The opposed petition was one of four heard by the Claims and Rules Committee of the Board.

The six persons, all neighbors, argued that the traffic in the Newton Centre Sq. is bad enough and the addition of the coffee shop would increase traffic.

Tarry 'n Taste is part of the Mr. Donut of America chain. The shop in the centre would be in Colonial style and the petitioner said it would not encourage loitering. Proponents said the main level would be used for the coffee and pastry shop, and the basement level would be used as the regional offices to interview prospective dealers in Tarry 'n Taste or Mr. Donut concessions.

No one was recorded in opposition to a petition of Gordon B. Gifford, Jr. to erect 16 town houses at 56-64 Washington pk., Newton. The petitions call for the construction of two buildings of eight units each, all renting for about $250 a month. If allowed, the units would be ready for occupancy in 1968.

Two Newton Men In Education Compact Group

Two Newton men were sworn in this week as members of the seven-member Compact for Education by Gov. John A. Volpe.

Dr. Jerome Weisner, of 91 Shattuck road, Watertown, M.I.T. professor and science advisor to President John F. Kennedy, was also named a member by Gov. Volpe.

The Commonwealth entered into the nationwide compact in July for several reasons but principally "to encourage and promote state and local initiative in the development, maintenance, improvement and administration of educational systems and institutions."

HOUSE PROBES RAP PENTAGON ON M16 RIFLES

HOUSE INVESTIGATORS charged yesterday that U.S. troops in Vietnam had experienced "serious and excessive" jamming of their new M16 automatic rifles. They said the Pentagon's failure to correct the problem promptly "borders on criminal negligence". The Armed Services subcommittee disputed claims by Army and Marine Corps officials that reports of malfunctions were exaggerated and that most breakdowns were caused by sloppy maintenance by their GI users.

The subcommittee also accused Colt's Firearms Inc., maker of the lightweight, high-velocity rifle, of making excessive profits on government sales. It called for further investigation of the "close relationship" between the Defense Department and Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., producer of the gunpowder used in M16 ammunition that the subcommittee singled out as the chief reason for the M16's troubles.

ADMINISTRATION WARNS OF PERIL IN TRADE QUOTAS

THE ADMINISTRATION warned Congress yesterday enactment of protectionist trade legislation would threaten a serious depression in the United States and have "incalculable consequences" on its worldwide military and political position. Five cabinet members sent by President Johnson testified before the Senate Finance Committee against a flood of bills in Congress — more than 800 in the House alone — that would impose import quotas on hundreds of foreign commodities.

The administration's particular concern is a move by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen to attach a blanket quota amendment to the House-passed Social Security bill the committee is now considering.

SOVIET PAPER SEES U. S. INVASION OF VIETNAM

THE SOVIET NEWSPAPER Red Star said yesterday the United States is massing troops, artillery, planes and warships near the Demilitarized Zone for an invasion of Communist North Vietnam next February.

A lengthy article written by Lt. Col. Alexander Leontyev said the American generals had reached a dead end and the only solution they see is further escalation of the war. "A 100,000-man strong army including Marines — the shock force of the aggressor's army — artillery, aircraft and 7th Fleet ships have been concentrated near the 17th parallel," he said.

11th HOUR HITCH HALTS MINDSZENTY'S EXILE

AN 11th HOUR HITCH yesterday blocked an agreement between the Roman Catholic church and the Hungarian government which would have opened the way for Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty to end 11 years of asylum in the U.S. Embassy in Budapest and go to Rome.

Although there was no official statement from either side, the sources said it seemed the 76-year-old Hungarian primate had set difficult conditions for the Hungarian government to meet. In order to break the deadlock, Franz Cardinal Koenig of Austria flew to Budapest from Rome Tuesday in hopes of working out a compromise. When he left today, however, Koenig hinted he had expected Mindszenty to leave with him. "I am sorry I am alone," he said.

DONAHUE SUGGESTS MEAL TAX CASH HELP STADIUM

SENATE PRESIDENT Maurice Donahue advanced a plan yesterday designed to assist the building of a multi-million dollar sports stadium for the Boston area. Donahue suggested that the money from state meal taxes be used to defray some of the enormous costs of the stadium.

He said with the state about to take over the welfare program, the money heretofore given to cities and towns for welfare costs (about $15 million) could now be turned over to the Turnpike Authority to assist in the operation of the stadium.

HUB MAN GETS 15-YEAR TERM IN ROBBERY

Walsh of Jamaica Plain, currently is serving a lengthy sentence at the Lewisburg, Pa. Penitentiary for armed robbery of the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank.

U.S. District Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. ordered Walsh to serve the new sentence concurrently with the one he is serving.

Ballots Set For Election In November

New ballot labels, ready this week for use in Newton's new vote recording units in the upcoming election, will, as usual, have incumbents' names appear first on the ballot in each office.

The ballot labels, as printed by the Election Commission, have the office for mayor first, followed by the alderman-at-large positions, followed by the School Committee. Ward aldermen are at the end of the ballot, and those, naturally, will be different in each ward.

Election Commission Secretary Alan W. Licarie said that in this year's election, there will be no ballot, per se. There are ballot labels, punch cards, and envelopes for write-ins.

Candidates' names are printed on the ballot labels and are inserted in plastic pages. The punch cards are inserted in the voter units and must be punched beside the candidates of choice. They'll be used to count the vote.

The cards are then put into envelopes which also serve as write-in ballots, and then inserted into the ballot boxes at the precincts.

To write-in votes, the voter must put the name, address

Fast, Accurate Vote Tally Seen on Nov. 7

"Quicker election returns and an infallibly accurate vote count will feature the Newton municipal election this year, Reps. Edward Dickson and Theodore D. Mann predicted this week.

"This will result from the use of an electronic voting system which has been authorized at this session of the legislature," the two legislators explained. "The new law stemmed from bills filed and supported by the Newton legislative delegation."

Petition Calls For Open Bids On Land Sales

A petition calling for open bids on the sale of public land in Newton was filed this week for consideration by the Board of Aldermen.

McDonnell said the notice would give other interested buyers a chance to bid. It would provide a method of open public bidding on each

Mrs. Hicks And Kevin White Seen In Neck - and - Neck Race

The contest for the right to serve as Boston's next Mayor presently shapes up as a close, hard fight which will be decided by developments and shifts in voting sentiment in the closing stages of the campaign.

Political pundits picked Secretary of State Kevin H. White as the favorite and labelled School Committee woman Louise Day Hicks as the underdog immediately after last month's preliminary election.

They predicted that a substantial majority of the votes polled by the eight unsuccessful candidates in the September primary would shift to Secretary White, boosting him into a comfortable lead.

Pick Committee To Aid "Corner" Planning Survey

The lingering matter of an application for planning funds from the federal government that could pave the way for a redevelopment project at Newton Corner was handed over to a committee of six aldermen by the Board of Aldermen on Monday night.

By a vote of 16 to 1 with Board President Wendell R. Bauckman dissenting, the aldermen approved a motion made by Planning Committee Chairman Franklin N. Flaschner.

The motion asked that the matter of the pending request by the Newton Redevelopment Authority for approval of a survey and planning application for the Newton Corner Conservation Area Project be transferred from the Planning Committee to an ad hoc committee composed of the aldermen from the area—Wards 1 and 7—for further study.

It was recommended by Flaschner that the senior alderman from the area, William E. Hopkins, be chairman.

MBTA Express Run To Boston Popular Here

Mass transportation may not be robust but it is far from dead.

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority today announced that their recently inaugurated Express Bus service from Watertown and Newton Corner to downtown Boston via the Massachusetts Turnpike has met with the overwhelming approval of the public.

This brand new line, which brings "T" patrons to the heart of Boston in 17 minutes in air-conditioned buses, carried 762 passengers on its first day of operation.

Now, approximately one month later, the daily passenger count has risen to 1,600 a day. The popularity of this service has grown to the point that the Authority was encouraged to inaugurate additional service.

Starting on Monday, October 16th, during the evening rush hours the number of buses serving the line has been doubled and extra trips are added throughout the day.

New timetables have been issued and may be obtained on the buses themselves, at the Information Booth at Park Street Station, or by writing or telephoning the Customer Service Center, 150 Causeway street, Boston, Mass., 02114—telephone number 722-5100.

Authority officials urge patrons in the Newton-Watertown-Waltham area to use this service in the off-peak hours and they suggest that the speed and the comfort of the trip will more than satisfy the needs of the commuters. The one-way fare on the newly established line is 40c.

Transit experts are carefully noting the increased patronage on this Express Bus line and hope it is the start of a trend which will show that mass transportation is on its way back.

GLENN M. SHRIBERG

Atty. Shriberg Candidate For Ward Two Seat

Atty. Glenn M. Shriberg of 247 Linwood Ave., Newtonville, is a candidate for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 2.

In announcing his candidacy Shriberg said, "we all must face up to the vexing problem of the ever increasing tax burden upon our citizens. The need for reevaluation of the current methods used to sustain our city is clearly apparent."

Shriberg continued, "every time that a public facility becomes obsolete or inadequate prematurely, the taxpayers must carry the burden of the replacement or addition costs. "With this the case, the need is obvious for more careful city planning procedures to effectively provide for and protect all citizens of Newton."

The Newtonville attorney also said, "I also believe that our city fathers' attitudes have been subdued by their own complacency. This complacency may well stem from the fact that the many incumbents of the Aldermanic seats treat their positions as self appointive ones rather than elective ones."

"In order to cultivate new and vibrant policies with regard to our city government, a more inspired type of representation is required. I believe that I will be able to provide my fellow citizens with such representation."

Shriberg is on the board of directors of the Newton Jaycees and is president of the Newton Association for Responsible Civic Progress.

He was graduated from Newton High School and from Boston University and BU Law School. He is a member of the Massachusetts and American Bar Associations.

Upon completion of law school Shriberg served with the United States Army at Fort Benning, Georgia, as an aide to the Staff Judge Advocate. He is a member of the U.S. Army Reserve.

This request is made so that the names of the men or women they desire and thus assure a proper distribution of the names in order that no serviceman will be overlooked.

Mayor Monte G. Bashas declared yesterday that he personally will send a Christmas gift package to each Newton serviceman in Viet Nam whose name and address is received by the Graphic.

The Mayor mailed gifts last year to Newton men stationed in Viet Nam on the Yuletide. The responses from the grateful servicemen were heart-warming.

But we'd like to see that each serviceman - and any servicewoman if there are any from Newton in Viet Nam - are remembered on Christmas Day with several gifts, apart from those they receive from the members of their own families.

This is an undertaking in which veteran organizations are certain to join with enthusiasm.

However, it's also one in which all the clubs and organizations in Newton should participate.

Whatever we may think about the war in Viet Nam, these are our boys stationed in that far-away country.

We certainly should do anything possible to make this coming Christmas as cheery and as happy for them as possible.

If each PTA organization, every church and woman's club would send Yuletide gifts to one or two servicemen, they certainly would be the envy of their buddies.

There undoubtedly are young men serving in Viet Nam who at one time attended each school in Newton. That's something for the PTA group to ponder.

In the troops now fighting in Viet Nam are Newton youths who attended services at one of the churches in the city. That's something for the church clubs to consider.

If every club and PTA group would do a little, the Newton boys who will see Christmas Day down in Viet Nam would be overwhelmed by their Yuletide remembrances.

Club officials willing to cooperate are asked to notify the Graphic.

And those with relatives in Viet Nam are asked to

With an early start and working together, we should be able to do the job in spectacular fashion.

Lions Club may I express our thanks and appreciation for the conduct of the Newton Firemen in containing the fire at the Sea Scouts Building Wednesday (Oct. 11).

"The efficiency and skill were certainly apparent in confining what could have been complete destruction to the one corner of the building. This certainly attests to the training and skill of the men," Evans declared.

Victory For The Academy

The controversy involving the Massachusetts Maritime Academy was resolved last week when Dr. A. Sanford Limouze, president, was given a unanimous vote of confidence by the Board of Trustees of State Colleges for his handling of a disciplinary case at the Academy last spring.

The case concerned two Academy midshipmen who resigned because of their involvement in the beating of a third boy during a training cruise. One cadet later appealed and applied for reinstatement claiming he had been denied "due process" and had actually been forced to resign.

Dr. Limouze tendered his resignation three weeks ago when Trustees voted at that time to refer the case to Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson, rather than back up his actions. Limouze charged that the case had been riddled with political interference almost from the beginning and claimed the Trustees had avoided their responsibilities.

The stand by Dr. Limouze was backed by the Attorney General when he found that the question of whether Limouze had acted properly in accepting the resignations was solely the responsibility of the Trustees.

An executive committee summoned by Kenneth R. Fox, chairman of the Trustees, recommended that Limouze be backed by the full Board and it was so voted. The Trustees also voted to ask Dr. Limouze to continue as president of the Academy.

Pleased at the vote, Dr. Limouze said he believed the resolution of the struggle would have beneficial results beyond the Maritime Academy.

"You can't have a first-rate educational system unless it is free from political pressure," he said. "And I don't think there will be quite as much pressure on me now — or on other heads of institutions — as a result of this struggle. It may have done some good."

We hope so.

Welfare Problem

Welfare expenditures in Massachusetts have reached staggering proportions.

That was reflected in the appeals by most of the cities and many of the towns of the Commonwealth that the State assume the welfare costs now carried by the local communities.

It was indicated again by the recommendation of Governor Volpe that the State income tax be increased to yield the necessary money the Commonwealth will need starting next July 1 when it will take over the operation of the welfare system.

That, inevitably, raises the question of whether all the persons now receiving public assistance in Massachusetts are actually in need of it and deserving of it.

No one would deny deserving persons and families the help they need to avoid hardship.

However, the average taxpayer would like to believe and, indeed, has a right to expect that the tax dollars he provides for welfare purposes are going to people legitimately in need of help.

Judge Robert Gardiner Wilson of the Suffolk Probate Court raised a similar point recently when he protested against a federal law which prohibits the disclosure of welfare information even to judges. He said the failure of welfare agencies to investigate cases thoroughly hurts two classes of people.

"It hurts the taxpayers, and it penalizes honest people in need of help who, perhaps should be getting more," he said. "If the man of the family is out of a job, or the man of the family has abandoned his responsibilities, then it is a wonder how women and children can live on some of the welfare allotments," the judge said.

"If less were squandered on the undeserving, the allotment to really needy families could be increased," Judge Wilson declared. "It is not just penalizing the taxpayers. It is penalizing the poor who should get more than they're getting."

The judge's points are well taken. Any undeserving persons getting public funds to which they are not honestly entitled should be removed from the welfare rolls. The taxpayers footing the bills have a right to expect and demand that. Then it should be possible, as Judge Wilson says, to do more for the really deserving."

Miss O'Brien Hosts Completes Course At Nurses Session In Civil Defense

Miss Gertrude O'Brien of Newton is a member of the committee which planned the 62nd convention of the Massachusetts Nurses Association now underway at the Hotel Statler in Boston.

The theme of the meeting which concludes Oct. 20 is "The Search for Excellence in Nursing Service."

Non-nurse speakers include Dr. John H. Knowles of Chestnut Hill, general director of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Vincent J. Tuscher, 19 Craigie terrace, Newtonville, recently completed courses of instruction in shelter management and radiological monitoring conducted by the Massachusetts Civil Defense Agency.

Mr. Tuscher, information officer for the U. S. Army Recruiting Service in Southern New England, attended the two-day course held at the Boston Army Base. He was awarded a certificate of graduation by Anthony J. Blanchard, course director.

Child vs System

Editor of The Graphic:
Any good school system must do some controlled experimentation or lose its right to excellence. Newton's end product is usually a good one, but while its experiments boast of concern for the individual child (as at Meadowbrook), its practices crystallize into situations of more concern for the "system" than for the child.

Numbers of children play sacrificial lambs in a game that eventually ends in triumph for the school rather than for themselves.

Emphasis on Illinois math has considerably mellowed over the years, yet at one time many college bound students suffered in their college entrance examination boards.

We are still in the process of the same adjustment with our new—and very interesting—social studies program, with no parallel remedial procedure for the student requiring a history college board.

Now—and only now—is there tacit admission that the Meadowbrook program has been less than perfect, but there was steadfast denial of such a remote possibility even two or three years ago. In other words, some children serve the system rather than themselves as individuals.

When we invite children of an inferior school community to share in our relative bounty, we are not experimenting. But when we thrust our children, without real controls, without concern for justifiable parental apprehension, without preserving the rights of individual children, headlong into new methods (that will eventually be moderated), we are minimizing the rights of the individual and maximizing the "system."

It is a method by which the end justifies the means and the reason why we now must have an in-community public relations program while we enjoy so much out-of-community public acclaim.

When the methods are finally perfected, any group may, in perfect confidence, emulate our facile working laboratory.

Perhaps it is unfair to expect any member of the Newton School Committee to comprehend a given experiment unless he has a child involved. He cannot possibly understand through a few cursory visits, or through interviews with strange children or through the plaudits of administrative satisfaction.

The ideals sound so lofty, but the realities often expose complications which cannot be adequately articulated, and the School Committee probably should not be expected to grasp a void from which its majority (in each experiment) is removed.

So, separated as it is from the actual experience, the Committee, which works as a monolith—with but one opinion and no dissent from within to consider—does the best job it can.

In any event, we really have no choice but to function as directed, as an educational development center—and a very good one at that! As things stand, we will simply have to be content with the obvious view that this is a far better extreme than that of a reactionary, anti-intellectual combine.

Time will eventually sober the excesses—that is, for those who have the fortitude to "wait it out" over the years!

Very truly yours,
Brenda R. Tanger

Praise For MBTA

Editor of The Graphic:
In a day and age when everyone complains as a matter of course and protests are the modern form of communication, I should like to congratulate someone for once. In a big way. And that is the M.T.A. Their Turnpike bus... it is fantastic, fabulous!

I should like to suggest to you that instead of announcing it on Page 40 (that the MTA are running a Rapid Transit Service from Newton Corner, stopping opposite the Paramount and again opposite Hubbard Drug Store, to Downtown Boston (Jordan Marsh) every fifteen minutes)... that it should be Front Page News. By word of mouth alone I heard of this new bus, and all too few others seem to know of it.

After years of trailing dismally along on the trolley, a clanking forty-five minutes from Park St. at the least, or battling with the rush-hour traffic in the car, that bus is a Heaven-sent miracle. For FORTY CENTS (and the Pike is now 35 cents!) I can leave Jordan Marsh at 3:20 and arrive home before my Elementary School children can walk in the door! A scant twenty minutes from door-to-door.

For the sake of the hundreds of commuters who could use the bus so comfortably and so swiftly; please do give that beleaguered and long-maligned M.T.A. some extra coverage, through the medium of your newspaper. They need some encouragement for once. And, after all, if we don't sit back

Aldermen Pass Sign Control Ordinance By Vote Of 19-1

A new ordinance regulating and controlling signs in the City of Newton was passed by the Board of Aldermen on Monday night by a vote of 19-1.

The lone dissenting vote was cast by Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell who seemed to feel some aspects of the new ordinance might be construed as unconstitutional under the free speech amendment.

Claims and Rules Committee Chairman Franklin N. Flaschner explained that up until now businessmen, except for gas station proprietors, could erect on their own property free-standing signs of any size as long as they complied with the applicable building code. They could put up almost anything.

The new ordinance requires that application be made to the Board of Aldermen to erect free-standing signs and size limits are spelled out in the new law.

Size limitations are also specified for signs directly on business establishments, and perpendicular signs are limited to 6 ft.

Since questions concerning the constitutionality of prohibiting political signs in residential areas had arisen at previous discussions on the new sign ordinance, all men-

Same Minority

Letter to The Editor:
In the event that a few Newtonians may have been misled by the tirade my letter of Sept. 14th evoked, I hereby submit some facts.

One could hardly confuse the activities of the Newton Community Peace Center with those of the Vietnam Summer Committee (Newton) inasmuch as both groups have the same address, many of the same workers, and the same goals, the latter being to spread anti-Vietnam war sentiment among the populace.

In fact, after studying the "great issues of war and peace" for three years now—in my case, the Vietnam war and the peace organizations—it has become obvious to me that each new anti-war project is given a distinctive name but the same old cast of characters appears on the committees.

The reasoning behind this is, of course, to create the impression that many, many citizens oppose the war when, in reality, it is the same rosy minority.

Sincerely,
MARY G. LEE

'GROWING PROBLEM!'

Political Highlights

Mrs. Hicks, they felt, had come fairly close to reaching her maximum potential strength in topping the preliminary field and would be at a disadvantage in a two-candidate battle which would draw a bigger turnout of voters.

So far it hasn't worked out that way.

Reliable polls indicate that White and Mrs. Hicks are in a neck-and-neck battle at this stage in their campaign.

White may have a slim lead, but at this point it appears to be no larger than the percentage veteran pollsters usually allow to cover a possible margin of error in their survey returns.

This means that the mayoralty contest still remains to be won and lost in the final days before election. It means that either contender could emerge the victor when the returns are counted on the night of Nov. 7. It means that a major mistake by either candidate could be fatal.

If either candidate recorded a gain during the two-week blackout of the mayoralty campaign caused by the Red Sox, it apparently was Mrs. Hicks, not Secretary White.

Some political experts may be obliged to revise their appraisals and sizeups of this unusual election battle.

Political analysts generally believe the fact that Mrs. Hicks is a woman will be too great a handicap for her to overcome.

Boston never has elected a woman Mayor and is not likely to start this year, they contend.

Most men are not disposed to vote for a woman for Mayor, they maintain.

There is no substantial evidence yet that these are political facts and not erroneous suppositions.

Surveys of voting sentiment made to date indicate that Mrs. Hicks probably will draw a somewhat larger percentage of support from women voters than from men.

However, many thousands of men in the capital city will cast their votes for her, and more women than men are enrolled as voters in Boston.

So the fact that Mrs. Hicks is a woman is not a handicap which is crushing her election hopes.

What the fact that she is a woman does do is pose a perplexing problem for White in determining how best to campaign against her.

An extremely astute political figure, who has never lost an election contest, told the writer the other day that he would much prefer to run against the late James M. Curley or John E. Powers than against Mrs. Hicks.

"It's very difficult to figure out what kind of fight to make against her," he observed.

Mrs. Hicks has an unusual problem of her own. Because the contest to become Boston's next Mayor is commanding nation-wide attention, a number of national publications have assigned staff members to cover her campaign.

Most of them do so for the purpose of assembling material with which to lambaste her. That probably does not hurt her as much as does the interruption and disruption they cause in her daily campaigning for public support.

But from the present estimates of her strength and her position as she enters the crucial stages of her battle, it would not appear that they have done any serious damage to her cause.

Some of the political observers, incidentally, may be underestimating Mrs. Hicks. She has a soft-spoken, gentle approach even when a hostile interviewer is leveling a loaded question at her. But she also is a resourceful and capable campaigner.

One columnist declared the other day that Kevin White has never been involved in a tough election fight before this one. That does not happen to be the fact. White has won reelection as Secretary of State by such wide margins that his victories came easily.

Back in 1960, however, when he was making his first run for public office, he had a life-and-death struggle in the Democratic primary.

After winning the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State, White defeated Edward W. Brooke in the subsequent election in which the Republican candidates won the Governorship and a seat in the U.S. Senate.

In view of Brooke's smashing victories in 1962, 1964 and 1966, it would be ridiculous to rate him as any less than a formidable adversary in 1967.

Indeed, if Brooke were not a powerful vote-getter, he would not have prevailed over Elliot Richardson in their 1962 battle for the Republican nomination for Attorney General.

White and Mrs. Hicks have contrasting problems in the present campaign.

Mrs. Hicks must persuade her supporters that she has a real chance of winning election, which she obviously does.

White, on the other hand, must convince his backers that he is involved in a rugged fight, which he is, and that his election is by no means a sure thing, which it isn't. Any over-confidence in the White ranks resulting from the forecasts just after the primary could prove disastrous to his election hopes.

If the White adherents take their man's election for granted, they could be in for a stunning shock when the returns are tabulated.

New Welfare Law Makes More Taxes Necessary

When the members of the Legislature enacted a new law under which the State would assume the administration of welfare in the 351 cities and towns of the Commonwealth next July 1, they did not provide any means of paying the bills.

Now Governor Volpe has proposed a boost in the State income tax to raise the necessary money to cover the higher welfare costs and other increased expenses.

As would be expected, outcries of protests have developed at the idea of hiking the income tax levy.

However, the law-makers who voted to have the State assume the welfare expenses now borne by the local communities obviously knew that new taxes would have to be imposed to get the money to meet the costs involved.

To vote for the new welfare setup and not provide the funds necessary for its opera-checks on which they depend, and federal grants would be halted, they assert.

Some new taxes must be voted. If Volpe's recommendation for an income tax hike is rejected, the alternative will be a boost in the sales tax.

Fashion Notes

On Mayor Campaign

A New York newspaper, which sent a women staff reporter to Boston to cover mayoralty candidates Louise Day Hicks and Kevin H. White in the Columbus Day parade, dutifully informed its readers that Mrs. Hicks had run in her stockings and that her shoes had lost their shine before she completed her parade march.

It would have been quite a stunt if Mrs. Hicks had been able to walk the parade route without getting runs in her stockings or losing the shine from her shoes. Maybe they can do that over in New York.

Since the New York writer went that far in appraising Mrs. Hicks' appearance at the close of the parade, she might have asked Kevin White to take off his shoes so she could ascertain whether the Secretary of State acquired any holes in his socks during his campaign stint.

Instead, she dismissed White without even a fashion note.

Dave Powers' Remark Could Cause New Rift

Dave Powers, the court jester during the administration of the late President Kennedy, must have embarrassed the Kennedy brothers with one of his political observations the other day.

Powers declared that if President Johnson is denied renomination at next year's Democratic national convention, Senator Robert F. Kennedy will seek the nomination and the right to run as the Democratic candidate for President in 1968.

The likelihood that LBJ, with all his power and patronage, would be rejected by the Democratic national convention if he wants to run for another term, is so remote as to be non-existent.

Political conventions don't give the heave-ho to sitting Presidents.

It's doubtful that Powers' comment did much to improve relations between President Johnson and Bobby Kennedy.

University Professors May Answer For Actions

How supposedly responsible university professors can justify their action in encouraging students to violate the law by burning their draft cards is something this observer is unable to understand.

It's one thing to promote a peace march, or a demonstration against the war in Vietnam, but it's something else to cause or condone actions which they know could result in prison terms for the youths committing them.

If charges are true that some university professors actually pressured their students to engage in Monday's demonstrations, it would seem that action of some sort should be taken against the educators.

They certainly should be called upon to explain their actions.

Convocation At Junior College Set For Tuesday

The current trends in television programming will be discussed at Newton Junior College All-College Convocation to be held at 11:00 a.m., Tuesday, October 24, at the Newton High School Auditorium on Walnut street when Percy Shain, TV critic of the Boston Globe, will speak on "The good and bad in TV."

Mr. Shain, a resident of Newton, is rated one of the outstanding TV critics in the country. A graduate of Boston University, he has spent his lifetime on three newspapers: the Waltham News-Tribune, the Boston Post, and the Boston Globe.

In his newspaper background, he has worked as sports editor, desk editor, slot man, head of copy desk, make-up editor, editorial writer, and managing editor. In addition, he has contributed many articles to magazines concerned with the television industry.

Mr. Shain became television critic of the Boston Globe in 1959, and since that time he has brought to the public a discerning, knowledgeable evaluation of television, its programs and its plans for public service. This program is free and open to the public.

JASON SACKS

Jason Sacks To Seek To Retain Seat in Ward 7

Alderman Jason Sacks of 50 Dolphin road, Newton Centre, is seeking reelection to a second term as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 7.

A long time resident and businessman in Newton Centre, Sacks has served on the Public Works and Street Traffic Committees, and on the Pension, City Planning and Legislative Committees of the Board of Aldermen.

In his reelection announcement Sacks said:

"My work on the Board of Aldermen has been one of the most satisfying experiences I ever have had. The number of hours unselfishly given by so many men for no personal gain has been a revelation to me. Every Newton citizen should take the opportunity to visit at least one public meeting of the Board. It is most interesting.

"Those members of the Board who are retiring this year deserve the thanks of every citizen in our city for the great contribution they have made."

Sacks was graduated from the University of Michigan and attended its Graduate School. During World War II he served with the U. S. Navy as a lieutenant.

He is married to the former Betty Sherter of Newton. They are the parents of three sons, Robert, William and Michael.

Citing Newton's future needs, Sacks sees the necessity "for a broadening of the tax base to help the single family home owner." He also seeks improvement in the library system and the construction of a new Main Library.

Sacks served as a captain in the Newton - Wellesley Hospital fund raising drive and participated in the United Fund campaigns and the Cancer Crusade. He has served as president of the Ward School PTA and as vice president of the Newton PTA.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton High School

By KATE SOLOMON

Newton High is not an isolated, exclusively individualistic society. It shares some of the concerns of the outside world. For the past two weeks, like all of Massachusetts, it has given its full support to the Red Sox. The Boston team has been the "talk" of the school. Yastrzemski and Lomborg have become Newton High's idolized heroes.

The Student Council, at a meeting just prior to the opening game of the world series, officially proclaimed its patronage and homage to the Red Sox. The council requested from the school principal, Mr. Richard Mechem, that school be let out before each series game.

When this proposal was rejected, the Student Council asked that televisions be stationed around the school and that radios be permitted. Mr. Mechem replied that providing the individual teacher was willing, students could watch and listen to the game. In addition, housemasters dismissed early all students who had been lucky enough to obtain tickets.

For a large percentage of students, school was essentially over at 1:00 on four different occasions.

Newton High did not lose its sport spirit when the Red Sox lost the final and decisive game. Just the opposite. On Friday, October 13, school was officially over at 2:30 so Newton High students could attend the Newton-Waltham football game.

Senior Class Trip

Three hundred and ten seniors attended Montreal's "expo 67" October 6-8. The trip, made by bus, took eight hours each way. The total cost was $35 which included transportation, lodging, breakfast, and admission to the fair.

Boy and girl dorms were a half mile apart. The seniors were housed in apartments with beds in the bedrooms, kitchen, and living room.

The students were brought to and from the fair by chartered bus. At the fair the seniors had complete freedom. However, the public street cars were on strike and if the kids wished to sight-see in Montreal, they had to hire taxis.

Most pavilions of the fair closed by 10:00 but La Ronde, the amusement park, remained open until 2:00 A.M.

In general the seniors were amazed and somewhat disappointed by the long lines this late in the year, but were impressed by the friendliness of the city itself and enjoyed listening to and talking with the French speaking natives.

Mr. Richard Adams, Beals House housemaster, was in charge of the trip. He was assisted by Mrs. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Levin, Mr. and Mrs. Tenant, Mr. Meyer, Miss Littlewood, Miss Dellmuth, Mr. Barden, and Mr. Horn.

Student "Teachers"

Twenty eight students have signed up this year to teach science to Pierce School elementary students. The project has expanded from last year when only six students participated. This year the student-teachers will take over three fifth grade classes and possibly one fourth grade class.

The students teach during x-blocks or during their free periods and are supervised by both Mr. David Geike, science teacher at Newton High, and the teacher whose class they take over.

The Human Rights Club is also sponsoring a student-teacher program. Sixty of its members volunteered to do individual tutoring with Roxbury children and will teach Math and/or English. They will also sit and talk with the kids and try to establish a friendship which will promote sufficient confidence and trust in each other for the Roxbury students to discuss their problems.

"It is very important that each Newton High student remain with the program all year," said club chairman Jeff Crosby. "Otherwise, the Roxbury children will experience a crushing let down." Jeff also commented that the tutorees in general do not resent being helped by suburbanites and are appreciative of the fact that someone cares enough to want to assist them.

Newton High students will tutor one afternoon a week. They are responsible for their own transportation but hopefully carpools will be set up. The first session, they will sit in on someone else's tutor class and will meet their tutoree and his parents. After that, they will be essentially on their own.

All Newton Orchestra

This year, for the first time in Newton, a youth orchestra for both junior high and high school Newtonites has been established. The symphonic group, conducted by David Levinson and Donald March, both members of the Newton Public School Music Department, will hold auditions for wind and percussion players on November 7.

The string section is unlimited and all aspiring string musicians will have an opportunity to participate in the program.

Seventy-five students came to the first meeting of the "Newton Youth Orchestra". According to David March, this was a surprisingly large number, and he was quite pleased. At the present time, rehearsals will be held once a month from 7:00 to 8:30. The frequency of meetings in the future will depend entirely on the enthusiasm and interest shown by the group.

House News

The Adams House council, headed by Alan Rondina, sponsored a welcoming party for Mr. Norman Gaudet, their new housemaster. Marian Cooper, vice president, gave a speech in behalf of the house council, the students and the faculty, expressing the hope that Mr. Gaudet would enjoy working with them as much as they would enjoy working with him. The party was supposed to be a surprise and teachers did the baking since the students had recently done some. The reception was held in the decorated Adams House Commons Room and both teachers and students of Adams House were welcome.

Bacon House has finally made the possession of lockers at Newton High universal. The lockers are the smallest, thinnest lockers in the school, so that Bacon House may economize on space. To economize even further, two students have been assigned to each locker.

Newton Group To Back Gavin For President

A Newton group has been formed as part of the movement to draft retired General Gavin for President. It will endeavor both to obtain signatures and raise funds.

The Steering Committee of the Draft Gavin Movement in Newton includes Mrs. Stephen J. Fischer, chairman, as well as Mrs. Edwin Moise, Douglas McCay, Herbert Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Belenky and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ladd, all of Newton.

The group will cooperate with the Draft Gavin Committee's Central Office in Lexington.

Chief Perkins Warns Fire Losses Climbing

Newton Fire Department in preventing fires was issued today by Chief of Department Frederick A. Perkins Jr. as this city prepared to observe "Fire Prevention Week."

Chief Perkins urged that "Fire Prevention Week" which begins Sunday become a focal point for stepping up action aimed at preventing fires. He noted that fire losses this year are running sharply above those of 1966. The fire chief told the Graphic:

"Fire losses this year, if current trends continue, will be substantially higher than the record loss of $1.5 billion recorded in 1966."

"An increasing awareness of the importance of fire prevention is imperative."

"Householders should be particularly careful with fire, especially with smoking and matches, which are the leading cause of fires. Cooking, heating and electrical equipment should be checked periodically and repaired as necessary. All of these items which many persons take for granted can be, if neglected, dangerous fire hazards."

"Everyone from grown-ups to children should be constantly alert to the danger of fire, and the fact that it can take lives as well as destroy property."

The fire official noted that more than 12,000 persons died in fires in 1966 alone.

Noting that there has been a substantial number of large-loss industrial fires, Chief Perkins said: "It is particularly important that management of factories, warehouses, and other places of business rededicate their fire prevention efforts; that they check their fire detection and fire fighting equipment regularly to be sure it is adequate to meet today's requirements."

Chief Perkins concluded: "As is the custom each year, we extend an invitation to all the citizens of the City of Newton to visit their local fire stations and meet the fire fighters who devote their life to the protection of their life and property. Also look over the modern fire fighting equipment of which the City of Newton can be very proud and confident that the best is available for their protection."

Open house will be observed at all stations between the hours of 11:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. each day of the week.

A special invitation is extended to youth groups and school children under supervision of a competent adult to visit the stations during this time."

Local Boy Wins Scholarship To Study Overseas

A full fellowship to study in Cologne, Germany, for one year after graduating from Dartmouth in '68, has been awarded William A. Durbin, of Waban.

Mr. Durbin applied for this Fellowship for International Understanding through the Newton Rotary Club and was the successful candidate chosen to represent Rotary International District 791.

He will serve as a scholar and ambassador of good will as a Rotary Foundation Fellow and will be an exponent of understanding and friendship between his people and those of his host country.

Newton Rotary, along with 12,000 other Rotary clubs throughout the world can sponsor students to study abroad on both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Students desiring to apply for the under-graduate program must do so during their sophomore year in college and in their junior year for graduate fellowships.

To be a Rotary Foundation Fellow, the student must be between 20 and 28 years old, unmarried and an outstanding student in his chosen field.

Language proficiency, though desirable, is not mandatory as intensive language training is available.

Pee Wee Hockey Program For All Boys 9-12 Years

A Pee Wee Hockey program has been expanded to include all boys in Newton between the ages of 9-12 who can skate and are interested in playing hockey.

Over six hours of ice time have already been assured for the Pee Wee program at nearby M.D.C. rinks and at the outdoor artificial rink at St. Sebastian's School.

Applications must be picked up at the Newton Recreation Department, Newton City Hall, immediately and should be returned with parents' signatures before November 1st, to the Recreation Department.

The ice hockey program will be directed by the Newton Recreation Department in cooperation with the Newton Youth Hockey Association. This Association is a group of men interested in furthering the sport of ice hockey among young players in Newton.

The Pee Wee program will offer instruction in all phases of the game. There will be scheduled games with teams within the organization for all boys in the program. It is planned to have the more experienced players represent the city in intercity competition later in the season. Every boy will play hockey on a team consistent with his ability. He will be issued a jersey, assigned to a team and will play for that team throughout the schedule.

There will be a charge of $5 per boy to cover costs exceeding the subsidy from the Recreation Department. The Newton Youth Hockey Association is a non-profit association and no charges will be assessed over actual costs. All boys will provide their own personal equipment such as skates, hockey stick, gloves and shin pads.

It is hoped that the Newton Pee Wee program will attract many boys. Plans are already being made to develop the Newton Youth Hockey program to include Bantam Hockey (boys 13 and up) in future years, along with the Pee Wee level.

A meeting was held on Monday October 8 at the City Hall Cafeteria to organize the Hockey Program. A steering committee of the Association met with John Penney, city recreation Commissioner and Bill Barry of the NRD, who directed Youth Hockey last year, and is co-director for the expanded program.

The Newton Youth Hockey Association presently consists of the following men on the Steering Committee: Robert MacLaughlin, Chairman; Mel Levison, personnel chairman; John Hasenfus, co-director of the N.Y.H.A.; John Walsh, Secretary; Frank Hurley, Public Relations and John Coakley, Treasurer.

Tally -

At the same time, Rep. Dickson, who is the ranking Republican member of the committee on election laws, filed a bill to authorize the use of voting computer systems in all cities and towns.

"Information presented to the committee on election laws over the period of the past three years has clearly indicated the accuracy and efficiency of electronic voting systems," Rep. Dickson testified. "The use of these systems in other states has proved most satisfactory."

"This has been further confirmed by its use on a trial basis locally in the town of Braintree," Rep. Dickson declared.

The measure which passed the Legislature, authorized the use of electronic voting systems in all elections, including primaries and preliminary elections.

Reps. Dickson and Mann were successful in securing adoption of an emergency preamble. As a result of this, the law became effective immediately upon being signed into law.

Without the emergency preamble, the act would not have become law until late in November, precluding the use of electronic voting in Newton this year.

"Newton voters will find the punch card system, which will be in use in the November 7 election, easy to operate," Reps. Dickson and Mann stated. "This simplicity of operation is the result of the minor change from the paper ballot form."

"Voter acceptance, everywhere this system has been used, has been extremely favorable," they said. "Finally, due to the nature of the system, both long and short ballots can be counted quickly and accurately."

Rep. Dickson's 17th Middlesex district includes Wayland, Weston, and Ward 4 of Newton. Rep. Mann serves the 5th Middlesex district, wards 5, 6, 7, and 8 Newton.

Both legislators had high praise for their Newton colleagues in the General Court and Newton officials who supported the transition to electronic voting.

"Candidates and voters alike in years to come will be grateful to them for their foresight in securing adoption of this modern and accurate method of recording and tallying election results," Reps. Dickson and Mann concluded.

Survey -

The Workable Program is a progress report on the various community improvement projects, planned and underway.

Alderman Hopkins asked Flaschner what had happened to a suggestion made last June that the six aldermen be formed into a committee to work with citizens in the area on the matter of the proposed redevelopment plans for the Newton Corner area.

The matter was referred to the Planning Committee in June following a public hearing on the application for planning funds.

Substantial neighborhood opposition at the hearing prompted the aldermen to refer the application for further study.

Workshop On Tap For Garden Club

The Newtonville Garden Club will sponsor a "Workshop with Dish Gardens and Terrariums" at its 10:15 a.m. meeting on Oct. 26 at the Newtonville Library Hall.

Club president Mrs. George E. Thieroy will preside assisted by Mrs. James H. Brickett, Mrs. Archie MacDonald, Mrs. Francis W. Dahl and Mrs. William R. Haney.

Members are asked to bring containers and plant materials.

Barbara J. Kenney of 56 Paul St., Newton Centre, is attending the Merrill-Palmer Institute in Detroit.

A student at the University of Massachusetts, Barbara is Small, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. the institute which is devoted to teaching, research and community service in the special fields of human development and family life.

Mrs. Louise Hunt Holly, a former resident of Newton, has been elected to the National Alumni Board of Directors of Syracuse, N.Y. University.

Mrs. Holly now resides in Needham Heights with her husband and four children. Her husband, Charles, is a former Newton alderman.

Free Classes For Expectant Parents Now Underway

Free classes for expectant parents began at Newton-Wellesley Hospital on Thursday evening, October 12. A series of five classes will be held in the hospital's Usen Auditorium on consecutive Thursday evenings, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Providing instruction about infant and maternal care will be Mrs. Genevieve Fitzpatrick, R.N., B.S. Joining the noted nurse-author will be Newton-Wellesley Hospital physicians and nursing personnel.

The weekly programs cover pre-natal care of a mother and infant, the process of birth, and the care and development of an infant during its first year.

Bathing and diapering demonstrations, instructions about infant feeding, and films and discussions about infant maternal care occur during the classes.

Expectant parents are invited to attend regardless of the hospital they will use. Refreshments and door prizes are furnished at each class, and diplomas are awarded to parents who attend the series.

Information about enrolling for the classes can be obtained by telephoning the hospital.

The classes are sponsored by the hospital and Dy-Dee Service Company as a public service. Nearly 800 parents-

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By JAMES SHULMAN

Newton South High School had the enlightening opportunity, September 29, to have Dr. Mary Calderone, director of Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, speak to an auditorium full of interested students and teachers.

Dr. Calderone's speech was directed toward "Education in Sexuality". Her plan, was for the sophomores to concern themselves with the biological aspects of sex, while the juniors and seniors would participate in co-ed discussions of sex as a social issue; how people relate and express themselves sexually, the freedom and responsibility of the "pill", and the critical personal issue-what will each person do with his or her sexuality?

She advocates this program of sex education rather than the accepted method skimmed over during a biological discussion of "where babies come from".

According to Dr. Calderone the classroom environment and the tone and handling of the discussion are essential to the success of sex education.

The atmosphere and presentation must not resemble a mathematics class, where one feels that the temperature of the room and one's partner's blood pressure must be analyzed before one can have a sexual experience.

During the question and answer period, one boy protested Dr. Calderone's openness which would be promoted in the course she described. She supported her frankness by referring to the bombardment by many mediums such as "sex" advertisements, which projects the image that sex is something dirty and erotic.

She said, "this image has to be balanced with another attitude... you can't decide social issues in a locker room".

Dr. Calderone's program offers students the opportunity to view sex from another, more mature and critical aspect.

Principal, William Geer, announced that thirty-four seniors from Newton South, have been named Commendation Winners by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Letters of Commendation honor the students for their high performance on the 1967 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, (NMQT) given last March. The thirty-four are among 40,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper two percent of those who will graduate from high school in 1968, and rank just below the 14,000 semi-finalists announced previously by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

The Commended students' names are reported to other scholarship granting and to the colleges the students named as first and second choices when they took the NMQT.

Robert Levine, Mark Mordecai, Sheldon Price, Richard Primack, Susan Rautenberg, Stuart Rodman, Dean Schwab, Richard Slivkin, Daniel Starr, Robert Stearns, Lee Untermyer, Richard Weinfeld, Eric Wolf, Susan Wolf, David Woo, Deena Yoffa, and Mark Zuroff were also named.

The new Newton South Faculty Award will be given to students who possess the much looked for qualities of character, integrity, leadership, service, and a mature sense of responsibility. Any student attending Newton South may be considered for the award, no matter what grade he or she is in.

The nomination and selection of the recipients will take place towards the end of each school year, along with the selections for Cum Laude. In the past, the National Honor Society has served to recognize student achievement. But, at the end of last year the society was abandoned; the criteria for selection was inconsistent. Certain students with outstanding grades, but few school activities were chosen over those with leadership, responsibility and achievement, but lesser grades.

The Faculty Award and the Cum Laude will replace the Honor Society. The Faculty Award will concentrate on achievement and service etc., and Cum Laude purely on academic success.

Principal William Geer, has appointed a standing committee consisting of three faculty members from each house. In the fourth quarter of each school year, each faculty member will be asked to submit the names of pupils he nominates for the Award. Each name will be accompanied by a brief citation or explanation of the reason for the Award.

The Faculty committee will then draw up a complete list of those students nominated, including the initials of the teacher who nominated each student.

The list will first be submitted to the Housemasters for recommended deletion of the names of any pupils who have been disciplinary problems.

The list will then be submitted to the faculty with an asterisk before the names of the students disapproved by the Housemasters. Each faculty member will be given a two week period in which to respond. He may reaffirm another teachers explanation of choice; or he may write his objections to particular individuals.

The Faculty Award Committee will then go over the list establishing which students have received the strongest faculty recommendations. The committee can further request a teacher or Housemaster to further explain an objection to a particular student especially where a student has received other positive recommendations.

Upon the completion of the review of all recommendations and objections, the committee will compile a list of names of those students who in their opinion are most deserving of the Award, together with a brief citation for each student selected.

The list will be presented to Mr. Geer, and together with the committee they will plan an Invitation Assembly for the presentation of the Awards.

Petition -

piece of land approved for sale by the board.

The Alderman said there is a possibility that the city is being short-changed when selling land to private citizens.

Presently, public land is sold by the city only when someone makes an offer on it. The Board considers the price offered against the value of the land, and comes to a decision.

McDonnell said that homeowners would not sell their houses to the first person who made an offer, and that the city should not do likewise.

The petition, which was submitted to the city clerk, reads: Following an offer on city land that the board approves, and before sale of said land, public notice be given of the intention to sell at the figure approved by the board, or at a higher figure, and providing a method of open public bidding on said land.

McDonnell suggested that perhaps a private real estate agent could be hired to work along with the city assessors in dealing with land transactions.

The method of public bidding could be left to city officials, McDonnell said.

COST OF EDUCATION. "All elected officials in our city must work to develop a more adequate base of tax support for public education. Our state contributes only 6% of our school budget contrasted with a national average of 39%. This means we must compete for teachers and staff against school systems spending twice as much per pupil per year."

CAREER TEACHERS. "We must find more attractive and imaginative ways to obtain and hold top-quality career teachers... including a bolder program for (1) merit raises (2) reduced teaching loads (3) more recognition for master teachers (4) teacher training (5) curriculum development."

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS. "We must guard against overcrowding and obsolescence that now penalize many of our Newton schools. The School Committee, with its responsibility to Newton students and their parents, must identify new needs and new problems relative to the physical conditions of our schools and point out their urgency to our city administration."

CLASS SIZE. "The School Committee must make every effort to reduce excessive classroom size — at least to a 30-pupil maximum... there were 18 classes over that limit this past year. Wherever possible, we should strive for a top limit of 25 pupils per class as urged by noted educational authorities. Last year, Newton had 149 classes with 25-30 pupils. Good teaching and good programs cannot survive when stifled by sheer numbers."

COMMUNICATION. "The School Committee and the School Department have no choice but to develop closer and more continuous contacts with all interested and affected groups: our mayor and aldermen, our parents and non-parents, our individual schools and teachers. We must establish the city-wide climate of trust and cooperation which is so vitally necessary to the constructive investment of effort, time and money which all Newton citizens are making in the Newton schools."

be made, larger amounts of information assimilated than ever before, all with further reaching effect and greater impact than in the pre-war world.

"The Third Congressional District must be represented in Washington by a person capable of keeping up with these fast moving and complex requirements.

"The machinery of government reflects our Twentieth Century in its complexity and in the enormous amounts of energy required to deal with it. Only a vigorous and youthful Congressman, one of our times, attuned to contemporary suburban life, can deal with these modern realities.

"With the physical vigor and the technical competence that the Congressman must bring to his job, must also come a potential for leadership and a courage to take imaginative and unequivocal positions on these issues of our times which will not be put aside without solution. The tired, old formulas of the past will no longer do.

"It is with humility that I offer my candidacy for Congress to the people of the Third District, confident nonetheless in the belief that I bring with me those qualities that modern representation requires.

"In the days ahead, I will speak of the issues; I will talk with the people in every corner of the new District and will bring to them my views on the issues of the day.

"I feel assured that the people will find in my candidacy an answer to some of the problems of today. I ask for an opportunity to serve."

Bradley, 37, is presently serving his third term in the House. From 1958 to 1964 he was a member of the Newton Board of Aldermen. In 1965, both the Newton Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Massachusetts Junior Chamber of Commerce selected him as "The Outstanding Young Man of the Year."

Among his legislative duties, Rep. Bradley has served as vice-chairman of the Committee on Insurance, vice-chairman of the Committee on Low-Income Housing, and a member of the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

Married to the former Jacquelyn Maynard, of Wilmington, Vt., he resides at 33 Maple

D.A.R. SPEAKER—Lt. John Worthington, of Hanscom Field, and Mrs. David Hamblin, DAR Regent, at recent meeting of Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter.

U.S. Air Defense Systems Explained At DAR Meeting

Lt. John Worthington of the Electronic Systems Division, Hanscom Air Field, was guest speaker at the first regular meeting of Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, DAR, on Monday evening, October 2.

With the aid of colored slides, Lt. Worthington described the complicated and wide-spread system of communications set up and maintained for the defense of the American continent. Included are weather observation and far-reaching warning systems.

A question period followed the lecture. Preceding it was a social hour, after which the business session was held.

Mrs. David Hamblin, Regent, read a statement from Mrs. William Henry Sullivan, Jr., President-General of the National Society, Daughter of the American Revolution.

This statement concerned the Joan Baez affair. Miss Baez, a folk-singer well known for her active opposition to United States foreign policy, and her incitement to "non-violence" in opposition to the Vietnam war, had asked to rent Constitution Hall, owned by the NSDAR, in Washington, D. C. In refusing to rent the hall to Miss Baez, Mrs. Sullivan said, in part, "Through the years, the NSDAR has been a staunch advocate of the Constitutional form of government under which the United States operates. The NSDAR, at all times has offered its assistance to the government of the United States in every war and conflict.

"Consequently, it would be contrary to its charter if it were to allow the platform of DAR Constitution Hall to be used by one who openly advocates and attempts to influence the youth of our land to disregard its Nation in time of trouble through so-called non-violent efforts.

"The NSDAR would definitely be in neglect of its duties if it did not stand up for its principles and endeavor to give guidelines for continuing the course designated in the Constitution of the United States. The President General would be in neglect of her duties if she did not uphold the policies laid down by the Continental Congress of the National Society."

Mrs. James S. Gove was in charge of refreshments and decorations. Assisting her were Mrs. Louis Catherine and Mrs. Edward Fletcher.

$10 Investment Pays Off For Newton Football Ace

If Joe deBettencourt, Harvard's starting defensive left tackle, gets rich some day on Wall Street, don't be surprised. After all, look at the dividends he's collected from a small $10 investment he made in 1964.

When Joe graduated from Newton High School in 1963 with average grades and little hope of being admitted to a top academic college, his parents decided to send him for a year of post graduate study at Phillips Exeter Academy. He matured quickly, and so did his grades.

While at Exeter, Joe had one thing impressed upon him by his fellow students—the advantages of an Ivy League education. So, not surprisingly, he applied to Harvard. "I never thought much about Harvard when I was in high school," he recalls, "but at Exeter, when it came time to apply for college, I didn't see what I could lose. All I had to do was fill out an application and mail $10."

Harvard accepted him. So did Cornell, Notre Dame, Colgate, and Tufts. But Joe wanted to go to Harvard, so the decision was not hard.

"It was the greatest investment I ever made," Joe believes. "Harvard gives you something it's hard to explain. I can't believe I could have been as happy anywhere else."

Much of Joe's happiness at Harvard can be traced to his football experiences, and more especially, to the two-platoon system. It has given him "great satisfaction."

"Two platoon football is the greatest change ever made in the game," the 6-2, 236-pound senior says. "I was a two-way player in both high school and prep school, and I know you can't put out completely for 60 minutes: You've got to pace yourself."

"Now, since I only play defense, I'm able to go all out every second I'm on the field. And not only that, I'm concentrating on only one phase of the game. It stands to reason that by practicing nothing but defense, you're going to become a more proficient football player. You do nothing else and you think nothing else."

"This adds zest to the game. This makes for a duel between myself and the opposing tackle, who is also a specialist, but on offense. Trying to outguess and outmaneuver him makes football more than worth the practice time you have to put into it."

"Sure, practice can be boring and tough, especially during the pre-season drills. It's a real sacrifice to come back to school early when all your buddies are still down at the beach having a great time. But as I said before, the Saturday competition makes it all worth while."

Yes, sacrifice is a part of Joe's life—but it goes much deeper than just football. As a member of the Navy ROTC program, he has logged 30 hours of solo flight time and is so enthused about flying that he may make it a career. In order to fly, however, Joe cannot weigh more than 205 and, at the moment, that provides him with a unique weight problem. He must gain in the fall and diet in the spring.

Anyone who has attempted to lose over 30 pounds knows what a sacrifice this can be. Yet, after nine years of football, it's something he accepts. Joe began playing football at Newton High School in 1959. He lettered three times and, as a senior, was a starting 195-pound end on a team which won the Suburban League championship. One of his teammates was Mickey Beard, who went on to become an outstanding quarterback at Dartmouth. At Exeter, Joe still played both ways, but as a guard on offense and an end on defense.

Joe's freshman season at Harvard was a disaster—physically. Shortly after the beginning of pre-season drills, he was sidelined for the rest of the year by three injuries: hyper-extension of an elbow, a dislocated knee, and a hair-line fracture of the left ankle. But before the injuries, Freshman Coach Henry Lamar made an important decision. He switched Joe from end to tackle and played him both ways.

"We moved him to tackle because he looked like a tackle, he carried himself like one," remembers Lamar, "and then, too, we could tell that we were going to need some tackles on the varsity level. Yes, even as a freshman, I could see that Joe was going to do a lot of playing on the varsity before he graduated."

Handicapped by the experience he missed as a freshman, Joe played only five minutes as a sophomore, all

Fire Chief Frederick A. Perkins, Jr. this week reminded Newton residents that it is a violation of the State Law to burn leaves or any other material in the open without first obtaining a permit from their local fire station.

Large bags may be purchased at the local fire stations, Perkins pointed out. He advised Newtonites to use this method of disposal rather than burning, but stressed that in any case burning requires a special permit.

State law forbids that an open-air fire be set, maintained or increased at any time except by permission covering a period not exceeding two days. Violation of the law may be punished by a fine of up to $100 or by imprisonment of up to one month or both.

People With Vision Need Of Religion Says Speaker

At Brook Farm the transcendentalists tried to put their idea of a utopian community into practice. Their experiment failed; but they did try.

We too have got to try, insists Dr. Dana McClean Greeley, president of the Unitarian Universalist Association; but, says Dr. Greeley, our Brook Farm has to be all of this rapidly shrinking world of ours. It is something we have to work out with each other.

Speaking recently at the First Unitarian Society in Newton, Dr. Greeley told Unitarians "Our primary need is for people with wisdom who can help us resolve the discrepancy between what is and what ought to be." This, he added, is what the church exists for.

"Communists think that religion is a thing of the past,"

Foundation, the Mayor's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped, Temple Rhythm of Newton, and several professional societies.

In his new position, he will design and conduct courses in Organizational Behavior for managers in industrial, military, and health-care organizations, in addition to management research and consulting.

he said. "But they are thinking of superstition and magic; for men are inherently religious in their idealism and their vision of what man may be. Man's innate religiousness is part and parcel of his personal evolution, and the church is simply the social expression of this need. Our job is to make the church as relevant as possible."

Dr. Greeley described the denomination he heads as "the left wing in the reformation of the Judeo-Christian tradition."

Dr. Greeley was minister of the famed Arlington Street Church in Boston for 23 years. He is a past president of the Massachusetts Council of Churches and served as president of the New England Citizens' Crime Commission, as a member of the Massachusetts Governor's Commission for the Study of Capital Punishment.

He was principal organizer of the first National Inter-religious Conference on Peace in Washington, D.C., in 1966, and served as a delegated observer at two sessions of the Second Vatican Council.

South Squad In Squeaker; Nips Boston Tech, 22-0

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

The Newton South football squad sneaked by a favored Boston Tech team, 22-0. The victory was the fourth straight for the unbeaten Lions. Lou DiFazio and Tom Rezzuti provided the spark. Captain DiFazio caught touchdown passes of six and thirty-one yards from the arm of quarterback Rezzuti. The conversion attempt failed on the first touchdown, but was completed the second time on a Rezzuti run around left end, and South led at the end of the first quarter, 14-6.

The Lions scored their other eight points in the second period on George Tsiumus' four yard plunge through the middle, and Tom Rezzuti's two yard toss to Dan Mendelson for the conversion.

Tech scored their final touchdown in the third period on a long run, then were blanked for the remainder of the game. Boston outrushed the Lions, 227-106, but fumbled five times before the hardhitting South defense.

For their next game the Lions will journey to Lexington the day after tomorrow, for an afternoon game.

The varsity soccer team dropped both of their games this week to bring their season's slate to 1-6. In the first game, at Brookline, the Lions turned in what may have been their best effort of the season, but to no avail. Brookline squeezed out a double overtime victory, 3-2. Ned Morse was superb in the South goals as he continuously averted disaster by batting away dozens of Brookline attempts. Marvin Schwartz and Danny Krassa scored the South goals, Krassa coming late in the fourth period to send the game into overtime.

Medford pinned a 5-0 loss on the Lions on October 13. All the Medford goals came in the first half as the Lions seemed bewildered by Medford's tremendous speed. Dave Burman was bombarded in the nets, but recovered to play a strong second half. Alan Miller and Frank Hurvitz played excellent defensive games as they continuously stopped Medford from penetrating their zones.

The JV booters lost their game this week, 3-2, to Needham in a game which was very similar to the varsity's defeat. The JV game too, was lost in double overtime. Barry Kaplan and Mark Cutler each scored a South goal.

Msgr. Lally To Attend Meeting

This past week the Patriots scored a double victory as they defeated North Cambridge, 36-16, in a Columbus Day exhibition game and then ground out a 24-6 win over South Boston in a regular league game last Saturday.

South Boston jumped off to a quick first period lead, but Newton then took command as halfbacks Bob Babbitt and Peter Percey and fullback Tod Reynolds all scored on running plays. To complete the scoring Newton end Dick Ready recovered a fumble by South Boston in the Southie end zone.

A key factor in the Newton attack was the hard-hitting offensive line with Billy Bertrand at center; Kinch and Sabetti at guards; Morrissey, O'Dowd and Messina at tackles, and Lanciotti and Ready at ends.

The October meeting of Shawmut Lodge, A.F. and A.M., will be held on Oct. 26 at the Grand Lodge of Masons, Tremont street, Boston.

Worshipful Master Stephen Green, of 125 Parker street, Newton Centre, will preside. The meeting will consist of a dinner followed by an interesting and informed speaker, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Francis J. Lally.

Monsignor Lally is the editor of the Pilot and chairman of the Boston Redevelopment Authority as well as a distinguished and celebrated author, lecturer and religious leader of the Greater Boston community.

Says:

Now that we have finished sweating out the Red Sox through the seventh game, we can take a small breather before the Patriots come to life and get us rooting them on. As enthralled as I was with the pennant fight and my frequent TV visits with the Sox, I must confess that my favorite TV sport is football. I had previously mentioned that while I was never too impressed with the quality of Color TV on baseball games and that it did not add that much to the enjoyment of watching, with football it is entirely different. With Color TV, on a muddy field, you always know who is on offense and who on defense. If you don't own a Color TV, come in any Saturday afternoon during a football game and see what I mean.

14th Annual Party Day At Hospital Set For Oct. 25

For the 14th consecutive year, members of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid Association have their sights set upon Party Day, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, October 25th.

On that day, Aid Association members will open their homes and entertain friends and associates. At more than 50 parties, women will have good fun for a serious purpose.

Party Day ticket purchases and donations will make it possible for the Aid Association to underwrite a portable x-ray machine, to be used in the surgical department of the 250-bed community teaching hospital.

The Party Day co-chairmen, Mrs. S. Page Cotton of Newton and Mrs. Walter Wagner of Wellesley, rely heavily upon 18 key women.

Those women are village chairmen and the Junior Aid Liaison chairmen. The challenge to them is to make arrangements for 2,000 people who support Party Day, either by participating in a party or by giving the event a warm response.

Village chairmen for Party day are Mrs. F. Payson LeBaron, Auburndale; Mrs. Paul T. Babson, Boston; Mrs. Harold C. Wiswall, Needham; Mrs. George L. White, Newton; Mrs. Robert T. Steinsieck, Newton Centre; Mrs. Philip J. Baird, Jr., Newton Highlands; and Mrs. David L. Currier, Newton Lower Falls.

"Mommie, What Is Death Like?"

PLUM HILL, Ill. (UPI)—How do you explain death to little children?

The Rev. Elmer Broetzmann, of St. John's United Church of Christ, recalls how one mother tried it.

Her young boy had asked her,

"Mommie, what is death like?"

"Death is like this," the Rev. Mr. Broetzmann quotes the mother. "All day long you are busy playing or working hard. Like everyone else you get tired. You come into the house and fall asleep on the floor or the sofa."

"Your father comes home from work and finding you asleep carries you to your own bedroom or into our bedroom. When you awake in the morning, you find yourself in a different room than that in which you fell asleep."

"So it is with death. When death comes, one falls asleep and when one awakens one finds the heavenly Father has taken us to another home, another room, another place, more beautiful perhaps than where we fell asleep."

Also, Mrs. William G. Johnson, Newton Upper Falls; Mrs. Warren L. Huston, Newtonville; Mrs. David W. Skinner, Waban; Mrs. Thomas S. Hardenbergh, Wellesley; Mrs. Frank K. Idell, Wellesley Hills; Mrs. Stephen B. Wellington, West Newton; Mrs. Roger E. Hall, Weston; and other villages, Mrs. Vincent C. Ziegler of Wellesley.

Mrs. Nelson M. Silk, Jr. of Newton and Mrs. Richard A. Campbell of Wellesley are members of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Junior Aid Association who are serving as liaison chairmen.

Judge Okays Today's Youth

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)—There's still a little bit of the cowboy he once was in Harry S. Harnsberger, chief justice of the Wyoming Supreme Court. In fact at the age of 77 he still throws his leg over a horse once in a while.

But though Justice Harnsberger will talk nostalgically about the days of his youth, he does not live in the past, nor is he one to say the "good old days" were the best of everything.

He is an optimist on today's youth.

"My confidence in the youth of today is unlimited," he told UPI. "They'll find their way and they'll make mistakes just as my generation did."

He does think some of the young can take some advice.

"Avoid excesses of all kinds, both personal and political," is one of his simple admonitions.

"My favorite caution to my own children," he said, "has been a selection from Pope's Essay on Criticism:

"Be not the first by whom the new are tried, Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

Of his own generation, he thinks it has done a pretty good job.

"I feel affronted," he said, "by charges that past generations, including my own, have bungled the job, have left the world in a terrible mess. This isn't true. We've left a wonderful heritage, a wonderful world, to the youth of today."

Justice Harnsberger, born in Decatur, Ill., said he came to Wyoming in 1907 wanting to be a cowboy "but after the depression of 1910 I decided to go back to school." He obtained his law degree from Georgetown University.

Spur Buff

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—You can almost hear the echoes of the Old West in the home of T. W. (Andy) Anderson of Fort Worth. One wall of his home is covered with spurs—about 300 pair from the fancy Spanish pair with six-inch rowels to the ugly but serviceable and rugged pair that is the familiar Western shape to the pair in gleaming silver. There is even a pair with the shank shaped like a woman's thigh.

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans, Britons and Canadians talk a lot about reducing diets but relatively few go on them.

Three national surveys of consumers and their attitudes toward sugar belied the widespread impression that at least half the population is struggling to control thickening waistlines.

The U.S. study, by Roper Research for Sugar Information, Inc., showed that only 10 per cent of the men and women questioned were dieting and only two-thirds of the diets were for weight reduction or weight control. Another 10 per cent said they dieted from time to time.

The British study, by Contimart, Ltd., with David de Boinod Associates for the British Sugar Bureau showed that 15 per cent of the men and women surveyed were dieting.

The Canadian survey, by MRC, Ltd., for The Canadian Sugar Institute, questioned housewives only, and indicated that fewer than 10 per cent of the household members were dieting.

The studies turned up interesting insights into eating habits and some misconceptions about sugar and its effects.

which would help with program.

Newton residents are urged to bring in their used uniforms in order that the Exchange may have a wide selection to offer prospective buyers. For further information call Mrs. Harwood (LA 7-1799) or Mrs. Braasch (LA 7-7611).

feet on diet and weight control. Seventy per cent of the Americans, 75 per cent of the British and 82 per cent of the Canadians thought sugar was essential to a well-balanced diet.

(Refined sugar is not essential but it is important, says the Nutrition Foundation, a nonprofit research organization supported by the food and allied industries. Sugar improves the taste of many foods and is rich in energy-producing carbohydrate calories which are necessary for a well-balanced diet.)

The U.S. survey indicated that most Americans either don't know or overestimate the calorie count of sugar. Only 7 per cent of the consumers questioned knew that one teaspoon of sugar contains 18 calories. Forty-six per cent overestimated—some guessing as high as 50 to 99 calories per teaspoon.

Between-meal snacks such as nuts and popcorn, and starchy foods such as potatoes got most of the blame for overweight from the bulk of the Americans and British who were questioned. Only 10 per cent of the Americans and 14 per cent of the British thought that sugar and sugar-sweetened foods should be avoided in dieting. The Canadian survey, which dealt solely with sugar consumption, made no dietary comparisons.

Dieting or not, 77 per cent of the British and 85 per cent of the Canadians said they'd never used artificial sweeteners but half the Americans said they'd used them at some time.

More than half the Americans and the British said they preferred sugar to artificial sweeteners. The Americans said they were influenced

White Mass To Be Celebrated On October 22

A "White Mass" celebrated for the medical and allied professions will be held on Sunday, October 22, at 1 p.m. in the Church of St. Ignatius, Chestnut Hill.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Francis J. Lally, editor of the Pilot, will be speaker at the Mass which will be celebrated by Rev. Francis J. Gilday, S.J.

The White Mass is held under the auspices of the Guild of St. Luke, an association of Catholic physicians throughout the Archdiocese of Boston.

Persons working in the health field who wish to attend may go directly to the Church of St. Ignatius or to the Boston College Law School at 12:30 p.m. from where a procession will begin.

West Virginia was so named when western counties of Virginia rejected secession in chiefly by taste. The British considered sugar a natural or purer food.

Of 14 per cent of Canadian households that reported using artificial sweeteners, more than two-thirds of them said the sweeteners were used regularly.

But the Canadians' view of a typical user of artificial sweeteners was less than flattering. The stereotype they envisioned was a slightly underweight person, very concerned about health, physically weaker than a heavy sugar user, sedentary, serious, strong-minded, extremely tidy and possessed of strong guilt feelings about himself.

Flaschner Seeks Reelection To Aldermanic Post

Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner is standing for reelection to his sixth term as Alderman - At - Large from Ward 5.

Flaschner, who also represents Newton on the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, is chairman of the Aldermanic Claims and Rules Committee and the Planning Committee. During the past term he has also served as a member of the Finance and Public Works Committee, chairman of the Police Study Committee and as a member of the Mayor's High School Site study Committee.

During the ten years he has been an Alderman, Flaschner has concerned himself primarily with city planning and land use problems such as zoning, conservation and urban renewal, he points out.

Earlier this year he was appointed by Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson to investigate allegedly illegally detained inmates at Bridgewater State Hospital. Some 300 inmates of the State Hospital were identified as a result of this investigation and will obtain new judicial hearings on their status under special legislation drafted by Attorney Flaschner and enacted by the Legislature last summer.

Governor Volpe has appointed Alderman Flaschner to the Governor's Advisory Committee on Corrections and to a special committee studying new hospital facilities and laws for the type of inmates committed to Bridgewater State Hospital.

As a member of the Board of the Massachusetts Council on Crime and Delinquency, Flaschner headed up a two-year study on Bail Reform.

He is at present a member of the Newton Chamber of Commerce Board. He is a past president of the Newton World Affairs Council, the Oak Hill Park Association, the Oak Hill District Improvement Association and the Memorial School PTA.

Formerly he served on the Boards of the Newton Taxpayers Association, the Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Newton Community Council.

He is a graduate of Boston Latin School, Yale College, the Littauer School of Public Administration at Harvard, and Yale Law School. At Law School he was managing editor of the Yale Law Journal and an English instructor at Yale College.

During World War II, Alderman Flaschner served on active duty as a naval officer.

The Flaschner family lives at Elmira College, the other Flaschner is married to the former Beatrice M. Mandelstam of Newton. They have three daughters, one a senior at Tlmira College, the other two students at Newton South High School.

A member of the Massachusetts and federal Bars, Flaschner is a partner in the Boston Law firm of Singer, Soneman and Kurland.

Hundreds of men, women and teenagers in the Newton area are proudly boasting of new figures after losing weight through the Diet Workshop program. "I've never had so much to eat on a diet before. I'm never hungry. Everything tastes so good." These are some of the comments of the enthusiastic people who are attending the Diet Workshop classes now currently meeting at the Diet Workshop headquarters, 317 Washington street, Newton Corner, on Wednesday evenings at 6 p.m. and at 8 p.m. and other times throughout the week.

School Without Frills Attracts Eggheads Who Want No Rah-Rah

By ROBERT E. HUBER
SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Willard Barnes sat on the stone steps leading up to the new administration building at St. John's College and scratched at the three inches of red beard on his face.

"I'm not real sure why I wanted to come here," he said, leaning back and gazing over the new college buildings. "I guess it's because I thought I'd have a chance to seek the kind of education you can't find anywhere else."

On 260 acres donated locally, St. John's was first called a new step toward private school expansion in the country when it was built. As proof of its widespread support, the board was liberally sprinkled with prominent Westerners — actress Greer Garson, her husband Texas oilman Col. E. E. (Buddy) Fogelson, and newspaper publisher and former Ambassador to Switzerland Robert McKinney of Santa Fe.

Buildings for the school are sparse — nine small dormitories, a classroom building, a laboratory and a student center. But future plans call for a library, added dorms, a new administration building and a half dozen other structures.

But St. John's students have one thing in common — they seek a new brand of education, a kind of teaching that is growing in the West.

St. John's at Santa Fe was called unique when it opened its doors three years ago, unique because of what and how it teaches.

The students are unique too because they don't work toward a particular degree.

St. John's college is referred to officially as a "colony." As such, it began operations as an extension of its mother facility — the 180-year-old St. John's at Annapolis, Md.

St. John's has no departments, no divisions, and did not even have a business administration course when it began classes in October, 1964.

No vocational or teacher training was offered, and pre-law or required athletics were scoffed at by the school's officials.

What the new school did offer was the beginning of a cloistered four-year course in great books, plus a tough science requirement for graduation.

The books, chosen over a period of nearly 40 years by the school's officials, range from Homer to Tolstoy, Plato to Jung, Euclid to Labachevski, Hippocrates to Einstein.

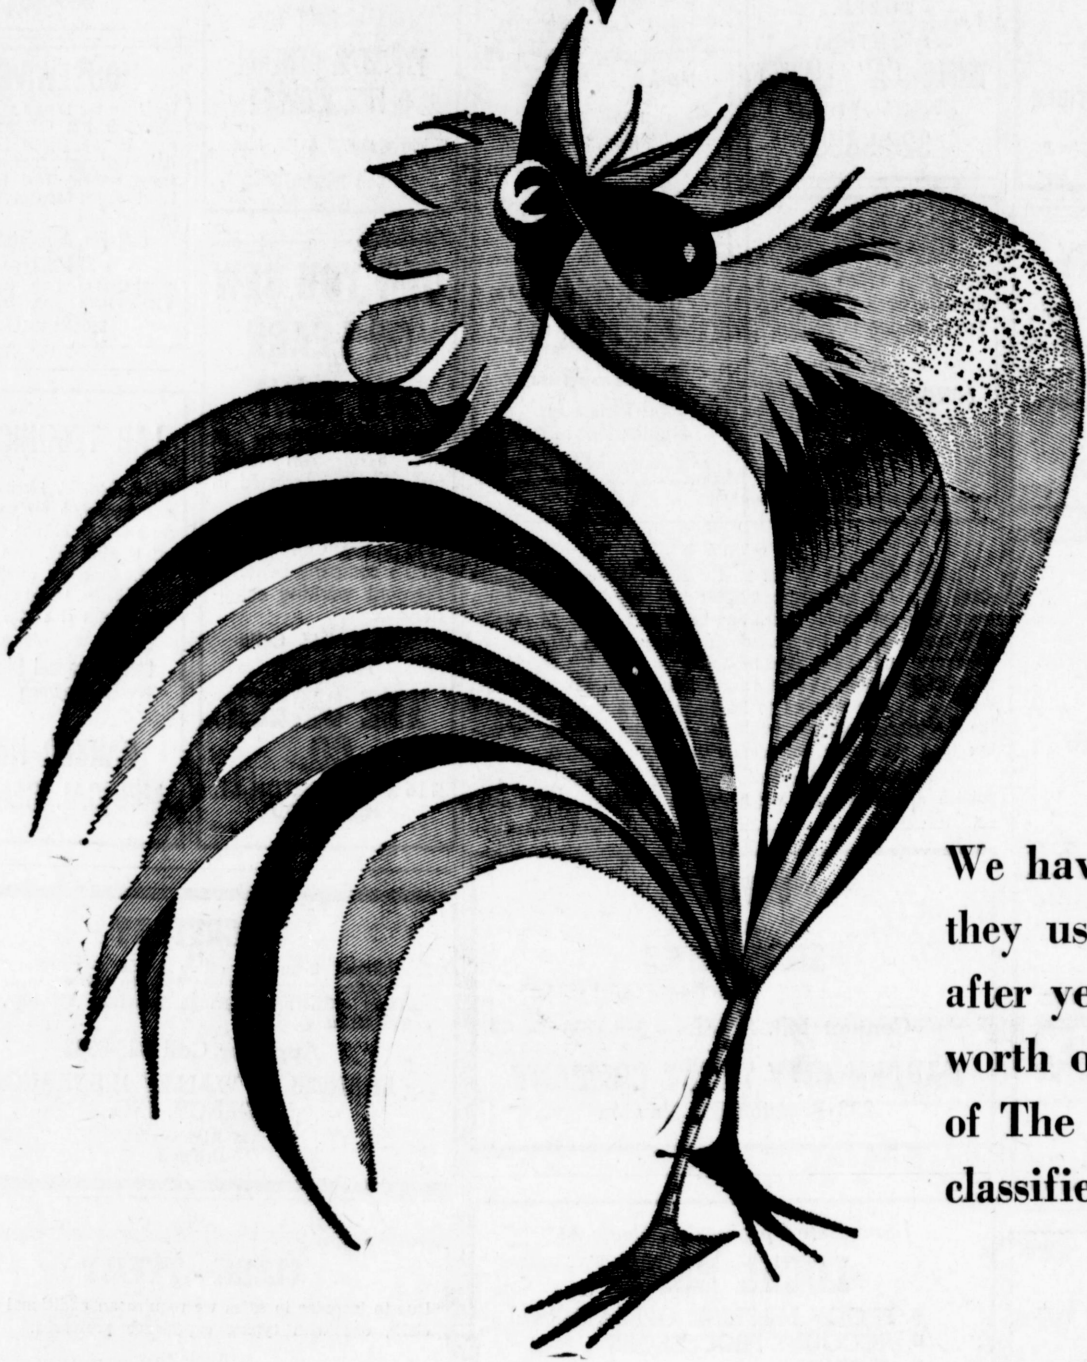

In short, the new college set itself up to offer a strictly liberal arts education with the single aim of preparing its students with tools for future learning. What the student does with this vast storehouse of knowledge after graduation is left up to him.

Neal Elliott, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elliott of 48 Rangeley Rd., West Newton, is a freshman at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, Pa.

Neal, a graduate of Newton High School, is among 470 freshmen at the Pennsylvania college.

Program For Gifted High School Students To Open

A Confraternity of Christian Doctrine program for gifted high school students—both girls and boys—will begin its third year at Newton College of the Sacred Heart Monday evening, October 23, at 7 o'clock, it was announced today (Thursday) by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Russell R. Archdiocese of Boston.

The Newton College program, the first of its kind in the Greater Boston area, will enroll public high school sophomores, juniors, and seniors who achieved final grades of not less than "B" in their academic studies last year.

Registration will be held at Stuart House, main administration building on Newton's Centre St. campus, next Monday, and again on Monday, November 6, beginning at 7 o'clock.

The regular two-hour sessions will be held on both registration evenings, and on every second Monday thereafter—excluding school vacations and holidays—through next May. Each enrolling student must bring to registration a copy of his or her high school transcript or other official statement of qualification.

The purpose of the unusual program is to provide talented Catholic students the opportunity to receive religious instruction at a level that is both stimulating and challenging for them.

Serving as the program's teaching staff will be a number of volunteer resource persons—businessmen, doctors, educators, lawyers, publishers, and sociologists—whose main function is to open and keep open channels of communication in the CCD classroom.

The expanded 1967-68 program at Newton will be divided into two sections. The one section—under the leadership of Mother Gabrielle Husson, R.S.C.J., president of the liberal arts college and professor of religion—will work as a team, along with a group of resource persons, to evaluate textbooks which are commonly used in CCD programs at high schools in the Archdiocese of Boston.

This section will be conducting a pilot project. All previous evaluations concern-

Newton Man's Book On Fall College List

Dean Frederick T. McGill Jr., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. McGill of 43 Fisher Ave., Newton Highlands, is the author of a book on Rutgers University, N.J., fall 1967 list.

"Channing of Concord" is the first full-length biography of William Ellery Channing II, nephew of Dr. William Ellery Channing, who was minister of the Federal Street Church.

Why a talented man, friend of Emerson, Thoreau and Hawthorne, should have left what Dean McGill described as "tracks in the snow for others to follow" provoked the author's curiosity and he spent many years in research for the book.

Dean McGill, who was graduated from Harvard University, has been a faculty member of New Jersey state colleges since 1928.

He is a member of the Modern Language Assn., College English Assn., Thoreau Society and American Assn. of University Professors. He is considered one of the nation's leading authorities on 19th century authors.

MDC Urged To Take More Land At Park

The Metropolitan District Commission was urged last week by the Newton Conservators to acquire more land at Norumbega Park.

MDC Comr. Howard Whitmore said last August that a crescent-shaped slice of land, formerly owned by the MDC but sold in 1947, will be acquired by the MDC.

The Conservators want the MDC to buy the shoreline land to the northwest of the Marriott site, the section that protrudes into the river.

Conservator President Benjamin Shattuck said the organization is against any move by the MDC to purchase for $1 a strip of land from the Marriott Hotel. The land was offered to the MDC in August when the hotel petitioned the Board of Aldermen for an increase in the hotel size and the parking lot.

Shattuck said that it is "in the public interest" that more land be taken to make the shoreline reservation more accessible to people for whom the Metropolitan park system exists.

If the MDC acquired the land, the river reservation system would be strengthened and provide public access to the shore from Commonwealth Ave. as well as from the river path connecting Islington rd.

Restaurants Discussed By Aldermen At Meeting

The Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night wrestled with the interpretation of a city ordinance requiring restaurants doing a sizeable take-out business to come before the Board for permissive use.

The discussion was sparked by a petition by Peter J. Wallace to open a pizza restaurant at 437 Centre st., Newton Corner.

When Wallace, unaware of the ordinance passed last year and primarily designed to control drive-in establishments, applied for a common victualer's license, he was informed that since his business would be 99 percent take-out, he would have to come before the Board for permission.

Some of the aldermen, including William P. Matthews, Alan S. Barkin and Jason Sacks, felt the ordinance was discriminatory since there are many restaurants in the city that do a large take-out business that have not come before the Board.

Alderman Edward C. Uehlein commented that since the ordinance is on the books, it should be used to insure the best interests of the city.

Alderman Adelaide B. Ball reported neighborhood opposition and fears that a pizza parlor in that location would encourage teen-age hanging around, a problem which already exists to some extent in the area.

The Claims and Rules Committee recommended denial of the petition by a vote of 7-0. Alderman Ernest F. Dietz ended the discussion and blocked action on the petition by entering a charter objection which delayed a vote by the whole board until the next meeting.

In other matters the aldermen approved a petition by Tarry Taste Inc. for a coffee shop at 44 Langley road, Newton Centre.

They also approved a petition to allow a 120-bed nursing home at 22 Armory st., West Newton.

The land is zoned in Business B District.

Construction of the three story building at the end of one side of the existing Armory road and construction of an accompanying parking lot on the other side would, in effect, make a dead end street of Armory st., Claims and Rules Committee Chairman Franklin N. Flaschner said.

Denied by the Board was a petition by the J. J. and P. Realty Trust for permission and site plan approval for 2 story garden apartments on Florence st.

Flaschner reported that the Claims and Rules Committee felt the design of the development was unsuitable both from a functional and from an aesthetic point of view.

The aldermen this week authorized Mayor Monte G. Basbas to enter into an agreement with the Norumbega Council of Boy Scouts to purchase for $10,000 the old fire station on Beacon st. in Waban.

The matter had been held up by some technical difficulties in the agreement which have been ironed out.

Why even consider spending
$5.99 for your kids' shoes?
When you know a good pair has to cost about $11.00.

What do you pay?
And why do you pay it?

A lot of people charge $11.00, and even $12.00, for children's shoes. That's their business.

But if you're spending that kind of money because you're afraid to spend less, or if you think that's the price of good children's shoes these days—then consider this.

We say $5.99 is plenty for a good pair of girl's shoes. $6.99 or $7.99 is plenty for a boy's.

For $11.00 you're not getting better made shoes. You're just getting shoes that cost almost twice as much.

We can prove it.

First of all, we use superb leathers. Outside the shoe and inside the shoe. (Because we buy more leather than anybody else we pay less, and so do you.)

And here's the way we make the sole. We permanently bond it to the shoe. So your kids can't scuff it off. And we make it so strong they can't wear it out (they'll outgrow the shoe first). We make the heel the same way.

And you know how fast kids can break the back of a shoe. So we take special pains with that part. We build it up with a sturdy cup that goes under the lining. And we stitch the back with extra-strong thread.

We don't have any cheap shoes.

We don't want to see your boy or girl in cheap shoes any more than you do.

So don't worry. We don't even sell them.

We only have good shoes. And what makes them good is Thom McAn, not the price.

UN PASSES STOP-GAP MIDEAST RESOLUTION

THE SECURITY COUNCIL of the United Nations, bypassed conflicting American and Soviet proposals yesterday and unanimously approved a stop-gap resolution condemning the renewed fighting between Israeli and Egyptian forces in the tense Middle East.

Seen as another setback for the Russians, the resolution did not specifically mention either the missile-sinking of the Israeli destroyer Elath by the United Arab Republic last Saturday or the destruction of a vital Egyptian oil and industrial center Tuesday in the 3½-hour artillery battle across the lower end of the Suez Canal.

IN OTHER DEVELOPMENTS in the Middle East Crisis:

THREE SOVIET WARSHIPS steamed toward Egypt last night in an ominous development that tightened tensions. Cairo dispatches said the three Russian men-of-war would arrive in Egyptian waters today or tomorrow on what was officially described as "a goodwill visit".

U.S. OFFICIALS unable to see any way out of the worsening crisis in the Middle East, are keeping a wary eye out for any new Soviet move there. They do not anticipate direct Soviet military involvement, but they believe the Kremlin may seek other means to try to shore up the prestige and economic fortunes of the United Arab Republic.

BRITISH DEFENSE EXPERTS said the sinking of the Israeli destroyer Elath by Soviet sea-to-sea missiles has alerted the Western allies to the potential dangers facing their own fleets. They said the men in the Kremlin may yet regret spot-lighting a major gap in Western naval defenses.

SENATE WON'T ORDER LBJ TO CUT SPENDING

THE SENATE JOINED the battle with the House over government economy yesterday by rejecting all efforts to order President Johnson to cut spending this year. The Senate's final decision came in a 59-26 vote approving stopgap agencies in a resolution free of any economy directives of the sort the House attached last week.

The temporary financing resolution now goes to what one Republican leader called a "serious confrontation" between House and Senate negotiators who will attempt to write a compromise.

DICKEY-LINCOLN PROJECT LOSES AGAIN

FOR THE SECOND TIME this year, the House yesterday killed planning funds for the controversial Dickey-Lincoln public power project in Maine despite charges this would leave New England "in the dark ages—right there with the Congo."

The House voted 236-162 against a Senate-House conference committee compromise of $875,000 to continue planning of the $300 million-plus power project. New England representatives voted 15-6 against the measure. It was the only project trimmed from the $4.6 billion public works and Atomic Energy Commission AEC appropriations bill.

ARCHIE MOORE SAYS REDS AWAIT U.S. RACIAL WAR

ARCHIE MOORE, former light heavyweight boxing champion told congress yesterday he did not know if Communists instigated the summer's ghetto riots—but that he knew they were eagerly awaiting an all-out U.S. racial war.

Testifying before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, the Negro boxer said that ghetto-dwellers do not need Communists to tell them they are suffering and he did not know of any instances where they had promoted riots.

GRAND JURY PROBING CRIME INDICTS SEVEN

THE SUFFOLK COUNTY grand jury investigating organized crime in Massachusetts returned seven secret indictments yesterday against seven persons. The 21-member, all-male grand jury was reconvened Tuesday, reportedly to consider evidence in the 1965 gangland slaying of Edward M. "Teddy" Deegan. It was recessed after yesterday's session until Nov. 6. Dist. Atty. Garrett H. Byrne would not discuss the indictments with newsmen after they were handed up to Judge David A. Rose. He said they would remain secret until Clerk of Court Edward V. Keating swears out the warrants and the individuals are taken into custody.

SOUTH STATION CENTER WINS APPROVAL

THE MASSACHUSETTS PORT AUTHORITY has the green light today from the Legislature to develop a 23-acre part of the South Station area of Boston as a $60 million trade and transportation center. Included in the area will be a towering office building, a 5,000-car garage, a motor hotel, U.S. Customs Service facility, trade mart, and combined rail and bus terminals.

Edward J. King, executive director of the MPA, said the area "will bring under one roof in a proposed World Trade Center office building many of the businessmen scattered throughout the city who are dealing with the port in processing cargo and passengers on a daily basis".

LEGISLATURE PANEL OK'S BRIDGEWATER PROBE

THE JOINT RULES COMMITTEE yesterday reported favorably on an order to have the House Rules Committee investigate conditions at Bridgewater State Mental Hospital. The order directs the committee to emphasize in its investigation conditions at the hospital depicted in the controversial documentary film about the institution, "The Tilted Trolley".

The order further directs the committee to determine whether the film was a factual representation of conditions at the hospital and stipulates the committee may require by summons a production and exhibition of the film.

Airman Is Wounded In Viet Attack

A West Newton youth is recovering in Vietnam from wounds received when the Viet Cong staged a sneak attack on the Ton Le Cham Special Forces Camp.

Airman First Class Roger D. Newall of 3 Winthrop street was a crew member aboard a C-123K Provider transport aircraft when the Viet Cong attacked with mortars the camp located about 47 miles north of Saigon.

The aircraft with Newall aboard had landed with a group of Allied troops when the first mortar shell went off 10 yards from the right wing of the plane. Another round of shells exploded a moment later in front of the aircraft.

An Air Force spokesman said Newall had a "very close call" and that the West Newton resident has been awarded the Purple Heart.

"We were very lucky," was Newall's reaction to the attack.

The Air Force said that after the attack the heavily laden aircraft used every bit of the short runway before it lifted off.

A later survey showed that the plane had taken 180 hits from the enemy's heavy fire.

The Air Force quoted an eye witness as saying he had given up any hope the crew could be saved; that the attack was so heavy he was convinced the plane and the men on it were destroyed.

"Suddenly," the spokesman said, "I heard a loud roar and out of the smoke

$1,993,000 Boost In School Budget Asked

Requests for school budget increases for 1968 totaling $1,993,000, not including possible teacher salary raises, were presented to the Newton School Committee by Superintendent Charles E. Brown on Monday night.

Dr. Brown pointed out, however, that this figure represents requests submitted to him by principals and various department heads. They are not necessarily recommendations from the administration.

The requests will be studied by the School Committee as they deliberate on the budget which must be voted within the next few months.

Discussions about teachers' salaries are now being carried on in closed session between the School Committee and the Personnel Policies Committee of the Newton Teachers' Association, according to collective bargaining terms of state legislation passed last year, School Committee Chairman Harold Berman said.

As in the past, the largest single item in the preliminary report on budget requests for 1968 was $903,000 for overlay.

This is a figure which cannot be changed since it represents commitments for teachers' salary increases and new positions made last year which now must be included in the coming year's budget.

The next largest item of $325,000 was for new positions. This amount would only pay the tab for the requests for one-third of the year.

Requested are 105 new professional positions, 14 secretarial positions, 19 teacher aides, and 5 custodians.

Under the heading of Auxiliary Programs $175,400 was requested. This amount also would pay for one-third of the year for increases in such areas as substitute teachers, tutorial services, anticipated new services for

Mayor Pleased With Vietnam Gifts Idea

Mayor Monte G. Basbas yesterday warmly endorsed the drive being undertaken by the Graphic to assure that every Newton serviceman in Vietnam is remembered with a Christmas gift this coming Yuletide.

The Mayor declared that he personally will send a gift package to each serviceman from Newton who will spend Christmas in Vietnam and whose names and addresses are submitted to the Graphic.

Mayor Basbas recalled the tremendous gratification given him last year by the letters of thanks he received from the Newton GI's in Vietnam to whom he sent Christmas packages in a similar drive by the Graphic.

One of the Newton youths to whom Basbas sent a gift for Christmas, 1966, was tragically killed in action while the package was on its way to him.

At the same time that he announced his intention of sending a Yuletide package to every Newton GI whose name is published in the Graphic the Mayor urged organizations throughout the Garden City to mail a gift to at least one serviceman in Vietnam.

"This is a wonderful, heart-warming thing," the Mayor declared. "From the letters I received last Christmas, I know what it means to a serviceman from Newton to be remembered by the folks back home."

"I hope sincerely that every serviceman and servicewoman from Newton who will spend Christmas in Vietnam

Mrs. Hicks Holds Slim Lead In Race With Kevin White

School Committeewoman Louise Day Hicks appears to have moved into a slight lead over Secretary of State Kevin H. White in Boston's history-making mayoralty race.

It is now a little better than even money that Hub voters will elect Boston's first woman Mayor a week from next Tuesday.

Reliable polls and surveys indicate that Mrs. Hicks presently is running a shade ahead of Secretary White.

Whether she can maintain or increase her lead in the final days before the election will, of course, depend on developments and shifts in sentiment in the closing stages of the contest.

The White forces are confident that a strong finish by their man will bring him home a winner.

Mr. Shellenberger gave a historical report on the beginning of the Y.M.C.A. in London, England, and related how the Y. M. C. A. evolved to the modern day institution it is.

He noted that the YMCA's success has been due to its adaptability to meet the needs of our modern society.

Also noted, was that the YMCA of the future will have to listen to youth and begin dialogue to jump the "generation gap" between adults and youth. "We must search for ways as to how a more meaningful contribution can be made, and the YMCA has a great contribution to make."

President Charles Smith thanked all the committee men for their presence at the meeting and the many hours of volunteer service which they rendered the Newton Y.M.C.A.

Temple Shalom Series Starts Friday, Nov. 3

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, Spiritual leader of Temple Shalom of Newton, announces "Israel and The American Jew" as the subject to be explored in a series of lectures by prominent speakers during the 1967-68 season. This series is to be sponsored by the Adult Education Committee of Temple Shalom and this topic chosen because "The relationship of Israel to America and specifically to the American Jew is of great significance today in the light of recent events in Israel," according to Rabbi Rothman.

The speakers in this series will discuss the philosophical, historical and political aspects of this subject. Mr. Eugene Bronstein, Chairman of the Adult Education Committee at Temple Shalom said that it was the hope of this Committee to also have a leading Christian philosopher view this topic from a Christian point of view. It is also planned to have a leading American-Jewish spokesman discuss the same subject from an American-Jewish vantage point.

The first lecture of the series will present the thoughts of an Israeli. On Friday evening, November 3, at 8:15 p.m. at Temple Shalom, Professor A. V. Levontin will discuss this subject from the point of view of an Israeli citizen. A discussion period will follow the talk.

Professor Levontin, currently visiting professor at Yale Law School, is on leave from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem where he has been serving in various capacities since 1949. The author of numerous monographs and arti-

Anti-War Demonstrations

About the only thing last week's anti-war demonstrations accomplished was to provide a measure of satisfaction for the North Vietnamese leaders in Hanoi and probably stiffen their determination to continue fighting.

Even the moderate university students, who travelled from all over the country to participate in the march on the Pentagon, went home disturbed because the demonstration was taken over by a small minority of trouble-makers.

Actually, no marches or demonstrations are needed to show that the war in Vietnam is an unpopular one.

A large number of people across the United States believe we should negotiate a peace in Vietnam—at any cost—and get out of that war-stricken country.

Another segment of U. S. citizenry believes we should step up our bombing attacks and do what is necessary to win the war—at any price.

Neither course is as simple as its advocates seem to think.

Nobody wants an endless war in Vietnam which seems likely to go on for years and in its process take a terrible toll in dead and injured.

But the obvious fact is that there are no easy answers to the enormous problems confronting us in Vietnam. And the demonstrations of last week will not help to produce any answers or achieve a termination of the fighting. In fact, they may do just the opposite.

We should, of course, negotiate an honorable end to the war in Vietnam—if we can.

But we can't negotiate with ourselves, and Hanoi shows no disposition to negotiate with us. Indeed, there is reason to doubt whether Hanoi, with Red China looking over its shoulder, is free to negotiate if it wanted to do so.

The latest word from Hanoi is that it will not take part in any peace negotiations until after next year's U. S. Presidential election—more than 12 months away.

What do we do in the meantime?

Do we pack up and retreat from Vietnam as Hanoi wants us to do, abandoning both the South Vietnamese and our own commitments?

Do we continue fighting for another year at a cost of billions of dollars and, more important, thousand of dead and wounded?

That seems to be the grim choice we have.

Nobody wants to remain in this war. The question is how we can get out of it.

By KATE SOLOMON

Newton High cannot be called a totally English-speaking school. If one walked down the hallowed halls, one would undoubtedly hear a mumbled, flowing Spanish and French, a harsh but fluent German and Russian, and Latin, while students might not be conversing in it but certainly one would hear a recitation of a noun declension or a verb conjugation. And even to the non-perceptive listener, English too would be distinguishable.

It is only natural then, that language-oriented Newton High can boast of six language clubs. The Spanish Club headed by Debbie Levi, has already held two meetings. Its plans include a weekend trip to New York with a visit to the U.N. and a club dinner party at the high school. Also on the agenda are slides shown by native Latin Americans, Spanish songs, meals at Spanish Restaurants and a Christmas party.

The club has decided to sell candy in the cafeteria in order to supplement the cost of the New York trip and hopes to have its members see Jose Greco, the famous flaming dancer.

The officers of the club besides Debbie are Bonnie Simmons, vice president; Arnee Blauer, secretary; and Abbe Kostant, treasurer.

The French Club is presently in the process of electing its officers. It plans to show slides and French movies and will sponsor various speakers. Later in the year, the members will dine at a French restaurant which is considered the highlight of the club's activities.

The purpose of the German Club, according to club president Eric Weiner, is to acquaint students with the country and culture of Germany and to have fun. The club meets four or five times a year, and will show slides, discuss German political and cultural problems, and sponsor a big Christmas celebration featuring a German Santa Claus.

The club also hopes to get together with the other language clubs and have a big dance for their collective members.

The officers, in addition to Eric, are Nancy Patterson, vice president; Jill Breslau, secretary; and Diane deBettencourt, treasurer. The club's first meeting will be held Thursday, October 26.

The Russian Club has neither officers nor pre-arranged meetings. The members get together whenever they have something of consequence to discuss or whenever they have something interesting to share.

Last Thursday Bob Hough, senior at Newton High, showed his slides of Russia and talked about his trip. Along with three other Newton students: Reggie Benn, senior at NHS and star quarterback on the Tiger football team; Lorrie Gross, junior at Murray road; and Josh Alper, a junior at Newton South; Bob participated in a country-wide travel group of high schoolers.

Chaperoned by five graduate students, the group was gone ten weeks. They began their traveling in Germany, then went to Denmark, Sweden and Finland, and ended in Russia for a month. Only four of the students spoke Russian; Bob was the only one from Newton.

Bob found the Russian people amazingly friendly and curious about American people. "They (the Russians), were sincerely concerned with peace, especially peace with the United States. They felt the only way to save the world was by peaceful co-existence. And surprisingly enough, this feeling was not totally dictated by the government but was partially rooted by an inner self-imposed desire," he said.

Bob showed the club about one hundred slides of Russia, mostly of monuments and places he visited. The only restriction the government imposed upon him and his fellow travelers was a list of objects they were forbidden to photograph. Bob added, as a point of interest, that in Moscow half the group staged a peace demonstration and attracted from four hundred to four hundred fifty people.

The Latin Club, the fifth language club at Newton High School, will sponsor speakers, movies, and slides. Each year the club puts on a Roman play in English, and this year they will hold a banquet. The club meets once a month and is headed by Gerard Tempest. The other officers will be elected at the next meeting.

The Tusitala Club is the English club and is run on a completely different basis than the other language clubs. It is exclusively a writing club, with John Furbush as the president and only officer.

Each meeting, a few original pieces, either poems, short stories or essays, are mimeographed and passed out to each of the members. The students then discuss each paper, attempting to point out its strengths and weaknesses. The club demands no dues and has no other requirements. It exists solely for the benefit of the student and his writing.

Field Trips

Newton students do not always stay in school eight hours a day. Often they spend less than three and a half hours. And this is not because they have study periods.

The fourth year German class which consists of five students: Ruth O'Connor, Judy Elkan, Eric Weiner, Gina Reiger, and Steve Fine left the school last Thursday at

Political Highlights

One thing which is gradually becoming apparent is the fact that Mrs. Hicks is a woman is not an overriding issue in this election battle.

The simple question most undecided voters in Boston are trying to decide is whether Mrs. Hicks or Secretary White is better qualified to run their city for the next four years. The outcome of the fight will hinge on the answer a majority of them reach.

While, who originally launched his fight in rather gingerly fashion because he was opposing a woman, has become more aggressive in the home stretch of the campaign.

This presumably resulted from the realization by White and his advisers that Mrs. Hicks was moving out front in the race and was drawing support she wasn't expected to get.

In revising his strategy, White has been taking a calculated risk he obviously was not disposed to take in the weeks immediately following the preliminary election when he was rated a strong favorite.

An example of this was White's action in making an issue of Mrs. Hicks' promise of a maximum salary of $10,000 a year to patrolmen on the Boston police department.

Secretary White has seized on that to try to establish a credibility gap in the statements of the School Committeewoman and to accuse her of "fiscal folly."

In doing so he is risking the possible loss of any support he may have not only among the members of the police department but also the firefighters who traditionally receive the same pay as the police.

White also promised the Boston police a raise but did not pinpoint a specific figure. He told them he would give them higher pay than is now received by members of the MDC force. (Both the MDC police and the Capitol police at the State House now are paid more than the Boston police.)

Mrs. Hicks flatly denies that there is any credibility gap in her statements or that she is open to charges of fiscal irresponsibility.

She asserts that she means exactly what she says and that she will do precisely what she says she will do.

The School Committeewoman declares that federal funds are available to help defray the costs of law-enforcement in cities such as Boston, that she will seek them and that she will get them.

She adds that she will lower Boston's tax rate, not increase it.

Mrs. Hicks points out that under a new law the State next July 1 will assume the welfare expenses now borne by Boston and other cities and towns throughout the Commonwealth.

This saving, coupled with new revenue she expects to obtain from presently untapped sources, will make it possible for her to do the things she plans, Mrs. Hicks states.

"I know what I'm talking about. I'm being completely realistic, and I'll get federal funds to help defray law-enforcement costs in Boston, you can depend on that," says Mrs. Hicks.

White counters with the assertion that federal funds granted to cities are earmarked for specific uses and purposes and that it is not possible to get them without strings attached.

Mrs. Hicks responds that Mayors throughout the United States have been asking that their cities be given federal grants with no strings attached and that hundreds of millions of dollars in federal funds are available to the cities to assist in financing their law-enforcement programs.

White's strongest and sharpest attack to date upon Committeewoman Hicks was an indirect one in which he declared that if he is elected Mayor "no man or woman is going to tear this city apart with hate or bigotry or false promises."

The Secretary of State maintains that there are three paramount issues in the fight between him and Mrs. Hicks. He lists them as schools, law-enforcement and taxes.

White sharply challenges Mrs. Hicks' insistence that the Boston public school system is the best in the country. He argues that this cannot be true when many of the Hub's schools are either old or over-crowded. He points out that the old Agassiz School in Jamaica Plain which he attended as a boy was built in 1849.

But it was White's reference to "bigotry" which brought the greatest reaction and the most lifting of eyebrows.

From the present tone and tenor of the mayoralty contest, the indications are that the campaigning may become increasingly heated and bitter as the two candidates near the end of their race.

Donahue's Proposal May Save Stadium Bill

One newspaper reported recently that Governor Volpe's plan for the erection of a new sports stadium may be in deep trouble because of the poor location of the seats allocated for members of the State Legislature for the World Series games played at Fenway Park.

Each law-maker was allowed to buy two tickets for $8 apiece for each of the World Series games in Boston. But when they arrived at the ball park, they discovered their seats were in one of the poorest and most distant sections of the grandstand.

This has caused a substantial number of legislators to become cool to the idea of building a stadium, according to the newspaper story.

However, the suggestion that some of them would use that as a reason for killing the stadium bill is so fantastic as to be unrealistic.

Most baseball fans, whether in public office or out of it, would be likely to grumble over a poor seat for a World Series game although some might consider themselves fortunate to get in the park at all.

But a legislator who vented his wrath by voting against a new stadium would be just about committing political suicide.

Fenway Park is one of the smallest parks to be found in any major league cities in the United States. Its parking facilities are totally inadequate.

Boston will lose major league football unless it builds an adequate stadium, and it probably would lose major league football unless it builds what were to happen to Tom Yawkey.

Members of the Legislature know this, and the story that some of them would oppose the construction of a new stadium because they got poor seats for a World Series is probably a product of somebody's fertile imagination.

State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue is one top legislative leader who is still vigorously beating the drums for a new stadium.

Donahue has advanced a proposal which may prove the answer to the question of how any deficit the financing the stadium would be met.

The Senate head suggests that the meals tax, which yields about $5 million a year that is now distributed to the cities and towns, be kept instead by the State and that $2 million of it be set aside to cover any stadium deficit.

He points out that the $5 million is now paid back to the local communities to help meet their old age assistance costs which next July 1 are to be taken over by the Commonwealth.

He points out that the $5 million is now paid back to the local communities to help meet their old age assistance costs which next July 1 are to be taken over by the Commonwealth.

Boston now gets about $1.2 million in meals taxes so that it would indirectly pay the biggest share of any stadium deficit under Donahue's plan.

Approximately a fourth of the meals tax is collected in Boston, and with a new stadium that percentage probably would rise even higher since persons attending events in the sports complex undoubtedly would dine in nearby restaurants.

Some persons are unable to understand why a stadium should have a deficit if big crowds were attracted to Red Sox and Patriots games as well as other events.

The answer is that the revenue the stadium would realize might not be great enough to cover the interest and principal payments on the bond issue floated to build it as well as its operating costs.

Donahue, incidentally, favors a domed all-weather stadium along the lines of the Houston Astrodome.

League Drives For Signatures On Petition

The League of Women Voters of Newton have launched a drive this month to obtain signatures on a state-wide petition for amendment to the State Constitution. This petition proposes to reduce the size of the House of Representatives from 240 members to 160 and to eliminate multi-member districts.

It is desirable to have a smaller House of Representatives in order to make legislative proceedings and debate simpler, more visible, and therefore more accountable to the voter. The responsibility and prestige of each individual legislator would be enhanced in a smaller legislature, thereby attracting well-qualified candidates. The voter also would have a better opportunity to be aware of the voting record of his representative.

League members are now participating in a house to house campaign for signatures. Newton citizens wishing to sign or carry a petition may contact Mrs. Jay Orlin at 244-9501.

Marriage Mill's Business Booms

DENISON, TEX. (UPI) — A sign on a house just north of the Texas border in Oklahoma offers "Drive-In Marriages."

The owner of the house, Rev. J. T. Harmon, said,

"when the new highway opened we had to do something."

One principal business in this area is matrimony — some 2,500 to 3,000 marriages a year are performed north of Denison — and business has never been better. Most of the weddings are for Texas couples.

Texas couples seem to like this area of Oklahoma because of the ease with which out-of-state couples can get a license after hours.

Customers from the Dallas-Fort Worth area and points north often make the trip, get married, and return home the same evening.

One justice of the peace,

Ross Beal Nix, said he once performed 25 ceremonies in 24 hours.

Jose Ferrer and Rosemary Clooney drove to Bryan County from Dallas to get married. Nix said he was set to perform the ceremonies for Marina Oswald and Kenneth Porter before reporters found out they were in the area. The couple went back to Texas.

When a couple stop at one of the marriage mills, they are first taken to a nearby clinic for a blood test, then to the home of Court Clerk Clark Grimes for a license. Witnesses are also supplied if the couple do not have their own.

Diet Workshop At Temple Set For November 1

The public is invited to a Diet Workshop Open House to be held at Temple Reym, 1860 Washington street, Newton on Wednesday, November 1, at 9:30 a.m.

An experienced group leader who has lost weight on this program conducts the meetings. No medical advice is given, nor is group therapy attempted. Weight loss is attained through the stimulus of meeting others who share the same problems in following each other as they lose weight together.

Discussions are heard on special problems, such as entertaining, attending dinner parties and other affairs, resisting children's leftovers, satisfying the nibbler and coordinating the diet with family meal preparations.

As participants in the program, members can anticipate losing pounds gradually and sensibly by means of gourmet recipes, such as pizzas and frappes. These recipes, which go hand-in-hand with the diet are given each week, giving the members something to look forward to, as opposed to the old "rabbit food" school of dieting.

For those who stay in the program until they reach their goal, a framed Before and After picture is given as a graduation present. In addition, graduates may attend meetings free of charge forever as long as they do not gain over two pounds.

There will be an opportunity for those who wish to join to do so at the conclusion of the Open House. There will be no fee for those who do not wish to join.

"UNICEF" Treats Set For Halloween In This City

Well motivated witches and goblins will be a highlight of the Newton School Halloween parties this year, as children from local schools contribute on Tuesday October 31 their "TREATS FOR UNICEF".

The program, proclaimed by Mayor Monte Basbas as part of United Nations Week is designed to encourage young citizens to share Halloween fun with children throughout the world.

Their contributions, derived chiefly from piggy banks, allowances, and family to the United Nations Children's Fund.

Last year Halloween collections from 13,000 American communities totaled over $2,700,000. The funds are used to aid needy children in 120 countries around the world.

According to Mrs. Jack Bloom chairman of the Newton drive, "The educational value of the project is even more important than the money collected. American children learn about the problems facing their contemporaries in other parts of the world, and want to help."

The Newton Community Peace Center, 474 Centre street, Newton, is this year, sponsoring the school UNICEF Fund Collection, assuming with the help of the P.T.A. Presidents, the responsibility for planning, displays, and collection of contributions.

"UNICEF MOTHERS" have been appointed to each school to collect the filled envelopes from the youngsters at the Tuesday Halloween parties. Contributions from adults for UNICEF may be sent to the Newton Peace Center if desired.

Creative Arts Program Gets Start at Community Center

The Newton Community Center called attention today to a few remaining places in the Creative Art Program for children which meets on Tuesday or Thursday afternoons at the Center.

The classes with spaces remaining include Grade 2, meeting for 1 hour at 2:15 pm on Tuesdays, and an open hour for children of any grade (Kindergarten through 6) meeting at 3:15 on Tuesday.

There are also a few places in the Grade 5 and 6 class which meets for one and a quarter hours on Thursdays at 2:45 pm.

This program is designed to stimulate the imagination and understanding of children of all ages, providing pleasurable creative outlets suitable for their use.

The emphasis of the instructor, Mrs. Murray Janower of Newton, is on originality of expression and thought, and experimentation with new forms of art media.

The range and complexity of the media will vary according to age level, but all children will enjoy a variety of visual experiences and materials: weaving, printing, woodworking, papier mache, painting, puppetry, murals, sand painting, and casting, modeling and sculpture, are but a few examples.

The atmosphere at the Center gives the child a chance to explore what he feels, what he remembers, what he sees and what he hears, in a setting which is free of restraints (and concern over mess of furniture and clothes.)

All projects and problems are designed to stimulate creative thinking in the youngster, that is to stretch each child's imagination to the limits of his capacity, while exploring a new (or old) visual language.

An example of the above approach was illustrated by Mrs. Janower with a problem to be presented to a 5th and 6th grade class: To design a playground for an animal of his choice. To motivate the children in working out their "problem," there would probably be an observation period of animals' habits, first, Mrs. Janower stated. At this time, the child would have to ask himself a variety of questions: How does the animal move? What would it be feasible for him to play on? What would be challenging for him to play on? What other areas would he need to take care of his desires? Space to rest? to eat? to fall? etc. and how could he provide for them.

AIDS HOSPITAL—Mrs. Donald Jacobson, of Newton, seated, chairman of the Masked Ball being held by Brookline Hospital Women's Auxiliary, this Saturday, October 28, at the Statler Hilton Hotel, is flanked by two of her advisors, Mrs. E. Pat Groper, left, auxiliary president, and Mrs. James V. Sidell, past president, both also of Newton.

Next, the child would take a good look at the materials presented to him. In this case, a variety of everyday objects, cartons, pebbles, corks, wood scraps, wax paper rollers, boxes, paper, glue etc. In some instances there might be a demonstration period of new ways of using paper or cardboard (folding, wadding, tearing, fringing, curling, etc.)

Finally the child would have to choose and design those structures which he thought would be suitable for the animal of his choice, while perhaps tracing an imaginary "play path" that the creature would take when moving about the play ground (thereby calling attention to problems of space, design, etc.) All of this questioning and thinking stimulates the child's creativity and adds to the excitement of the project. The program also includes an informal study of contemporary "styles" in modern

Headlights And Highlights From Newton South High

By JAMES SHULMAN

Scholarship was the topic of conversation this past week at Newton South High School, with nine students in the running for Merit Scholarships and the Juniors struggling through their Practice Scholastic Aptitude tests.

The nine semi-finalists of the National Merit Scholarship from Newton South are: Jeff Berman, Margret Dorfman, Robert Feldman, Susan Garber, Gerald Gladstone, Wendy Goldwyn, Cynthia Keenan, Elizabeth Poplin, and Gerald Snyder.

The nine at South are among the 14,000 semi-finalists throughout the nation who have advanced to the second step in the competition for about 2,900 Merit Scholarships, valued at more than $8 million.

Semi-finalists are those who scored the highest in each state on the National Merit Qualifying Test given last March. They constitute, according to figures, less than 1 percent of the graduating secondary school seniors in the nation.

These South seniors must advance to Finalist standing to be considered for Merit Scholarships. They become Finalists by receiving the endorsement of South's administration, earning high SAT scores and submitting information about their achievements and interests.

If Finalists, they will be considered for one of about 2,400 scholarships, ranging in value from $100 to $1500 a year, for four years, depending upon need, sponsored by various corporations, organizations, and the Merit Foundation itself. For the first time this season, 500 one-time National Merit $1000 Scholarships, will also be awarded.

"Dark of the Moon," is a play based on one of the many versions of the hunting ballad, "Barbara Allen," and it will be presented at Newton South and has "principles" of art education. Each lesson is devoted to an examination of one or several aesthetic concepts including color, proportion, light, texture, movement, form, space, symbols, design, etc.

In dealing with these ideas the child becomes sensitive to his environment on a variety of planes, rather than one. For example, in texture problems, what is it like to create a "feeling" picture, as well as a "seeing picture," might be a question asked the students. Do different textures suggest different activities for in the near future, by the students. It employs a large cast, in an imaginative setting of the Smokey Mountains.

It recounts the story of an elfin witch-boy who one day beholds the beautiful Barbara Allen, and immediately falls in love with her. A compact is made by which he is given human form to woo and marry her, on the condition that she remains true to him. The marriage is consummated and Barbara gives birth to a witch-child, whom the midwives burn.

In the frenzy of a religious revival, Barbara is led to betray her witch-boy husband in order to break his spell. She then dies, and he returns forever to the world of the mountain witches.

Debbie Platt will have the part of Barbara Allen and Jerry Mann will be the witch-boy John. Andy Krinsky and Ellen Modell will be the Conjurer and the Conjurer Woman, members of the supernatural community. Ruth MacClosky and Stan Schertzer have the parts of Mr. and Mrs. Allen, while Richard Stutch is their son Floyd. The other members of the cast include Harris Gershman as Preacher Hagler, Larry Kaplan as Uncle Smellicue, Herb Lustig as Marvin Huggins, Rhonda Blair as Mrs. Summey, Carrie Gershman as Miss Metcalf, Andy Bryant as Edna Summey, Bill Oser as Mr. Summey, Steve Saks as Hank Gudger, Steven Kay as Burt Dinwitty, Kirk Pantos as Mr. Atkins, Jerry Altman as Mr. Berger, Mayanne Juillerette as Mrs. Berger, Leslie Flurim as Hattie Hefner, Nancy Tobin as Greeny Gorman, Patti Kovitch as Bette Hazelton and Mark Oakes as Boy.

Newton Youth Center chairman, Barry Dichter, foresees the best year ever for the Youth Center. He feels that with the proper student support, which he knows is possible, the Center will flourish and have a productive year.

An appearance by K. C. Jones, a concert by a name group, monthly dances, and a pool and ping pong tournament are planned for this year.

The Youth Center headquarters, at Warren Junior High School, has recently been redecorated. Part of the upstairs area has been people? Do different textures suggest various emotions? (Contrast sand paper and velvet, for instance).

Or in another area, in making children aware of "form," how would a child draw a circle, cut out a circle, overlap several circles? — and finally how would he repeat these exercises if he had no pencil, but simply nails or thumbtacks and a hammer and block of wood. Building a form in this way becomes a great challenge to a youngster and encourages an awareness in art and in the world, of visual patterns and formations.

In teaching children these basic principles, Mrs. Janower also emphasizes an informal introduction to modern artists. In the field of color she might have the children examine the work of Gauguin; or Roualt; in explaining fantasy she might use Chagall, texture, Picasso; Monet, light; Van Gogh, direction, movement; Seurat, form; Matisse, pattern.

Children have an opportunity to see how other artists deal with identical ideas, while at the same time familiarizing themselves with his work. When they are greeted with pictures they have seen, in a Boston museum, and a note strikes home (I've seen that before) is a typical comment. Museum works take on meaning and become friends.

Classes at the Center are limited in size and places are available in three sections. Any parents who are interested in having their children join the program, may still contact the Community Center at 244-2260.

Thurs., Oct. 26, 1967, The Newton Graphic Page 7

turned into a carpeted lounge where members will be able to read and watch television.

However, the plans are that the Center will soon be moved to the Newton Community Centre.

Membership is open to all Newton residents of high school age for $1.00. The Center is open every Friday and Saturday evenings.

Barry and Hillel Koren, the other officer from South, hope that students will not misuse the added advantages of the improved Youth Center.

The United States Army has announced that it will award 800 college scholarships to outstanding High School Seniors that will be graduating this year.

The scholarships will be good at any of 247 colleges and universities in the United States offering the Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) program. Students can choose their own field of study and the only requirement will be that they take ROTC.

Selection is based on academic excellence, extra-curricular activities, physical standards, results of college entrance examination boards, personal qualities, and leadership potential. The Army is looking for the very best.

This is the fourth year of the Army scholarship program. Last year 800 high school graduates were selected. The scholarships pay full tuition, textbooks, and laboratory fees, and provide a $50 monthly allowance for four years.

High school seniors, their parents or teachers may obtain information by writing: ROTC Scholarship, First U. S. Army, Fort Meade, Md. 20755. Deadline for submission of completed applications is Jan. 15, 1968. However, College Entrance Examination Board Scholarship Aptitude Tests must be completed no later than December, 1967.

Alumnae Hold Reception For Dean Of College

The Newton South PTSA is made up of parents, teachers and students of Newton South High School. Their goal this year is to foster the participation of every family in the Newton South community in an effort to increase the interest and activity in the affairs of the PTSA.

The PTSA handles the following projects: Library, all school dances, Senior Week program, pops program, creative arts program, Scholarship Fund, "Back to School" open house for Parents.

Mr. Milton L. Levy, president of the PTSA, along with the other members, wants the parents, teachers and students to join in their efforts to keep Newton South High School at the forefront in the complex and important field of education for your children. They hope that every family will take part.

Vacation Cruise Costs About $30 Daily Per Person

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Even the most ardent landlubber would have to concede there are few better ways of escaping from the hectic pace of modern living than a leisurely sea voyage.

And each year American and foreign flag ship operators offer more and more cruises for vacationists seeking such relaxation as well as the adventure of visiting strange and exotic places.

There are hundreds of sailings scheduled from West and East Coast ports during the 1967-68 cruise season. They range from weekend cruises to nowhere from around $75 per person to 90 day voyages around the world costing a minimum of about $3,000.

Generally, there is only one class on cruises. Fares include accommodations, all meals and use of all public facilities aboard the ship. Not included are bar bills, laundry and other personal expenses, including tips. Sightseeing tours ashore also will cost extra unless specifically included in the contract.

The more luxurious the cabin or room, the more you will pay. But figure on an average of about $30 per day per person — give or take a few dollars — or about what you would pay at a luxury resort ashore. Book as early as possible for only a few rooms, mostly inside on the lower decks, go for the minimum rates.

Most of the cruise ships departing from East Coast ports head for Bermuda, the Bahamas, and the islands of the Caribbean. The majority of cruises run from six to 17 days, although there are shorter and longer trips. Ships sailing from West Coast ports cruise to Hawaii and other islands in the Pacific.

Longer Cruises

In addition, there are scores of cruises ranging from one month to three months to South America, the Mediterranean, Adriatic and Black Seas, the Greek Islands, the Middle East, Africa, the Far East, Australia, the South Pacific and around the world.

Some of the world's most famous luxury liners are pulled off their regular runs for the lucrative cruise season. They include Cunard Lines Queen Elizabeth, the world's biggest at 83,673-tons, the French Lines France, 66,347-tons and the world's longest at 1,035-feet, and the U. S. Lines United States, 53,330-tons, holder of the trans-Atlantic speed records.

The Elizabeth has six special cruises scheduled this season to Nassau, St. Thomas and Bermuda. The first is a five-day Christmas cruise leaving New York Dec. 21 for Nassau (minimum $160). The other cruise will range from five to seven days (from $150 to $225). This will be the Elizabeth's last year in service — it is scheduled to join its sister ship Queen Mary in retirement next fall.

The France, four feet longer than the Elizabeth, has six cruises to the Caribbean scheduled, ranging from 11 to 17 days and visiting five to seven ports (from $370 to $600). A Jan. 13 sailing from New York includes calls at St. Thomas, Martinique, Trinidad, Curacao and Nassau (11 days, from $370).

The 909-foot-long United States, fastest and longest passenger liner ever built in the U. S., will sail from New York Dec. 22 for an 11-day holiday cruise to Nassau, Panama, Curacao and St. Thomas (from $425). Also scheduled is a 28-day trip to Curacao, Rio de Janeiro, Dakar, Tenerife, Gibraltar, Lisbon and Madeira, departing from New York Feb. 3 ($1,025 up).

Other cruises include 90-day globe-girding voyages by the American President Lines President Roosevelt from San Francisco with 19 ports of call (from $2,635); 42-day cruises through the South Pacific by the Matson Lines Mariposa ($1,285 and up); a 67-day 48-port cruise by American Export Isbrandtsen Lines Constitution to the Caribbean, Africa, Middle East, Mediterranean, Adriatic and Black Seas and the Greek Isles (from $1,745).

There also are three-day cruises from Miami to Nassau by the Bahama Star and Ariadne (from $59) and 10-day cruises between the West Coast and Hawaii by the Lur-line ($437 and up).

NEW YORK (UPI) — All aerosol containers should be disposed of with non-burnable trash, says the Chemical Manufacturers Association.

If you live in an apartment where there is an incinerator, inquire from the management whether the janitor picks up aerosols and other containers best not burned. Never should you throw an aerosol or any other product in metal or glass into an open fire.

New Addition For X-Ray Department At Hospital

Newton-Wellesley Hospital has added an isotope scanning camera to the diagnostic weaponry of its well-equipped x-ray department, hospital director William S. Brines announced today.

"The new equipment depicts the structure of body organs in a manner x-rays cannot. It indicates anomalies within an organ, such as tumors, lesions and similar abnormal changes," Mr. Brines reported.

He noted a test with the new equipment is one with less discomfort and hazard to a patient. The scanning camera can complete a study in 10 minutes, where earlier models of rectilinear scanners required a half hour and more for similar studies.

When a test is ordered by a doctor, a patient receives a small injection of radioactive substance. The type of substance depends upon the organ of the body to be studied. Different kind of substances tend to gather in different organs of the body.

Following an injection, a patient sits or lies before the scanning camera. Shaped like a round drum, the camera has a sodium iodide crystal housed behind a lead shield. The crystal picks up the presence of radioactivity and an image depicting the radioactive concentrations in the form of blue dots is seen upon a television screen.

The dots form a configuration of the organ under study.

Junior College Coach Greets Hoop Prospects

Basketball Coach Dick Rollins greeted 24 candidates last week for the 1967-68 edition of the Newton Junior College Basketball team. The Bears are members of the Massachusetts Junior College Basketball Conference.

Rollins, starting his third year at the College is looking to the upcoming season with optimistic feelings for several reasons. "This is the largest turn-out we've had in the last three years and some of the new hopefuls look promising, also we have 6 returning lettermen who all have experience and some have shown considerable improvement, notably Mike Curley, 6-3, and Mark Olin. In addition we have two veterans returning in John Melnick, 6-5, and former St. Sebastian's stand-out Mike Marion. Marion was with us last year but suffered a broken wrist early in the season which sidelined him the rest of the year."

"We will miss Jim McLaughlin, leading scorer in the Conference with 27 ppg, and our best defensive man Joe Carolina, but I think we will have better balance and have more depth than last year." The Bears open their 20 game schedule on Tuesday, November 14, when they visit Cambridge School at the Bedford VA Hospital.

The television screen is mounted upon a console and is wired to the camera.

Also on the console is a camera, with three lenses. One produces an overexposed print, the second a normal exposure and the third an underexposed print. The three views upon a permanent photo help an x-ray doctor interpret what is occurring within an organ. The black and white photos are reproduced within a matter of seconds.

The scanner is used to study organs such as the lungs, the brain, the liver and the kidney. Generally it is used as an adjunct to regular x-ray studies. It also can trace the passage of blood within the body.

"The scanner can depict an embolism in the circulatory system 24 hours before it may appear in conventional x-rays. Consequently, the equipment has important applications in emergency circumstances, with patients stricken with a sudden circulatory ailment," Mr. Brines observed.

The amount of radioactive substance required for the test is negligible and well within the range of M.I.T., for 19 years she was affiliated with New England Deaconess Hospital and helped establish the first radioisotope programs there.

The physicist is Mrs. Edgla Witherell of Needham. A graduate of M.T., for 19 years she was affiliated with New England Deaconess Hospital and helped establish the first radioisotope programs there.

"Adding a physicist to the hospital team points up the big change taking place in modern medicine. The scientific disciplines are crossing traditional lines, and the result is better medicine," Mr. Brines said.

He noted that medical use of isotopes grew out of early work on atomic and hydrogen bombs.

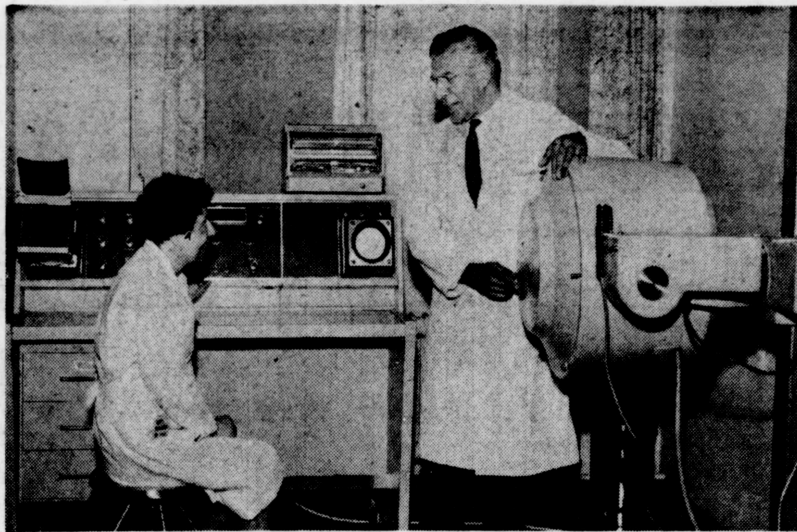

As peaceful uses of atomic energy were sought, the big use was found in diagnostic medicine, he concluded.

Dinner-Fashion Show Plans Set By B'nai B'rith

Presenting a delightful fashion show will be Lenard's of Chestnut Hill. The Commentator will be Elaine Stone of Lenard's.

President of the Mayflower Chapter is Mrs. Arthur White of Mattapan. Anyone desiring tickets may contact Mrs. Arnold Agulnick at 969-8227.

Budget -

the perceptually handicapped and sabbatical leaves.

For Research and Development $100,000 was asked for one-third of the year. Dr. Brown explained that most money spent in Newton schools for these purposes has come in the past primarily from foundations and from the Federal government.

Both sources appear to be concentrating more of their efforts in the urban areas, Dr. Brown noted. This year three proposals for funds were submitted to the Federal government and all three were rejected.

The superintendent said he would like to aim for spending two per cent of the annual operating budget for research and development. Based on a figure of $15 million which was last year's approximate budget, the figure would amount to $300,000 next year.

Other items in the preliminary budget request report were $27,000 for double increments and extended maxima. This is a method of rewarding outstanding teachers.

For Data Processing or computer services obtained outside of the school system $40,000 for the entire year was requested.

Dr. Brown observed that an organization called NEEDS has provided these services at no cost for about five years and this amount would represent most of the first charge. The sum of $10,000 was included as the down payment in this year's budget.

For the completion of the pilot school lunch program now being carried on in three elementary schools $54,000 was requested for the balance of the school year. If the program is extended or expanded more money will be needed. Dr. Brown mentioned $100,000 as a possible tentative figure.

For out-of-state travel an additional $6,000 was sought.

To support the services of personnel at the Newton Mental Health Center $12,000 was asked for a 12 month period. Non-salary item requests amounted to $350,000.

Dr. Brown pointed out that a similar report one year ago called for budget increases of about $2,300,000, but the figure included teacher salary raises for one-third of a year. The school budget actually increased about $1,500,000 when it was finally voted.

In response to a question from Committeeman Francis P. Frazier concerning the economy of money for research and development, Dr. Brown said he could not see any way of equating first rate education with fewer expendi-

Barbara Cooper, Author, To Visit Hathaway House

Hathaway House Bookshop in Wellesley will present the outstanding illustrator and author, Barbara Cooney of Pepperell, Mass. at an autographing party. Children are most particularly invited to the event which will take place on Wednesday the first of November from 2 to 5 p.m. Adults interested in collecting autographed books are also cordially welcomed.

The bookshop, a large yellow house on the corner of Central Street across from Wellesley College, has had a distinguished array of authors come through its doors; and Barbara Cooney is no exception.

Smith graduate and winner of the Caldecott Medal in 1958 for "Chanticleer and the Fox," Mrs. Cooney has illustrated more than 60 books, among them "Christmas in the Barn," "Peter's Long Walk," "The Little Juggler," "Le Hibou et La Poussinette," "Papillot, Clignot et Dodo," and "Mother Goose in French." "Poesies de la Vie Mere Oie." Many of her books have been published in German, Finnish, Swedish, African, Arabic, and French.

Her most recent, "A Little Prayer," published this month by Hastings House in New York, is taken from an ancient French prayer which originated in Provence.

For "The Little Juggler," Mrs. Cooney made a special trip to Paris to see the 13th century manuscript which is the basis of the legend.

Mrs. Cooney writes of the ancient story: "I was charmed. The legend was then new to me, the story was so simple and so lovely. I decided to name my next child, if it were a boy, after the little juggler. It was, and I did."

To produce a children's book of quality is no light matter. For Mrs. Cooney "The Little Juggler" took five years and "The Little Prayer" took six years. Her illustrations are meticulously precise. Their color reproduction is always carefully shepherded through the publishing process.

It is thus not surprising that her reputation has earned international recognition, that her books are often chosen for Junior Literary Guild Selections, that she was asked by the American Library Association to participate in the film, "The Lively Art of Picture Books."

The amounts which cover only one-third of the year are so allocated because many School Department contracts, as with teachers, are made for the school year which begins in September. Therefore, an increase which takes effect next September would be covered in the 1968 budget until the end of the year in December.

In other matters the School Committee approved by a vote of 5-3 a resolution by Committeewoman Mrs. Norma Mintz which gave School Committee support to the drive to establish a state constitutional convention. The resolution also urged Newton citizens to sign petitions now being circulated.

Committeemen Manuel Beckwith, Francis P. Frazier and Edwin Hawkrigge voted against the resolution.

Beckwith said he was not sure of what the matter had to do with education and particularly with the Newton schools. He felt it was beyond the province of the Newton School Committee and he was reluctant to have the committee become embroiled in a possible political controversy.

Hawkrigge felt the idea was too nebulous at present for such a resolution. He said he couldn't officially support such a resolution until he knew the actual business, intentions and make-up of the convention.

Innovations In Sound

You've probably never thought of your car as an ideal stereo listening studio. Well, it is! The minute you sit in your stereo equipped auto, you're blanketed in thrilling sound. You'll witness an entirely new perspective in stereo listening; a richness in stereophony and realism of sound reproduction that has never before been possible. Now, with stereo tape cartridges, whether you listen in your car, home, boat, plane or trailer you enjoy an unparalleled sound sensation... crisp clarity and maximum fidelity, superior craftsmanship... and a wealth of music for every taste from Broadway to The Beatles, from current hits to classical.

Stereo cartridges are carefully engineered to afford maximum reliability and convenience of operation.

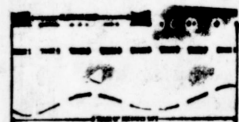

1. You never have to thread or even touch the tape.

2. You may change from one stereo program to another with the press of a button.

3. Tapes are continuous and never need rewinding.

4. With a minimum of care, the playing life of the tape is practically unlimited.

What is four-track and eight-track stereo tape? Within the 1/4-inch tape width, music is recorded on four or eight parallel tracks which run the length of the tape. Two tracks play simultaneously and produce true stereo sound. Standard tapes provide up to 40 minutes of continuous music. Twin cartridges up to 80 minutes.

How does a tape cartridge work? Stereo cartridges contain a tape in a continuous loop, which simply means that the tape runs from the center of the spool and is returned to the outer lap of the reel. Thus, never needs re-winding. Inserting the cartridge into the tape playback unit is probably as easy as replacing your cigarette lighter in the dash.

Seeing is believing, however, and perhaps the least expensive method for you to experience the unusual convenience engineered into a stereo tape is to visit a dealer and ask for a demonstration.

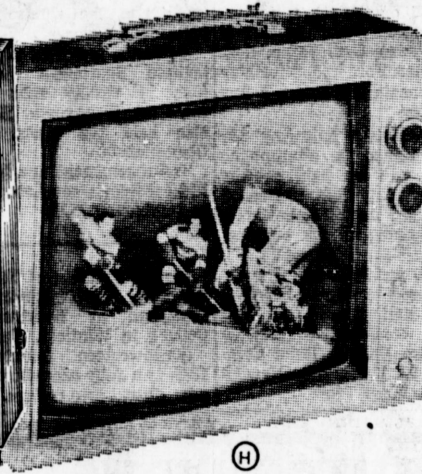

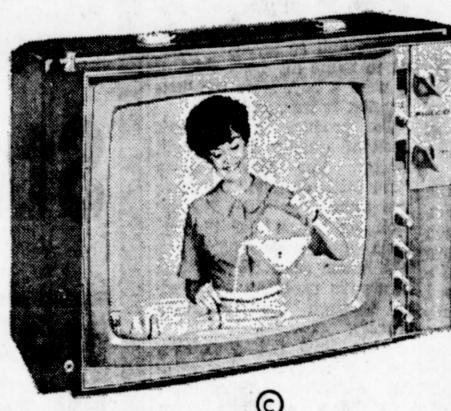

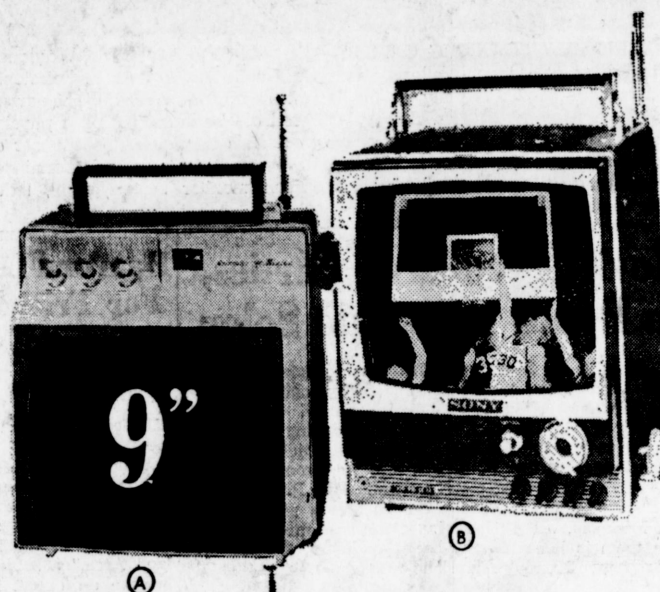

Realizing that stereo tapes are here to stay, Lechmere Sales of Cambridge and Dedham is now compiling substantial stocks. This forward-looking record dealer and department store devoted exclusively to providing the consumer with even a larger and more complete musical selection than previously realized with the more traditional record album departments.

Long recognized as a retailing leader and innovator, Lechmere now features perhaps the largest selection of stereo tape cartridges in New England. It's a certainty that a visit to either Lechmere in Cambridge or Dedham will prove a most rewarding musical experience.

Miss Joanne Nawfel Weds Mr. George Moses 3rd

Gladioli and carnations decorated the altar of St. George Syrian Orthodox Church in Boston for the recent marriage of Miss Joanne Sarah Nawfel to George Moses 3rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Nawfel of Newton and Mr. and Mrs. George Moses of Roslindale are the couple's parents.

The Rev. George George and the Rev. Vulpas of Holyoke officiated at the 3 o'clock nuptials. A reception was held at the Maridor in Framingham.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's white gown was designed with a sabrina neckline and long sleeves. The smartly styled skirt terminated in a full chapel-length train.

An open pill box cap of similar lace was fastened with her full length sheer illusion veil. Her bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis was centered with a single orchid.

The maid of honor was Miss Katherine Anthony of Newton. Miss Isabel Scichlone of Needham, Miss Deborah Khoury of Hyde Park, Miss Philomena Maloof and Miss Barbara Moses, both of Roslindale, were bridesmaids.

Michael George of Roslindale served as best man. John Nawfel of Newton, brother of the bride, David Aboud, Fred Bethoney and Nicholas Mazares, all of West Roxbury, were the ushers.

After a trip to Florida and Nassau, Mr. and Mrs. Moses will live in Norwood.

SYDELLE GOMBERG

USSR Tour Thrill For Newtonite

Sydelle Gomberg, ballet teacher of the All Newton Music School, has returned from a trip to Russia this past summer with her husband Ralph, principal oboe player with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. She is still excited remembering the classes she saw at the Kirov Ballet School in Leningrad.

In ballet, perhaps more than in any of the other arts, the craft is passed on from teacher to pupil. In the Kirov library Mrs. Gomberg was shown a display table of photographs of Pierre Vladimiroff, a partner of Pavlova, one of her teachers at the American School of Ballet. The observations of the classes at the Kirov school will be passed on to her students at the All Newton Music School.

Most schools will not show their beginning classes but Mrs. Gomberg received permission from the Kirov director to see the beginners and to take their pictures.

Born in Boston, Mrs. Gomberg danced as Sydelle Sylowna in "Lute Song" with Mary Martin and Yul Brynner, and in the Metropolitan Opera and Radio City Music Hall Companies.

Lieut. Bars

David G. Shapiro of 163 Oliver Rd., Waban, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas.

Shapiro, who was graduated from Newton High School, entered the Air Force after graduation from Emerson College.

Patricia Sheehan Is Bride Of Mr. Ronald DesRoches

Our Lady of Presentation Church, Brighton, was the setting for the recent wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Sheehan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Sheehan of Newton, to Mr. Ronald Robert DesRoches, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Armstrong of 32 High street, Needham.

Rev. William Calter officiated at the double ring ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Holiday Inn in Auburndale.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory peau de soie and Chantilly lace. The empire bodice, ornamented with lace and pearls, had a batteau neckline, and lace trimmed the Kabuki sleeves. The A-line skirt, bordered in lace, had a detachable court train applied with lace.

Her two-tiered elbow-length veil of ivory heath illusion fell from a high pillbox of lace and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, ivy and stephanotis.

Mrs. Elaine McGovern of Watertown was her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Charlene Armstrong of Needham, sister of the bridegroom; Sandra Howard of New Jersey, Marilyn Murphy of Newton, and Teresa Gillen of Brighton.

Serving as his brother's best man was Mr. Raymond DesRoches of Needham, while ushers included Mr. Richard Grasso and Mr. Bruce Hanke, of Needham; Mrs. Joseph Gillen of Brighton and Mr. Thomas McGovern of Watertown. Honorary usher was the bride's brother, Mr. Richard Sheehan, who is now serving in Vietnam.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, the couple will reside in Newton.

SHE LENDS A HAND—Miss Lucy R. Needleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Needleman, 80 Puritan Rd., Waban, a junior at Lake Forest College, is shown as she assisted during Freshmen Registration. Lucy helped plan various New Student Week activities. She is a 1965 graduate of Newton South High School.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Sweden's Ingmar Bergman has changed the title of the new movie from "Dreams of Shame" to "The Shame."

National Honor Won By Temple

Temple Mishkan Tefila of Newton will be honored at the National Convention of the United Synagogue of America at Lake Kiamasha, N.Y. from Nov. 12-16.

The Temple will be presented the coveted 1966 Solomon Schechter Award for its religious education program, according to president Melvin B. Miller.

The religious school of Temple Mishkan Tefila contains three departments: Pre-Hebrew and High School. After two years in Pre-Hebrew classes, the child at the age of eight enters the Hebrew School for a six year course and from there moves on into the High School for three years of study.

A post graduate class also is provided in the High School which offers graduates an added year of study.

Lee Loumos Says:

Lately, there seems to be a plethora of newspaper and magazine articles on the so-called high cost of service, whereas in reality I believe you get more for your dollar in repair service than in anything else except for isolated cases where chicanery may be involved. If the service industry operates on the same cost scales as the major union corporations or utilities you could well expect to pay two or three times more and over, and even then get slower service. Every time the dollar is devalued by whatever means, prices have to rise, and from this point of view the servicing industry is far behind the national trend. Every time a union contract is negotiated, like the recent Ford Motor Company settlement, which may result in higher prices, the effect would eventually reach all areas of the economy. So please don't think unfairly of your small repair cost. There is a lot more to the iceberg of charges than appears above the water.

The marriage of Miss Jean Frances Conley to John Nelson McIntyre took place recently at St. Theresa's Church, West Roxbury.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edward P. Conley of 211 Corey street, West Roxbury, and the late Mr. Conley. Mr. and Mrs. Francis McIntyre of Jamaica Plain are the groom's parents.

Mr. James Conley of West Roxbury escorted his sister, who wore a silk face peau de soie and re-embroidered Alencon lace gown. The molded bodice had a portrait neckline and elbow-length sleeves.

A silk illusion veil was fastened to a becoming lace cap. She carried a cascade of phalaenopsis orchids with stephanotis.

Miss Kathleen M. Conley of West Roxbury was her sister's honor maid. Miss Cheryl A. Keller of Roslindale, Miss Joanne O'Leary of Mattapan, Miss Ellen Hominsky of Hyde Park and Mrs. Michael Nesbit of North Carolina were bridesmaids.

Francis J. McIntyre of Jamaica Plain served as best man for his brother. Ushering were Kevin Conley of West Roxbury, brother of the groom, John Schreiber of Dedham, Lawrence Burke of Roslindale, Robert McDonnell of Chestnut Hill and Dr. Michael Nesbit of North Carolina and Peter Fitzgerald of Westboro.

After a reception at the Longwood Towers in Brookline, Mr. McIntyre and his bride left on a trip to Puerto Rico.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

FLAMINGO, Fla. (UPI)—In the early 1900s, visitors here found overnight accommodations at "Roberts Hotel," a rickety two-story affair with four bedrooms upstairs for regular or transient roomers and boarders. When business boomed, mattresses were thrown on the floor of the converted home.

Today, Flamingo on the tip of Florida's subtropical toe, boasts a modern motel as well as housekeeping cottages that are part of the recreational complex within Everglades National Park.

STICK-FISHERMAN

A British Scout stunned the fish with the stick an hour before the lake was opened for fishing. Before most Scouts were up, he was back in camp, cooking his catch.

'Black Power' Defined By Speaker Here

The question of black militancy was one of many issues discussed openly and frankly at the "Consultation on Race" held at Xavierian Brothers High School last weekend. Chukuma Uzodima, chairman of the South End Manpower Corporation and also director of Soulsville, an Afro-American self-help organization, read a statement defining Black Power to the afternoon session of the conference. The text was as follows:

"Black power means having a voice where decisions are made, being present where policy is determined and having that presence effective. Black power means having a place in the State Department behind an African desk, as well as a European desk; or being present when and if the Secretary of State announces the decision directing the CIA to overthrow an Nkrumah: to be able to say No and make that No stick.

"Black power involves being present, not only waiting on tables, but being waited on also. Black power means everything for people who are black, that white power means for people who are white. Black power means the right to be present in the smoke filled back rooms when and where presidents, governors, mayors, sheriffs, judges, and tax collectors are being picked. Being present right there and participating, to me, means black power, and if black people aren't where the Afro is in the vote nowhere.

"Black power means, in places in the South especially, where the Afro is in their voting majority, say two to one, five to one, we should be able to elect an Afro mayor, an Afro sheriff, or a white one if we want to, for that matter. This then, would indeed be a democracy, one in which majority rules, this and much, much more has been denied us for too long. We want it now!! If it takes black power to get it for us, then black power it is.

"Black power means having a voice in policy making at the top of organized labor. These are the things that every white man has as his birthright. All of these things are in our grasp if we only intelligently utilize black power. "If attaining these goals by the use of black power to some of us means black death, well, hell, let's have death. What we as a people are getting isn't worth passing on to our children. Black power means if I go, a whole lot of other people are going with me, or soon thereafter. "No never must the Afro talk about fighting for his rights. That is violence. Everyone else can be violent but the Afro! ET ET ET ET ET mustn't be violent even in resisting violence. Even the son of God all mighty was once violent in the Temple when he drove out the money changers. This is the only instance where I'm told that I can't be like him. Black power is designed to change all that and some.

"What black power really means is subject to as many interpretations as there are people trying to define it. Everyone must decide for himself what black power means to him. As for me, well, I'm for it all the way!!

"These are some of the things it means to me and all those similarly situated. Black power also means the right to seek and hold public office according to my worth and ability, from county surveyor to the President of the United States. Black power means having the right to participate at every level of the American Dream."

Keith Gordon, 305 Commonwealth avenue, Newton is in his freshman year at Bryant & Stratton Jr. College, Boston. He will major in management.

PLAN BARN DANCE—Mrs. Aaron Ryback, vice president, seated, and Mrs. Arnold Seigel, health chairman, of Hancock Chapter Women's American ORT, both of Newton, are working on plans for Barn Dance to be held Nov. 4th. Mrs. Ryback also is Honor Roll chairman.

Marriage Mill's Business Booms

DENISON, TEX. (UPI) — A sign on a house just north of the Texas border in Oklahoma offers "Drive-In Marriages."

The owner of the house, Rev. J. T. Harmon, said, "when the new highway opened we had to do something."

One principal business in this area is matrimony — some 2,500 to 3,000 marriages a year are performed north of Denison — and business has never been better. Most of the weddings are for Texans.

Texas couples seem to like this area of Oklahoma because of the ease with which out-of-state couples can get a license after hours.

Customers from the Dallas-Fort Worth area and points north often make the trip, get married, and return home the same evening.

One justice of the peace, Ross Beal Nix, said he once performed 25 ceremonies in 24 hours.

Jose Ferrer and Rosemary Cloney drove to Bryan County from Dallas to get married. Nix said he was set to perform the ceremonies for Marina Oswald and Kenneth Porter before reporters found out they were in the area. The couple went back to Texas.

When a couple stop at one of the marriage mills, they are first taken to a nearby clinic for a blood test, then to the home of Court Clerk Clark Grimes for a license. Witnesses are also supplied if the couple do not have their own.

THREE-TIME LIGHTNING

HEATHSVILLE, ILL. (UPI) — The Thomas P. Kents have heard the old saw about lightning striking the same place twice. Would you believe three times?

The Kents' hilltop home west of here was struck recently by lightning, the third time within a year that a bolt has damaged the house.

NEW YORK (UPI) — There seems to be a high correlation between permissive sexual activity and mental illness among coeds, says a University of Wisconsin psychiatrist.

Experiences associated with being promiscuous are stressful, Dr. Seymour L. Halleck explained in a university report. Society, in addition, imposes social stresses upon the promiscuous girl. It was reported these are sufficiently painful to drive the coed to mental illness.

New Director For Barber-Shop Singers

The Newton-Wellesley Chapter of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. Inc. (Society for the preservation and encouragement of barbershop quartet singing in America, Inc.) announces that a new director has been obtained, to lead the chapter.

He is Wally Cluett, formerly of the "Celebra-Keys" of Arlington, and in the last few years with the very prominent "Cross Country Men", (who were Northeast champs in 1963, and international finalists in 1964)

Now on the faculty of the Northeast district Harmony Education program, Mr. Cluett is also a teacher of Commercial Art at the Wayland High School, and lives in Waltham. He has been a member of the Boston Chapter of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. for several years.

The recent director, Bill Childs, found that the pressure of business prevented his carrying on in that position, and therefore had to resign.

The chapter also has two assistant directors. One is a former president, Bob Morrison, and the other is: Dick Naas, a member of "The Four Scores" quartet, from Canton.

The Chapter meets every Monday night at 8 p.m., at the Unitarian Church Parish Hall in Wellesley Hills, and the welcome mat is out for any and all men who like to sing the old songs. For information call: 332-7103 (Joe Sheehan) or 235-4823 (Jim Lytle).

Professor Albert R. Thayer, Faculty Advisor to the Bowdoin Debate Council, cordially invited the public to attend the debate. The teams will compete for $100 in prizes with top award of $60 for the winning team and a second prize of $40 for the runners-up. The Achorn Prize, established in 1932 by Edgar O. Professor Thayer, Bowdoin's Harrison King McCann Professor of Oral Communication in the Department of English, and Billy W. Reed, Instructor in Speech, are faculty advisors for the contest.

Parnell Amazing; Signore Great As Newton South Roms to Fifth

By LEW FREEDMAN

The Newton South football team, the number one rated team in class B, romped to their fifth consecutive win, 22-12, over Lexington.

The Lions were without two of their starters, star halfback, George Tsiumus, and guard Ned McDonald. However, Coach George Winkler came up with more than able substitutes in the persons of Nick Parnell and Frank Signore. Parnell was simply amazing.

Lexington scored early on an 80 yard run from scrimmage, then Parnell went to work. He burst over from the five to tie the game and cap a Lion 67 yard drive. Quarterback Tommy Rezzuti passed to Danny Mendelson for a two-point conversion and South was ahead for keeps. The score remained 6-6 through the rest of the first half.

The Lions took the opening kick-off in the second half and marched 65 yards for a touchdown. Parnell again bulled his way over from the five yard line. Lexington then scored their final touchdown of the game on a short run. Parnell scored his third touchdown in the fourth period to cap off another long Lion drive. Lou DiFazio caught Rezzuti's pass for the PAT and the final Lion points of the afternoon.

In all, Parnell rolled up 121

Moore Promoted By Carter Co.

Thomas A. Moore of Waban has been promoted to chief accountant at the William Carter Company in Needham. Moore, who has been associated with Carter's since 1953, became cost accounting manager in 1963 and assistant chief accountant in 1965. He lives at 46 Hinckley Rd., with his wife and four children. He is at present continuing his studies in the Babson Institute evening program.

Paul J. Silverman of 284 Mt. Vernon St., Newton, has been elected treasurer of the University of Massachusetts Student Senate for the 1967-68 school year. Silverman is a junior at the Amherst branch of the University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Silverman.

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI)—Of the 37 returning football lettermen at Alabama this season, 11 were starters last year, either offense or defense.

yards in 25 carries. Quarterback Rezzuti threw only four passes, completing two, as he relied heavily on his ground game.

The Lions, now 5-0, will entertain Leominster in their next encounter, day after tomorrow, at Dickinson stadium, Newton.

The Newton South soccer team split two decisions this week. The Lions won their second game of the year, on Tuesday, as they defeated Watertown, for the second time this season, 1-0. Dave Burmon was superb in the nets, turning away everything hit in his direction. Bruce Cornblatt scored the South goal.

The defeat came at the hands of a powerful Lincoln-Sudbury team, 2-1, as the Lions played a top-notch game. Richard Primack scored the goal for the Lions in the third period to tie the game and send it into overtime, where the Lions lost it.

Tigers Top Arlington 7-0 In Rugged Saturday Clash

Newton High combined an impregnable defense with a two-yard touchdown plunge by quarterback Reggie Benn to give the Tigers a hard-fought 7 to 0 victory over favored Arlington High, Saturday at Dickinson Stadium. The Tiger defensive unit, while giving up 187 yards, was immense once the Spy Ponders got in scoring territory.

Newton posted the only tally of the game the first time they had the ball in the first period. The touchdown drive started at the Arlington 37-yard line following a Spy Ponder punt. Six runs by sophomore Bob Wargin and a jarring 30-yard scamper by fullback Robbie Cohen set up a third down at Arlington's 16. On third down Benn hit end John Quigley for a first down at the five-yard stripe.

With a fourth down and two yards for a touchdown Benn, on a keeper, went over right guard for six points. Quigley booted the extra point and Newton had the winning margin.

The second stanza saw the emergence of junior safetyman Ron Arcese as the defensive player of the game. The first of his three touchdown-saving plays came following a fumble recovery by Arlington at the Tiger 38-yard line. On a third down play from the 13, Arcese darted in front of the Arlington pass receiver and made the key interception.

Two plays after the touchdown a Wargin fumble gave the hard-hitting Spy Ponders a first down at Newton's 22 with 1:34 left in the half. On the second play from scrimmage, Arcese made a leaping deflection of a Dave O'Leary pass in the end zone to nullify an apparent touchdown. Arlington managed to penetrate the four-yard line, but an intentional grounding penalty sent them back to the nine with time for only one more play in the half. It was here that Arcese made the play of the game. O'Leary threw a screen pass to his halfback and Arcese was the only defender between the Spy Ponder and paydirt. The two met head on at the two-yard line and Ron won the battle, dropping the foe at the one. With a sigh of relief the first half ended.

Early in the third stanza a determined Arlington team set up another scoring opportunity. After taking over possession at the Newton 48, O'Leary twice teamed up with end Charlie McCann for a first down inside the Newton 10. Two plays brought Arlington to the three-yard stripe with third down facing them. Here the Tiger defense, led by John Piselli, Robbie Cohen, Bob Sweeney, Mike Mannix, and Joe Picariello gave up no yardage on two plunges into the line.

Next it was the offensive line's turn to show their might. Taking over at the three, the unit consisting of Mark Hoffman, Bob Snyder, Bill Andersen, Gary Genovese, and Picariello continually opened holes for Cohen and Bill Gardner. In ten carries the pair brought the Tigers to the Spy Ponder 28 where an interception ended the drive.

Israeli Singer Luncheon Guest

Mrs. Hyman Schatz of 1490 Centre street, Newton, is accepting reservations for a "Salute to Israel" special guests luncheon on Nov. 1 at Temple Israel, Boston.

Mrs. Shulamith Neiman, who recently returned from her native Israel, will sing songs of many lands at the meeting being sponsored by the Sisterhood of Temple Israel.

Pee Wee Hockey Hopefuls Advised To Sign At Once

Boys between the ages of 9 and 12 who wish to play Pee Wee hockey are urged to pick up applications at Newton City Hall Recreation Department immediately to be returned as soon as possible.

The Recreation Department is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m. The first scheduled session is planned for Saturday morning, November 25 for two hours. The time will be announced later. This session will be held at the M.D.C. Riley Memorial Rink, Cleveland Circle.

All boys will be assigned to teams and will be issued jerseys. Boys should bring their own personal equipment.

A total of six hours per week of ice time has been allotted to the Pee Wee program. This program is conducted by the Newton Hockey Association in cooperation with the recreation department of Newton.

The need for early registration is very important. Parents and boys interested in Pee Wee Hockey must understand that much planning and coordination have to go into a successful program long before the actual training begins on November 25. The program will run through March, 1968.

A charge of $5 per boy will be assessed as part of the expense for ice time and equipment must be borne by the participants.

"Wrong Way" Twins Are Cross Country Feature

By LEW FREEDMAN

The Newton South cross-country team dropped both of their dual meets this week, to Arlington, at the Arlington course, 21-34, and to Medford, 25-34, on the home Mount Ida course.

Co-captains Dave Whitney and Jeff Davis paced the Medford race, finishing one, two. Whitney's fantastic 13:40 for the 2.6 mile course set the Newton South record. Not far behind Whitney was Jeff Davis who ran his best time ever at 13:51.

Medford, however, captured the next six places, as the next Lion finisher was Dave Williams at 15:08 in 9th. Fred Kaye was next in tenth place with a 15:10, then the final Medford runner straggled in. The fifth Lion placer was perennial third place finisher Rick Levin who came up with a cramp. His time 15:28 was far below his normal pace. Places 13, 14, 15, 16, and 17 also went to the Lions.

Henry Erlich, 15:38, Mike Donnelly, 15:53, Lew Freedman, 15:56, Bruce Kopelman, 16:25, and Rich Aron, 16:30 were the other South finishers.

The Lions did not run a bad race, in fact, it was a very fast race, but second place Medford proved too strong.

In their other meet of the week, the Lions were tripped up by Arlington. This was due to an unfortunate incident. Dave Whitney and Jeff Davis, South's, one, two runners, running on the confusing, complicated Arlington course took a wrong turn and got lost. "Wrong - way" Whitney and "Detour" Davis, as they have since been named, were so far in front of the pack on the unfamiliar course that when they made their mistake, there was no-one to call to them to correct it. By the time they made their way back to the course most of the runners were in. Of the seventeen runners, Whitney finished fifteenth and Davis seventeenth. It was calculated that they ran an extra 1/2 mile at least, and

Newton Women To Attend DAR Boston Meeting

The Massachusetts Society, Daughters of America Colonists will hold the first meeting of this season on October 27th in the Lenox Hotel, Heritage Suite.

Members attending will enjoy a luncheon and an unusual program, Massachusetts Torchbearers, written by the State Historian, Mrs. Calvin E. Wilcox of Dedham, who has recorded the deeds of the early ancestors of many members in poetry.

These include Elder Brewster, John Alden, Jonathan Fairbanks, and others. The poem which begins with the couplet: "Our ancestor, like the Greek runners of old Have handed us the torch with liberty enscrolled" will be accompanied by the music of Mr. Nelson Ash, organist and pianist.

Mrs. H. Wilcox Cimen, Massachusetts State Regent, will preside at the Board Meeting which is scheduled to be at 11:15 a.m. and at the business meeting which will follow the program.

Among those planning to attend from the Newton area will be Mrs. Leslie W. Irwin, Honorary State Regent, and Mrs. Harry Walen, Massachusetts Chairman of National Awards.

Recently members of the Massachusetts Society participated in a wreath-laying ceremony at the Daughters of American Colonists marker at the Fairbanks House in Dedham and viewed the ceremony held at the site of the First Free School in Dedham during which time Miss Jean Irwin of Newton laid a wreath on this marker in behalf of First Free School Society, CAR.

Dave Hoover In Record 2.7 Mile In School Meet

Led by Dave Hoover the Newton High School Tigers ate up Everett's Crimson Tide 15-44 as the senior cracked the school record for 2.7 mile course, Friday, Oct. 20, at Newton.

Hoover ran 13:43, breaking senior Bill Tomb's record of 13:47 set this year against Newton South.

Close behind Hoover were four Newton Harriers to round out the scoring in the shut out. They were Capt. Bob Tennant, Bill Tomb, Doug Tomb, and Jeff Hyman.

The meet was highlighted by picture taking for the yearbook, the cheerleaders, and the 45 degree weather.

This triumph brought the Cats record to 5-2 overall, and 4-1 in league action, their next meet is scheduled for today against Medford.

Unbeaten Newton Patriots Face Tough Foe This Week

The Newton Patriots face their strongest opponent of this season this weekend when they play host to Arlington this Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at the Newton Highlands Playground.

Both teams, Newton and Arlington, are undefeated to date, and are top contenders for the state championship of the Junior Midget Division of the Pop Warner Football League.

Last weekend Newton defeated Wayland 12-0 in a tough-fought defensive battle. Newton scored in the first period as Bob Babbitt went over tackle from the four yard line.

In the fourth period Newton quarterback (Bob Kinsella, climaxed a long drive by scoring from the one yard line.

Coach, Nick Pasquarosa, Patriots team has lost only one game over the past three seasons and has six consecutive victories this year. The key to Newton's success, according to Coach Pasquarosa, is the defensive team which has allowed only three touchdowns so far this season.

Torturing Dogs To Test Football Headgear!

Save Us from experimental cruelties such as that reported below.

A report entitled "Evaluation of the Protective Characteristics of Helmets in Sports" (Journal of Trauma, May 1964) tells how dogs weighing between 22 and 60 pounds were subjected by university doctors and scientists to repeated and severe blows on the head by a rotary hammer driven by compressed air in a study of protection afforded football players by helmets.

The experimenters reported that the merciless blows were repeated at ten to twenty minute intervals. One dog was stated to have received 14 blows.

The Journal report showed shocking pictures of two dogs with their heads under the power operated machine for blows on their exposed scalps.

Nembutal, a hypnotic or tranquilizer—not an anaesthetic—was used. In any case, imagine the condition of these pathetic victims of cruelty following their ordeal. And judge for yourselves the kind of men who would commit such atrocities.

This report may be checked and read in full detail at the Countway Medical Library, 10 Shattuck St. in Boston, and doubtless elsewhere.

Girl Exemplifies Real Ecumenism

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Sue Brandt, 17, a Lutheran, broke some of the barriers to ecumenism so she could join a Catholic organization.

Miss Brandt, of suburban Florissant, was invited to a party for orphans, sponsored by the Catholic St. Vincent de Paul Society. She wanted to join and do her part. But "joining" wasn't easy.

She had to be approved by a vote of the membership and by the local counselor of the society before she became the first Protestant in the local society and one of the few non-Catholic members of the group throughout the world.

"I think they knew I was sincere, they voted to let me join," she said.

Miss Brandt, of her experience within the Catholic organization, said: "I began to understand and respect parts of their religion which had only been words to me before."

"I feel that since we all want to help people, religion should be no barrier."

Mark Apple Week With A Spicy Topped Coffee Cake

By LYNN MARSHALL

(Norfolk County Extension) Fill the fruitbowl with crisp, juicy, fragrant apples and put apple dishes of all kinds in the menu because it's time to celebrate National Apple Week, a traditional harvest season occasion.

Northeasters this year have especially good reason to eat plenty of apples. Favorable weather turned out a fine apple crop in the Eastern States. Although the nation's 123.7 million bushel crop is below last year, eastern growers expect to harvest much more apples than in 1966.

All the popular apple varieties will be abundant in the weeks ahead and they'll be at their tops in quality and flavor . . . meaning that wonderful tree-fresh quality and flavor that makes apples deliciously tempting now. You'll find lots of McIntosh, Red and Golden Delicious, Dutchess, Staymen and Wealthy apples, varieties for every purpose from eating out-of-hand to baking and cooking.

Surprise the family now with some special apple treats. Bake an apple pie, apple tarts, or apple pastries. Serve gingerbread topped with apple sauce. Make baked apples filled with cranberry sauce. Include unpeeled Golden and Red Delicious apples in a fruit salad. Add grated fresh apple to the dressing for coleslaw and include some sliced apples, too.

Serve Apple Cheesewiches—sandwiches made by placing a thin slice of American cheese on a slice of bread, then a layer of thinly sliced apple, another layer of cheese and a top layer of bread. Butter the outside of the sandwich and toast slowly in a sandwich grill or on a griddle, turning so that both sides brown and the cheese melts.

Other types of apple sandwiches make real hits, too. Combine apples with fish, ham, sausage, chicken, or different kinds of cheeses. They make a good luncheon or at home luncheon or snacktime dish.

Why not try your hand at baking? This is just the time of year to do it. Here's a recipe for Apple Coffee Cake that smells as good while baking, as it tastes and that's plenty good:

1 cup pancake mix
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup finely diced, peeled fresh apple
1/2 cup oil or melted butter
1/2 cup milk
1 egg

TO PREPARE: Combine pancake mix, sugar and apples in a bowl. Beat oil, milk and egg together; add to dry ingredients; blend well. Pour into a buttered 8-inch square cake pan. Sprinkle spicy topping (see recipe below) on batter. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25-30 minutes. Serve warm.

SPICY TOPPING: Mix 1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1/4 cup pancake mix, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons soft butter and 1/4 cup chopped nuts together in a bowl. Blend until appearance of coarse meal; sprinkle on batter.

CURRENT PLENTIFULS: Apples, Broiler-fryers, Shrimp, Rice, Orange Juice, and Potatoes.

Artifacts of a primitive man dating back about 25,000 years were found in Sandia Cave, 25 miles northeast of Albuquerque, N. M.

Cattle Driving For Recreation

CHICO, Calif. (UP)—Elwin Roney has instituted the trail drive of the Old West in his cattle business.

Roney says it's cheaper to use the system to move his 600 cows and calves from this Sacramento Valley community to the Lassen County summer range than it is to use trucks.

Although he is a sharp businessman, he realizes the cattle drive has more to offer than just a way to cut operating costs. He has taken advantage of the excitement and romance to invite paying guests to come along and enjoy a last taste of yesteryear cattle-punching.

Guests pay to make the drive and help Roney's cowboys keep the stock moving at a 10-mile-a-day pace for the 110-mile ride.

"To get into this business you have to like people," Roney said. "That's pretty important. If you don't, then the recreation business will never be a success."

He said his paying guests range from airline pilots and nurses to engineers and other professional people.

They appear to welcome the chance to get away from telephones and radios and spend anywhere from a day to a week in the saddle, urging cows and calves through the California mountains, he said.

Garlic Crackers

Make your own garlic crackers to serve with cheese spread. Combine 2 cups of pancake mix with 1/4 teaspoon of garlic power. Cut in 1/2 cup of shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add 1/2 cup of milk; stir until blended. Turn out on lightly floured board; knead gently a few seconds. Roll to 1/8-inch thickness; cut with floured 2-inch round cutter. Place on ungreased cookie sheet; prick with fork. Bake in preheated 425-degree oven 6 to 8 minutes. Makes 5 dozen.

Chad Maxner and Jonathan Melick, two Boy Scouts of Troop 250, Oak Hill park, received the highest honor in Scouting, the Eagle Scout Award, at the Court of Honor held Friday, October 20th in Memorial School.

At the ceremony Amos Kent, Norumbega Council advancement chairman, made the presentation to Chad Jonathan Maxner, Jr., R. "Soupy" Campbell, Eagle Scout, former Scoutmaster of Troop No. 11, and long-time friend of the Melick family, made the presentation to Jonathan Melick.

He, too, was at Hidden Valley summers and earned the "mile swim" badge. In '65 he received the Junior Leader Training Certificate; in '66, the Nobscot Guide; in '66, the God and Country Award, another Nobscot Guide; and in '67 the Order of the Arrow, the National Honor Camper Society.

Judge Yesley Welcomes District Court Interns

The Newton District Court is participating in the Harvard Student District Attorney Project, a unique program in which students learn the professional responsibilities of prosecutors.

Presiding Justice Julian L. Yesley explains that under a recent rule of the state Supreme Court, law students in their senior year are permitted to prosecute criminal cases in district courts under the supervision of the local district attorney.

The project was inaugurated through the initiative of Prof. Livingston Hall of the Harvard Law School assisted by grants from federal and professional agencies.

The innovation in criminal and legal education was introduced into Newton District Court as a result of the cooperation of Judge Yesley, Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas, Middlesex County Atty. John J. Droney and Newton Police Capt. John N. McMullen, prosecuting officer for the Newton police.

In addition to participating in the program the seven selected students also will take a course at Harvard Law School given by Prof. Hall on "Professional Responsibility of the Prosecution."

Judge Yesley has hopes that through this project students will have the opportunity of learning first hand the prosecution, an area which many observers believe has not been emphasized as much as that of the defense.

Court attaches say that in Capt. McMullen the students will have as a mentor a prosecutor of long experience and an officer acknowledged to be one of the most able police prosecutors in the state.

Newton High Students Are Selected For Chorus Parts

Seven singers from Newton High School have been selected for the 1968 Northeast District Chorus comprised of high school students from Middlesex and Essex counties. On October 4th, these seven vocalists auditioned along with several others from Newton High School at Lexington High School.

Chosen for the chorus were: Lindsey Henes, sophomore, soprano; Joanne Barres, junior, alto; Steven Peries, junior, bass; Barbara Case, senior, soprano; Sue Hurray, senior, alto; Mary Jo Carr, senior, alto; and Clifford Orent, senior, tenor.

Participation in the District concert is the second highest statewide achievement possible for high school musicians. The Massachusetts All-State Concert is held later in the spring and two Newton High students, Mary Jo Carr, and Clifford Orent, have been selected to audition for the All-State Chorus.

Miss Henes of Newtonville, was a student at the F. A. Day Jr. High School and is presently in Beals House. Her musical experience includes the All-City Troubadours, the A Capella Choir, and the Day orchestra.

Miss Barres is a graduate of the Bigelow Jr. High School,
